GEN. ASHBURN IS FORCED TO QUIT WATERWAYS JOB

Hopkins Gives Post to Lame Duck.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins was revealed today as having forced the resignation of Maj. Gen. Thomas Q. Ashburn from his post as president and chairman of the executive board of the Inland Waterways corporation, which operates the government barge transportation system in the Mississippi river and connecting waterways.

Maj. Gen. Ashburn [top] and Secretary Hopkins.

Gen. Ashburn, a distinguished soldier and engineer, suggested creation of the corporation and has headed it since 1924. From an organization with an annual average deficit of more than $1,000,000 in the years 1920 to 1924, Ashburn converted it into the only agency under government control which makes money. It has, at present, a $10,000,000 reserve for new equipment when needed.

Fired Without Prelude.

Gen. Ashburn was called in yesterday without warning and told by Assistant Secretary of Commerce J. Monroe Johnson to present his resignation immediately. Johnson was acting under orders from Secretary Hopkins, it was learned. After Ashburn had acquiesced, Chester Thompson of Rock Island, Ill., a Democratic lame-duck congressman, who was beaten in the 1938 election, was named to succeed him.

Ashburn today explained why he was forced to quit. He issued the following formal statement.

"There was a constant serious disagreement of policy, ever since transfer of the corporation to the department of commerce, as to whether the Inland Waterway corporation should continue to operate as a privately owned corporation, as provided by law, or was to become a bureau of the department of commerce.

"I was asked for my resignation and I was very glad to give it."

Transferred in July.

The corporation had been under jurisdiction of the war department until last July, when it was transferred to the commerce department under one of President Roosevelt's government reorganization orders.

Assistant Secretary Johnson denied Gen. Ashburn's charge that the commerce department was trying to run the corporation as one of its bureaus, rather than as a private corporation as called for by law.

"The corporation is to be run just like congress said it should—just like a privately owned concern—to see if water transportation can be profitable," he said.

Johnson indicated that Ashburn's ouster was an outgrowth of a clash of personalities, rather than a disagreement over policies. Within 24 hours after the waterways corporation had been transferred to the department of commerce, Hopkins had ruled that Gen. Ashburn must be removed, it was reported authoritatively.

Pays Him High Tribute.

Johnson paid tribute to Gen. Ashburn, saying that the retired army officer had built up a fine transportation system.

"But Secretary Hopkins and I thought the corporation needed a little rejuvenation," he said. "The only reason Gen. Ashburn's resignation was not demanded earlier was that the secretary was waiting to find the right man for the job."

It is understood that the Mississippi Valley association was asked to recommend candidates for Ashburn's place, and that former Representative Thompson's name was one of those suggested. He has been active in waterways development and a regional director of the association. Thompson's appointment, therefore, has the approval of this organization, which is interested in the development of inland waterway transportation.

The Mississippi Valley association has opposed the Wheeler bill, now pending in congress, which would give the railroad minded Interstate

REVEAL ILLINOIS DEMOCRAT LEVY FOR SLUSH FUND

Civil Service Group Hears Charges.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 15.—The inside story of the levy on state civil service employés in the collection of Democratic campaign slush funds was revealed today in a hearing ordered and conducted by the Illinois civil service commission.

During the hearing, which ended with a warning by W. Emery Lancaster, commission chairman, against illegal practices, the commission was told the following:

1. That William J. Walsh, who runs the patronage office of Gov. Henry Horner's administration, hired two of three solicitors who took slush fund contributions from the state employés.
2. That the solicitors told state employés: Gov. Horner can not campaign on his salary alone.
3. That F. Lynden Smith, director of the state department of public works and buildings, signed the checks with which the solicitors were paid.
4. That A. L. Bowen, director of the state department of public welfare, who already is in trouble before a Kankakee county grand jury as a result of a typhoid epidemic which took 53 lives at the Manteno state hospital, threw open the gates of public institutions to the solicitors.
5. That state employés were told to appear before the solicitors when the latter called at their places of employment, and that the solicitors did the rest.

Violation of State Law.

Early in the hearing it was established that civil service employés, as well as unclassified pay rollers, were solicited on the grounds of the institutions in which they worked, which is in violation of the state law.

Just what these employés were told by the solicitors was a disputed point. An investigator for the Civil Service Protective association testified he heard one collector say that if contributions were not made, the employés "would be taken care of." The collectors themselves insisted they made no such covert threats.

State Officials Warned.

Chairman Lancaster's warning was directed at state officials.

"This commission," the chairman said, "is not going to place its stamp of approval on any practice that is a violation of the civil service law. We will make a finding within a few days of what we think the facts here show, and there's not going to be any violation—we'll see to that.

"We want the employés and officials of this state to know that they can't solicit civil service employés, and they can't punish civil service employés who won't contribute. They can't receive even voluntary contributions in public buildings.

"We want the directors of departments to know that they can't participate in any way, or lend their aid, to the solicitation of civil service employés."

Paid $150 Per Month.

The men who levied and received the 2 per cent salary tribute to the Illinoisans, as the slush group calls itself, were the star witnesses. They are: Harold A. Stone and D. F. Mose, both of Springfield, and Harry G. Klingbiel, audit clerk of the East Moline State hospital. Their stories were almost identical.

All claimed ignorance of the names of the officers of the Illinoisans. Under questioning of Michael F. Ryan, attorney for the protective association, and Assistant Attorney General Murray F. Milne they insisted they did not know who was president, vice president, secretary, or treasurer.

Stone and Mose said they were hired by Walsh a few months ago at salaries of $150 per month. Klingbiel asserted: "A man, whose name I can't recall, came from Springfield [to East Moline] and told me I was supposed to do this [collect from the employés]."

"Was that an order?" Ryan demanded.

"I guess it was," Klingbiel replied.

Stone, formerly an employé in the old age pension division, and Mose made the rounds of the state institu-

12 Britons Cling to U-Boat as It Runs Thru Sea

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 15 (AP).—A story of 12 British seamen clinging to the side of a German submarine in the hope it would not be forced to submerge was recounted today by Paul V. Gilbert, crewman of the American oil tanker R. G. Stewart.

Gilbert said the Stewart was en route to America from Le Havre when, on Sept. 11, about 200 miles off the French coast, it was stopped by the U-boat and the Stewart's captain was ordered to come aboard with his ship's papers.

Before he complied a fog lifted and a British ship, the Inverliffey, 9,456 tons, was sighted about a mile and a half away. The sub started in pursuit, but returned shortly with the British seamen clinging to the sides and the Inverliffey ablaze.

Lifeboat Swamped.

"Somehow their lifeboat was swamped while they were being towed toward us by the sub," said Gilbert. "The men thrashed about in the water until the submarine officer told them to cling to the side of the sub. Then the submarine cruised over to us.

"After the rescue they told us the Germans said that if a British destroyer or a plane was sighted the submarine would have to submerge immediately and the men would have to swim for it."

Four More Ships Sunk.

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP).—Four merchantmen were added today to the mounting list of shipping losses since the start of the two and one-half month old European war.

The sinkings, aggregating 5,558 tons, brought the known losses to 126 vessels, totaling 494,675 tons, of which 67 have been British, 14 German, 7 French, and 38 neutral.

The British coastwise tanker Woodtown, 790 tons, went down in undisclosed waters after an explosion. Nine of her 12 crewmen were lost.

The Greek steamer Georgios, 2,216 tons, sank off the east coast of England. Her crew of 22 was saved.

The first casualties suffered by the little Baltic state of Lithuania were reported with the sinking of the Panevezys, 1,607 tons, and the Nida, 945 tons, off the Estonian coast.

German Ship Captured.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The 989 ton German steamer Leander with a crew of 20 to 30 men has been captured by a British cruiser and taken to a port in western England.

ENGLAND BANS MOVIE OF QUEEN'S ARMISTICE DAY TALK TO EMPIRE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 15.—British authorities tonight banned the newsreel version of Queen Elizabeth's Armistice day broadcast to the women of the British empire. The queen told the women that "the greater your courage and devotion the sooner we shall see in our midst the happy, ordered life for which we long." She also mentioned her "seven happy weeks" in North America.

Films already circulated in the provinces were reported to have been withdrawn. Police and port authorities confiscated films found on trains, ships, and flying boats. The order to withdraw the newsreels came after they had left London for shipment abroad. It was reported some ships and planes were stopped for search.

King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth saw the newsreel of the broadcast in a London theater Monday night. It was explained the decision to prevent the films from going abroad was taken because the movie would not have done justice to the queen in the empire and in neutral countries.

The films are being revised for shipment to foreign lands.

IRELAND FREES TWO ON PRISON HUNGER STRIKE

DUBLIN, Ireland, Nov. 15.—Two of the four Irish Republican army prisoners on a hunger strike were released from prison today. The two others were removed to an army hospital.

In the Dail Eireann [parliament] this evening the minister of justice reported Jeremiah Daly of Cork had abandoned his hunger strike at Arbour Hill military prison and had been released. Also freed was Patrick R. McGrath, who is in critical condition and has been removed to a city hospital from Mountjoy civil prison.

Richard McCarthy and John Lynch, both from Clonakilty, Cork, were taken from Arbour hill prison to the army hospital, but were reported to be continuing the hunger strike and to be extremely weak.

Premier Eamon De Valera heretofore had refused to release any of the men. On Nov. 9 he told parliament that release of the prisoners, who were accused of seditious activities, would encourage others of the outlawed I. R. A. to pursue a similar course.

Oscar, the Fly, Makes Paul a 2d Story Man

Paul H. Hubbard of 1019 South boulevard, Evanston, who weighs 210 pounds, met a fly yesterday afternoon. It was a small fly, which wringing wet would not weigh as much as a grain of wheat; but it could hardly have been more troublesome to Mr. Hubbard had it been a bumblebee as large as a sparrow.

The meeting took place at the Hubbard front door. Mr. Hubbard, alone at home, had been summoned to the curb by an automobile toot meaning that his son David, 4 years old, was being delivered from a nursery school. He stepped out in his shirt sleeves.

Hymn of Hate Is Off Key.

"There," he said, "was that disgusting fly, whom I shall call Oscar. I said to myself he wasn't going to get inside the house and worry us. So I slammed the door. That was my first mistake. I had forgotten I didn't have a key."

The problem then was how to get himself and David into the house. All the first floor windows were tightly locked, also the back door. After some minutes Mr. Hubbard had an inspiration. He figured that if he could get up to the roof of his back porch he would find a window unlocked.

So he borrowed an extension ladder from a neighbor, Will A. Gross of 538 Ridge avenue, stuck the sections together and ascended. The ladder bent a little in the middle, but did not unjoint itself until Mr. Hubbard was on the roof. Then it slid back into half its length and Mr. Hubbard was marooned. Upstairs windows that could be reached from the porch were locked.

David Saves the Day.

After 20 minutes or so of pondering, Mr. Hubbard became cold. That spurred him to action.

"David," he called, "go over and ask Mr. Gross to rescue me."

David went over to the Gross home.

"My daddy," he said decisively, "is on the roof and he wants to get down."

Mr. Gross quit lunching and gave aid. He extended his ladder to its full height once more. Mr. Hubbard descended. Then he made a bee line for the front door.

"Where are you going?" asked Mr. Gross.

"I am going to swat a fly named Oscar," replied Mr. Hubbard.

And he did.

Supreme Court Justice Butler Dead

New Deal Foe in Legal Tests of Innovations

Washington, D. C., Nov. 16, Thursday (AP).—Pierce Butler, associate justice as the Supreme court, died at 3:14 o'clock, central standard time, this morning. He was 73 years old.

This created the fifth vacancy on the nine man court since President Roosevelt took office. Thus when it is filled a majority of the justices will be Roosevelt appointees.

A bladder ailment had kept Justice Butler under a doctor's care many months. Several weeks were spent at a hospital, with an intermission of two weeks at his home.

He had been reported to be in robust health until last summer.

BUTLER'S LIFE STORY

A background of individualism formed the guiding philosophy of Justice Pierce Butler long before he was appointed to the high court in 1922. Although Justice Butler was a Democrat, he was appointed by President Harding, a Republican.

His career is the traditional American success story—a farm boy rising to wealth and high place through his own initiative. Born in a log cabin near Northfield, Minn., he worked his way through college, became the leading railroad attorney of the northwest, and amassed a fortune.

Butler was the only Catholic on the court.

His defense of individual rights and other aspects of the constitution invariably aligned him, in split decisions, with the conservatives. It was this attitude that caused him to vote against most of the New Deal laws to reach the Supreme court during President Roosevelt's first term.

Aligned Against New Deal.

Of all the justices, only Justice James Clark McReynolds voted more often against these legislative innovations. Butler ballotted 17 times against the administration and 10 for it in the first 27 tests to reach the court. Yet he was in the minority only six times.

Major decisions to which Butler dissented last term included rulings holding constitutional the 1938 agricultural adjustment act, holding that a group of private power companies could not attack the constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley authority power program, and that a state may impose an income tax on salary received by federal employés.

He wrote an outspoken dissent to a majority opinion holding constitutional the unemployment insurance provisions of the social security act.

"The constitution," he said, "grants to the United States no power to pay unemployed persons or to require the states to enact laws or to raise or disburse money for that purpose."

Target of Court Packing Plan.

Supposedly because of his opposition to New Deal schemes, Butler's seat was one of the targets aimed at by the Roosevelt proposal for appointment of an extra justice for each member of the court who refused to retire upon reaching 70½ years. Butler passed that mark in August, 1936, half a year before the reform measure was presented to congress.

His conservative views caused opposition to his appointment to the

2 REPORTS ON CAPONE AGREE HE IS OR WILL BE AT PHILADELPHIA

Two reports were circulated last night concerning the whereabouts of Al Capone, former Chicago gang leader, and when he would be released from federal custody.

One report originated with a high police official in Philadelphia. This official said Capone has become a patient in a sanitarium in or near Philadelphia and will be given his freedom Sunday or Monday. He added that Capone is being treated for paresis, which is a brain disease characterized by loss of muscular power. Two federal agents were reported to be with the gang leader.

The other report came from Washington, D. C. According to it, Capone was in Chicago yesterday on his way east, and got a glimpse of the city when federal men took him from one railroad station to another by taxicab. These Washington sources said Capone is to be released at 7 a. m. today, "somewhere in Pennsylvania" and then will take treatments at a private sanitarium near Philadelphia.

Capone is believed to have been taken several days ago from the Terminal Island, Cal., prison where he served the latter part of a sentence begun in 1931 for income tax evasion.

DEAL TO SEND GANG CHIEFTAIN TO PRISON TOLD

Forms Motive for Revenge Killing.

Edward J. O'Hare, front man for the Capone syndicate who was slain by gang assassins a week ago yesterday, was the man who in 1931 supplied the federal government with the witnesses whose testimony convicted Al Capone of income tax fraud and sent him to prison.

This information was verified yesterday by sources that are unimpeachable. The details of the arrangement are known to at least seven Chicagoans and to certain officials of the internal revenue division of the treasury department at Washington.

The Chicagoans, from whom corroboration was sought yesterday, were asked the direct question: "Did O'Hare supply the information upon which Capone was convicted?" To a man they replied that to answer this question would be to reveal a government secret.

Two Motives Are Found.

O'Hare had two motives. One was that of self-preservation. He knew that the government had prepared an income tax case against him. Ralph Capone already had been convicted. Jack Guzik and Frank Nitti, other Capone gang leaders, were also enmeshed in the government's income tax dragnet. By aiding the government O'Hare hoped for an arrangement which would permit him to pay up his back taxes and escape trial. In this he succeeded.

O'Hare's second motive was preservation of the gang and its profits. He realized that until Capone was out of the picture, the war being waged against gangdom by both the government and the state's attorney's office would continue.

Ax wielding police squads, wholesale arrests and high bail bonds had put a serious crimp in the gang's revenue. Even the dog racing interests of which O'Hare was head were suffering. It is significant that O'Hare's real rise to power in the gang began with Capone's departure for prison.

Learns Details in Prison.

The secret of O'Hare's part in convicting Capone was so well guarded that it was not until a little more than two years ago that the former gang czar learned of it behind the walls of Alcatraz prison. His rage and his declarations that he would have O'Hare's life were disclosed exclusively in Monday morning's TRIBUNE thru a letter found in O'Hare's Sherwin avenue hideout. This letter warned O'Hare that Capone in prison had threatened to "have him."

Investigators believe that O'Hare's execution was ordered in 1937 but was delayed for two reasons: [1] the gang timed it nearly to coincide with Capone's release in the hope that federal officials who knew the truth would not attempt to render more difficult his release, and [2] O'Hare was probably the gang's most capable money getter; he was allowed to produce as long as possible.

Drive on Gangs Started.

The story of O'Hare's part in the Capone conviction begins with the appointment in 1927 of George E. Q. Johnson as United States attorney. Determined to drive the gangs out of Chicago, Johnson began harassing them with every federal charge he found applicable.

By 1930, when the state's attorney's office had joined in the war on the underworld, Johnson was bending every effort to convict Capone and his leaders of income tax evasion. Frank J. Wilson, special agent of the bureau of internal revenue, had been sent from Washington at Johnson's request and the case against Capone had begun to shape up.

The government had the entire story—the vast income from gambling, from liquor, from rackets, from vice and from many other sources. But it needed witnesses who would testify to specific amounts, dates, names, and methods of handling and transmission of gang profits. It was necessary to prove that Capone received money from certain sources and that he failed to account to the government for these sums on his income tax blank. And Capone kept no books. For a time it seemed unlikely that such witnesses could be found.

It was then that Wilson remembered John T. Rogers, with whom he had worked in previous investigations. John Rogers was a reporter for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. His work in solving crimes went back to the Ku Klux Klan murders of 1922 at Mer Rouge, La. He had a wide acquaintance in the underworld, but best of all, he was a friend of Edward J. O'Hare.

Their acquaintance dated to the days in St. Louis when O'Hare was a young attorney and Rogers an enterprising young reporter. Wilson summoned Rogers to Chicago. The reporter reëstablished his friendship with O'Hare. It was through Rogers that O'Hare and one other gangland figure, who shared his views on Capone, made their contact with the government.

One of the first things O'Hare revealed through Rogers was that cash in large amounts was sent from Chicago to Florida by telegraph, wired from a small suboffice at Michigan avenue and 22d street. Assumed names were used, but federal agents traced the money to the Ponce de Leon hotel at Miami.

Cashed at Florida Hotel.

There it was received by a member of the Capone gang. Many large money orders, it was learned, were cashed for the gang by Parker Henderson Jr., proprietor of the hotel and son of a wealthy former mayor of Miami. [Young Henderson in 1928 was questioned about the gang murder of Frankie Uale, Brooklyn gangster, after it was learned he had purchased the pistols used in the assassination. He also once acted as Capone's Miami real estate agent.]

O'Hare next supplied the names of two men who were to blast the wall of gangland secrecy Capone had thrown about his financial affairs. Tho the gang czar kept no records of the money that passed through his hands, some of his gambling establishments did. And the men whose names O'Hare gave John Rogers were bookkeepers in two of the gang's most profitable casinos in Cicero.

Lured Into State and Seized.

The men are Fred Ries and A. L. Shumway. At the time their names were given the government, Ries was in St. Louis. Through Rogers' efforts and coöperation of authorities there, Ries one night was induced to cross the Mississippi river into Illinois. Federal agents seized him.

Ries spent each of the next seven nights in a different Illinois jail. Frank Wilson and Rogers were with him. Eventually they convinced Ries that his wisest course would be to confess. He aided the government in several income tax trials of gangsters, notably the Jack Guzik case. He also testified at Capone's trial in 1931, submitting books and records in his possession.

Rogers and Wilson took a similar course with Shumway with similar results. The men who built the case upon the information thus received were Johnson, A. P. Madden, agent in charge of the intelligence unit of the treasury, and Assistant District Attorneys Jacob Grossman, Cassius Poust, and Dwight H. Green. Pat Roche, working for the state's attorney's office on a special assignment, also knew of the arrangement with O'Hare, and coöperated with Johnson.

Gets Thanks of Government.

Of all those concerned, however, the government gives greatest credit to Rogers. Without him Capone could not have been convicted, it was said.

To protect Ries grateful Chicago business men raised money and sent him out of reach of the gang.

One incident in the building of the case against Capone was recalled yesterday because at the time it caused an immense furor among the federal prosecutors.

Tells Mass Killing Plot.

Rogers had returned temporarily to St. Louis when he received an urgent call to meet O'Hare in Springfield. There O'Hare, and his gang associate, told Rogers that Capone had imported five New York gangsters to kill Johnson, Green, Madden, and Roche.

A hurried conference was called in the federal building as soon as Rogers reported this information to the officials. Johnson, Madden, Wilson, and Green were there. Their homes were guarded by police.

From other sources other federal agents had been informed that five killers had indeed arrived from the east and that in addition to the contemplated slayings, a special branch of the state's attorney's office at 77 West Washington street was to be bombed. Capone felt that he was about to be driven out of Chicago and had determined to avenge himself for the destruction of his empire, the report had it.

Dispute Truth of Story.

Whether O'Hare's story was true could never be proved. A theory held by one set of investigators was that O'Hare invented the story of Capone's threats in the hope that the government would seize Capone at once and that in the raid on his stronghold the gang czar might be killed. Other investigators say that the plot was a real one.

The upshot of the federal building conference was that a federal agent delivered an ultimatum to Johnny Torrio, Capone's predecessor as head of the gang, who was waiting to appear before the grand jury that was looking into Guzik's affairs.

"You tell Capone," said the agent, "that if those five New York killers are not out of town by night I'll go after Capone with two guns!"

Torrio left the federal building. When he returned two hours later he told the agent: "The men have been gone an hour." Rogers maintained until the day of his death that this incident proved beyond doubt that O'Hare had been telling the truth.

Keeps Up Connections.

John Rogers died of heart disease on March 2, 1937, at the age of 55 years.

O'Hare died last Wednesday with two shotgun charges in his neck and head, as he raced his automobile along Ogden avenue near Rockwell street, in a vain effort to outdistance his assassins.

That his connection with the federal government had been continued was indicated by a memorandum found on O'Hare's body. It requested that he telephone a federal agent named Bennett and give him any information he might possess regarding the whereabouts of a fugitive counterfeiter and bank robber named Clyde H. Nimerick.

Meanwhile, efforts went forward yesterday toward finding O'Hare's slayer. State's Attorney Courtney assigned two auditors to study the slain man's financial deals in connection with Sportsman's Park race track, of which he had been president.

The prosecutor wants a complete picture of the steps through which the horse racing track was evolved from the old Hawthorne dog track, owned by Capone and operated by O'Hare. John Patton, mayor of Burnham and former Capone vice overlord, was ordered to surrender records he holds as secretary-treasurer of the track.

Starts New Search for Cash.

Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright made a new search of two O'Hare homes—the pretentious residence he maintained in Glencoe for his children and his secret hideaway in an apartment building at 1220 Sherwin avenue. Wright hopes to find additional records or letters that may throw light on the slaying. He will continue today his search for O'Hare's wealth, believed to be in safety deposit vaults or concealed under the names of friends.

The possibility that the federal government may delve into O'Hare's deals was announced yesterday by United States District Attorney William J. Campbell. He said that if irregularities should be reported in the transactions of a real estate pool operated by O'Hare, Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland, and others the government would act.

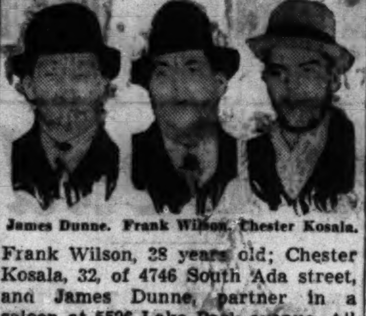
The government's interest arises from the fact that the pool began operations with purchase in a federal court bankruptcy sale of some of the assets of the Bain banks, which failed in 1931.

Judge Holland was questioned at State's Attorney Courtney's office Tuesday about his association with the Capone gang's front man. Other partners will be called in tomorrow, it was announced.

IDENTIFY 4 EX-FELONS IN 10 SAFE RIFLINGS BY MONDAY MORNING MOB

Four ex-convicts, three of them graduates of the class of '25 at Pontiac reformatory, were identified last night in 10 safe crackings in the last 13 months. They were known as the Monday morning gang, because they timed arrival on their jobs just before an armored car was due to collect week-end receipts. Their loot in each raid ran from $600 to $5,500, police estimated.

Three of the men were identified at the police showup. They are



James Dunne. Frank Wilson. Chester Kosala.

Frank Wilson, 28 years old; Chester Kosala, 32, of 4746 South Ada street, and James Dunne, partner in a saloon at 5526 Lake Park avenue. All were in Pontiac together. The fourth prisoner, Frank Pauley, 37, held in Hammond city jail, was identified thru photographs. He was released from Michigan City penitentiary in 1937 after serving seven years for a $23,000 bank robbery in Hammond.

Max Halprin, employé of a grocery at 2216 East 71st street, said the gang opened a Brinks' safe in eight minutes on Nov. 6 and escaped with $888. He said they arrived early, forced the store manager to open the outer door of the safe, and then knocked off the combination. Using a hammer and punch, they then tapped the tumblers until they rolled into position and the safe swung open.

The biggest job of which the gang is accused occurred last June 26 at the Hydrox Ice Cream company, 415 East 24th street. The robbers got $5,500.

Sergt. John Hanrahan, assisted by Thomas Fallon and other detectives, rounded up the gang. They first identified Wilson thru pictures shown store managers, then investigated his associates at Pontiac.

New C. I. O. Strike Paralyzes Shipping at San Francisco

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 15 [Special].—Another C. I. O. strike has brought almost complete paralysis to this one time leading west coast port. Thousands of maritime unionists are idle and the movement of ships and cargo has been reduced to a mere trickle.

With the waterfront again stagnated by the radical labor dictatorship that has been back of some of the nation's most violent labor disputes during the last six years, American and foreign shipping lines were reported preparing to alter their schedules to avoid San Francisco.

Ship Lines to Change Schedules.

Shipping men said the affected lines were making arrangements to pick up cargoes at San Pedro and points in the northwest. It was expected that British, French and Scandinavian lines, which must keep their ships moving under war conditions, will lead the withdrawal from this strike-harassed port.

The current strike, now in its sixth day, is similar to most of the more than 500 C. I. O. disturbances that have disrupted industry from time to time here since 1934. This particular dispute is a strike of C. I. O. ship clerks against the Dock Checkers Employers' association.

Pickets have kept harbor traffic at a standstill while impotent mediation efforts simmered. The pickets included members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union led by Harry Bridges, C. I. O. radical whose trial on charges of being an alien communist is now under advisement.

Pickets Posted at Piers.

The pickets are posted at more than thirty piers, halting the operations of companies that transport about 95 per cent of the cargo from this port. Longshoremen have refused to go thru picket lines to work cargo and other maritime union members remain idle aboard their ships.

Approximately 650 ship clerks are involved in the strike. They are members of the C. I. O. Shipping Clerks' association, which is affiliated with Bridges' I. L. W. U. They walked out last Friday following collapse of negotiations for a new contract.

At issue are four demands by the union. They are preferential employment to include monthly as well as daily clerks, registration [in union hiring halls] of all employés, equalization of work opportunities, and a forty-two hour week for monthly clerks.

The status of the monthly clerks is the chief point of the dispute. [Preferential hiring already applies to daily clerks.] Employers contend the monthly clerks stand in close and responsible relation to the companies and therefore cannot be subject to union control. Boiled down, the sole issue is the closed shop.

William T. Geurts of Portland, Ore., mediator for the maritime labor board, admitted he was discouraged after trying vainly to draw up a formula to settle the dispute.

CITY SUES TO SET ASIDE PAYMENT OF WAGE SLASHES

City officials yesterday appealed to the Illinois Supreme court to set aside an order of the Cook county Circuit court which directs the city to pay $50,898 to 17 former aldermen and the estates of five other aldermen who have died. That amount was deducted from their salaries from 1932 to 1935, when depression pay cuts were taken by city employés. In the appeal it is contended that the lower court erred in construing the state constitution to require payment of the full salaries. The appeal was filed in behalf of Mayor Kelly, City Treasurer Gustave A. Brand, City Controler Robert B. Upham, City Clerk Peter J. Brady, and the members of the present city council.

PERMIT SOUGHT FOR CHICAGO-N.Y. HOP VIA CANADA

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15 [Special].—Permission of the Civil Aeronautics Authority to fly from Chicago to New York City by way of Toronto, Canada, was sought here yesterday by Northwest Airlines, Inc. The company announced that it hopes to link the middle west directly to Canadian terminals of the trans-Atlantic airways by stopping at Toronto, and extending its service from coast to coast by going into New York City.

The application was filed under the reciprocal aviation agreement made last fall between the United States and Canada.

War Rations Are Too Slim, So Rolf Comes to America

Hoboken, N. J., Nov. 15 [Special].—The huge appetite of Rolf, a German shepherd dog, was responsible for his arrival here today on the S. S. Pennland. His master's servants in Brussels, Belgium, feared authorities might kill him because he was eating half a pound of meat a day. They shipped him to the United States, and his master, Dr. Lodewyk Lek, who is visiting here, met him at the pier.

COURT DECIDES FOR ROTHERMERE IN PRINCESS' SUIT

LONDON, Nov. 15 (AP).—Princess Stefanie Hohenlohe-Waldenburg, former political agent of Lord Rothermere to Adolf Hitler, today lost her breach of contract suit against the British publisher.

Lord Rothermere testified he paid the princess about $250,000 for less than six years' service. She contended he had agreed to pay her $20,000 a year for life.

Justice Tucker said he was satisfied Lord Rothermere never contracted to maintain the princess for life and called part of her testimony "nebulous and unreliable." He returned judgment, with costs, for the publisher.

Ecuador's President Is Ill; Recovery Believed Doubtful

QUITO, Ecuador, Nov. 15 (AP).—Ecuador's government informed provincial officials today that President Aurelio Mosquera Narvaez is seriously ill and may not recover. The president fainted in his offices yesterday. Arroyo Delrio, president of the senate, would assume power, under the constitution, in event of the president's death or extended illness.

NAZI REFUGEE GETS BACK HIS SEIZED SAVINGS

A suit brought by a Jewish refugee from Germany, who attempted to garnishee funds which the Deutsche bank of Berlin has on deposit in Chicago because he claimed the German government confiscated his savings, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Harry M. Fisher in Circuit court after a compromise settlement had been made.

The refugee is Jacob Chankin, a former Berlin fruit importer who came to Chicago last February. His attorney, Sol M. Hoffman, said that under the settlement Chankin will receive almost all of the $5,895 which he claimed was due him.

Chankin charged he was unable to bring his savings of 14,738 German marks, $5,895 at the former rate of exchange, with him when he came to this country. Last April he obtained a court order sequestering Deutsche bank funds on deposit in nine Chicago banks. The case was the first here in which a person forced out of Germany took court action to regain confiscated wealth from the American accounts of Nazi banks.

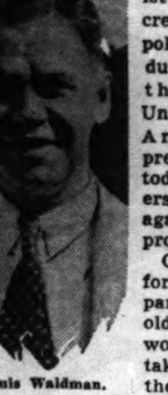
FORECAST DRIVE BY REDS TO SPLIT AMERICAN LABOR

Browder Attack on Pope Brings Retort.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Louis Waldman.

New York, Nov. 15.—In keeping with the new Moscow-Berlin lineup, a new communist onslaught to create chaos in political and industrial spheres thruout the United States of America was predicted here today by observers of the fight against the Red program.

Groundwork for the new party line, with old strategy of world revolution taken down from the shelf and dusted off, was laid by Earl Browder, national secretary of the American communist branch, ten days ago in Boston. He announced there that the time was propitious for a "quick transition to socialism in this country." Browder followed this up Monday night with an attack on Pope Pius XII. and the Catholic hierarchy.

Old Tactics Forecast.

Until the European war tieup between Adolf Hitler and Josef Stalin, the reds in this country had played with and supported the Roosevelt administration. Then a federal grand jury indicted Comrade Browder, hitherto immune, for passport fraud, and the administration pushed thru repeal of the arms embargo to help the cause of England and France.

Among those who commented on the probable activities of the communists resulting from the new party line was Louis Waldman, a New York attorney and the most outspoken foe of the communists within the ranks of the American labor party here.

"We may expect to see a resumption of the old tactics of the world revolution," Waldman declared. "There will be labor union splitting, dual organizations, open derision of parliamentary action, character assassination, and boring from within."

Asks Labor Party Purge.

Waldman, who ran on both the American Labor and Republican party tickets for judge of Kings county [Brooklyn] a year ago, demanded a purge of communists from the Labor party organization long before the Russian-German nonaggression pact.

"In the political field," Waldman observed today, "the communists are maintaining their own party for direct aggression, and are boring from within other parties, or front organizations, where members and camp followers have gained a foothold. These latter organizations are not ready yet to accept the naked communist doctrine publicly."

In the category of red front organizations, Waldman placed the League for Peace and Democracy and the International Labor defense.

Quill Named to Council.

Larger unions said to be dominated by the communists include: The Maritime union, composed of seamen on the eastern seaboard and headed by Joseph Curran; Transport Workers union of New York City, headed by Michael J. Quill; Auto Workers union; Classroom Teachers union in New York City; Shoe Workers' union; Fur Workers, and Municipal, County and State Employés' union.

Quill was elected to a seat on the city council two years ago, running on the American Labor party ticket and with the support of the communists. This year he refused to indorse the stand of the Labor party's state executive committee against the Moscow-Berlin pact and had to run as an independent. Quill received communist backing, but was nosed out for reëlection last week.

Editors of two Catholic publications last night attacked Browder's charge that the Catholic hierarchy hoped to sweep away the Jeffersonian distinction between church and state in America. Browder's charge was based on the passage in the pope's recent encyclical urging more religious education in the United States of America.

Charge Pope Is Misquoted.

Edward S. Skillin Jr. and Philip Burnham, editors of the Commonweal, charged Browder had misquoted the pope.

Francis Talbot, editor of America, declared American Catholics, including the hierarchy, the clergy and the laity, had upheld American democracy since colonial days, while the communists under Browder had contributed nothing to American democracy during the 20 years in which they have sought to overturn the American system.

Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, vice president of Georgetown university, termed Browder's attack upon the Catholic hierarchy "part and parcel of the soviet government's new tactics."

The Inquiring Reporter

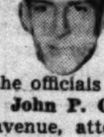
The Question.

Do you think that the coal mine owners should collect dues and assessments for John L. Lewis?

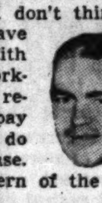
Where Asked.

In the loop.

The Answers.

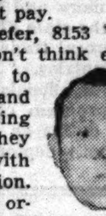


Alan B. Fuller, 2356 Dewes street, Glen View, insurance man—No, I don't think it is an owner's place to collect dues for the C. I. O. The job belongs to Lewis and his union. Union officials organized the men and it is up to the officials to do their own collecting.



John P. Cassidy, 4835 Belle Plaine avenue, attorney—I don't think employers should have anything to do with the union funds. Workers certainly should receive their full pay and be allowed to do with it as they please. Dues are the concern of the union, not the employer.

Mrs. Marjorie Clough, 3216 Harlem avenue, Riverside, housewife—Yes, I think that is a good system for collecting dues. Everybody has to pay his dues, and there can be no partiality. There is no possibility of having members who do pay their dues suffer because others don't pay.



William C. Schaefer, 8153 Vernon avenue, clerk—I don't think employers should be put to the extra trouble and expense of collecting union dues when they had nothing to do with creating the union. Lewis and his men organized the union and it's up to them to collect the dues.

John Olson, 1536 East 73d place, auto parts salesman—Yes, because it means that all employés pay their dues. They joined the union in order to get wages and all should share the union expense involved in getting the wage increases. I shouldn't think it would be much trouble for employers.

FEW THINGS HEIL HASN'T LEARNED, SAYS DICKINSON

Charlotte, Mich., Nov. 15 (AP).—For the benefit of the governor of Wisconsin the governor of Michigan said today:

"If he [Wisconsin's governor] were governor of Michigan he'd find out some things he doesn't know."

Gov. Julius P. Heil of Wisconsin had said in a speech in Chicago last night: "You've got to use strong methods. I would like to be the governor of Michigan today. They have no right to have strikes there."

Taking time out from his farm chores here to comment, Gov. Luren D. Dickinson said Heil "apparently doesn't know that I can use strong methods, too, if I want to," and pointed to his use of state police in several strikes.

DIES OF GUNSHOT WOUND.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 15 [Special].—Hobert L. Roller, 25 years old, a farmer, died today from injuries suffered yesterday when a shotgun was discharged as he opened a car door, the charge striking him in the body.

OREGON'S LABOR TERROR CLEANUP TOLD BY MARTIN

Ex-Governor to Address Employers Tonight.

Oregon is pointing the way to labor peace in America, former Gov. Charles H. Martin asserted here yesterday. Martin, who will address the Employers' Association of Chicago at its annual banquet tonight in the Palmer House, said a reign of terror in Oregon was ended a year ago today by the enactment of a stringent state labor regulating law.

Martin, who during the war commanded the Blackhawk division, including the 172d infantry brigade, known as the Chicago brigade, will be saluted by many wartime colleagues when he talks to Chicago employers on the "Disruptive Effect on Industry of the Wagner Act in Its Present Form." He is known to thousands of ex-soldiers who served under him when he commanded Camp Grant near Rockford.

Calls Oregon "Free State."

"Oregon is the only free state on the west coast," Martin asserted, referring to labor racketeering and gangsterism. "Settle is corrupt and contented."

The Oregon law empowers courts to fine and imprison persons violating restrictions regulating picketing. It does not prohibit picketing by bona fide workmen but does ban stranger picketing. It makes it unlawful to obstruct buying, marketing, transporting, and handling of agricultural or other products. It prohibits boycotts, outlaws minority strikes, forbids walkouts in jurisdictional disputes between unions, and curtails political and fund raising activities of labor organizations.

Boasts of Industrial Peace.

"The law had the effect of ending the effort of the teamsters union to control everything on wheels," Martin said. "Dave Beck, teamsters union boss, no longer sets foot in Oregon. He flies across the state."

The law has had the effect of restoring to the courts their prime functions, Martin said. He added that there have been only a few small strikes in the state since the law was put into effect. "We now have industrial peace," he said.

"The Wagner act, with its destructive effect on industry," he added, "must be amended drastically, if it is to become workable. In its present form it is conducive to the worst kind of class warfare."

Martin said that any governor who permits a sit down strike should be impeached.

Urges Destruction of "Isms."

"What America needs," Martin continued," is a destruction of the many isms which segments of the population are embracing. We must have a return to the hardy virtues and by these I mean initiative, courage, fortitude, and particularly pride."

Martin was met on his arrival here by Raymond J. Koch, president of the employers' association; Gordon L. Hostetter, executive secretary, and J. E. Eddy, Martins' former aide de camp. Among the former officers who served with him, who are to sit at the speakers' table tonight, will be William H. King Jr., Charles L. Collette, Orville J. Taylor, Hays MacFarland, Thomas L. Marshall, Abner J. Stilwell, Edwin G. Howell, and C. S. Craigmile.

HUNT BODY OF TUG FIREMAN.

Coast guardsmen yesterday were seeking the body of William Perry, 51 years old, 6500 Ellis avenue, fireman on the tug John J. Roach of the Fitz Simons and Connell Dredge and Dock company. Perry was swept overboard last Friday night seven miles off Calumet harbor.

C. I. O. COLLAPSE SEEN AS RESULT OF LOSING UNION

Garment Workers May Rejoin A. F. of L.

David Dubinsky.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—The complete breakdown of the Congress of Industrial Organization, the radical labor organization dominated by John L. Lewis, was seen today as the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union moved to bring its 250,000 membership back to the American Federation of Labor.

The executive committee of the garment workers' union, which is headed by David Dubinsky, one of the ten founders of the C. I. O., in a recent secret meeting at New York, voted to hold a referendum of its membership on rejoining the federation next May, it was learned here today. Because the union's leaders, notably Dubinsky, favor a return to the fold of William Green, A. F. of L. president, it is expected that the vote will be a mere formality.

Lose Third Largest Union.

Dubinsky signaled the beginning of the end of the C. I. O. in August, 1938, when he took his union, which was the third largest C. I. O. affiliate, out of the parent organization. Dubinsky refused to participate in a movement to form a statewide C. I. O. organization in New York and then withdrew from the national organization.

The impending return of the garment union to the federation's ranks will constitute a final blow to the C. I. O. movement, in the opinion of labor leaders and observers within the administration. While Dubinsky held his 250,000 workers outside of either labor organization, the blow of his desertion of the C. I. O. was not fatal to Lewis, but return of the Dubinsky forces to the A. F. of L., it is contended, can only spell dissolution for the C. I. O.

Way for the return of Dubinsky into the Green ranks was paved by the formation of new A. F. of L. industrial unions. Green has held these unions out to all leaders and workers, who honestly believe in industrial unionism in mass production industries, as offering the type of unionism they desire side by side with the federation's craft unions.

Place for Industrial Unions.

Industrial unions had a place in the A. F. of L. setup before the C. I. O. was formed. The United Mine Workers of America, of which Lewis is president and Green was a member until the C. I. O. czar expelled him, was the first of the A. F. of L. industrial unions.

While there was a quarrel within the A. F. of L. ranks before the C. I. O. was formed as to whether certain industries should be organized by industrial or craft unions, the formation of the C. I. O. was brought about after Lewis and several of his followers failed in an attempt to seize control of the A. F. of L.

Green repeatedly has insisted he has no quarrel with industrial unionism, but will fight to the death the communism and violence of the C. I. O. under the dictatorship.

Object to Communists.

One of the A. F. of L. conditions for peace with the C. I. O. is that the ranks of the latter body must be purged of its communist officers. The older organization also demands an independent audit of Lewis' books, the merger of new C. I. O. unions with the new A. F. of L. industrial unions, and the return of the eight international unions, which broke away to form the Lewis organization, to their original jurisdictions, which involves surrender of new fields of activity they invaded to compete with existing federation unions.

The vote of the garment workers' executive committee for a referendum on return to the federation was seen as making peace between the A. F. of L. and C. I. O., except on the federation's conditions, a remote possibility.

President Roosevelt last week moved for resumption of peace negotiations, which he initiated last February, by summoning Green and Lewis to the White House separately to confer with them on the possibility of peace.

Green told the President the A. F. of L. has a standing invitation to the C. I. O. to discuss peace and it is up to the C. I. O. to accept the invitation at any time it desires to talk peace.

At his conference, Lewis, it was reliably learned, held out little hope for peace. He made it clear he would never accept the federation's program.

The President is desirous of having labor united for the 1940 campaign, so that it can get unitedly behind the New Deal candidate, whether he be Mr. Roosevelt himself or a man of his choice.

C. I. O. FORCES HOLD BIG MASS MEETING IN CHRYSLER FIGHT

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 15 (AP).—C. I. O. unionists held a mass meeting in downtown Detroit today as a prediction was made that their contract dispute with Chrysler corporation, now reported in its final stages, would continue for another week.

James F. Dewey, United States labor department conciliator, who has been aiding in negotiations between Chrysler and the C. I. O. United Automobile workers, said: "We ought to go somewhere on a settlement in the next five or six days."

A crowd estimated by police at from 15,000 to 20,000 and by U. A. W.-C. I. O. officers at 40,000 assembled late today in Cadillac square, scene of previous union rallies, to hear C. I. O. leaders assail Chrysler corporation's stand in the dispute that has made nearly 100,000 workers idle.

CUBA QUIETLY ELECTS 76 ASSEMBLYMEN TO DRAFT CONSTITUTION

HAVANA, Nov. 15 (AP).—Cubans today elected 76 members of a constituent assembly that will meet Dec. 15 to begin drafting a new constitution to replace that drawn up 11 years ago by former President Gerardo Machado.

The election passed quietly under the eyes of police, army and marine detachments. Vote-counting was begun immediately but it will be two or three days before the final results are known.

Eduardo Chibas, Cuban revolutionary party candidate who was shot yesterday by unidentified assailants, was reported improving. His party is opposed to the present régime headed by Col. Fulgencio Batista, Cuba's "strong man."

COUNCIL FINALLY PEEKS AT MILK CONTAINER ISSUE

Measure Sees Light After Month in Hiding.

A month ago the city health department recommended a change in the health ordinances to permit the sale of milk in paper containers. Yesterday the amendment, which had been gathering dust while city officials backed away from promoting it, reached the city council and was referred to its committee on health.

Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], chairman of the committee, pledged prompt action to bring the whole problem of milk containers to public notice.

"The situation should be clarified," he asserted. "There has been too much delay. I have an open mind on the subject of glass bottles against paper cartons, and I want the real views of the health department. Early next week the committee will hold a meeting to plan for public hearings on the merits of the proposed change.

To Invite Bundesen.

"Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, will be invited. So will Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel, whose office presented the proposed amendment to the council at Dr. Bundesen's request, and other persons familiar with the controversial aspects of the change."

Ald. Ross, a physician, indicated that he did not favor the form in which the amendment was drafted. The present city ordinance requires that milk for home consumption be sold only in glass bottles; the amendment merely adds five words—"or in single service containers."

"No standards for the containers are mentioned," Ald. Ross said. "It is my present opinion these should be incorporated by the city council rather than let the board of health make its own regulations. I think we should make sure that, if paper containers are adopted, there will be a healthy competition among manufacturers to furnish them."

Barred for Many Years.

For many years the city has barred paper containers on the ground that the United States health service opposed them for sanitary reasons. The federal body has now approved the cartons. The proposal that the city follow suit was made Oct. 16 and was adopted by the board of health. One of the five members, Dr. Lloyd Arnold, passed his vote; the others approved.

Dr. Bundesen reported to the health board yesterday that he had written to Hodes suggesting that the United States health standards for the manufacture of paper containers be written into the proposed ordinance.

This brought on a heated debate. Dr Arnold, who is something of a milk and container expert, objected to Dr. Bundesen's action. He said that the new request to Hodes had been made without the sanction of the whole board, and demanded that it be withdrawn. Dr. Bundesen promised to recall the request. Presumably it is to be discussed at the next meeting of the board.

Predict New Battle.

Some observers predicted a new battle, if containers are made legal, over the standards for them. It has been contended that regulations might be so drawn that one or two companies only would be able to meet the requirements. Whether the health board or the city council has the power to write the standards, therefore, becomes an important point.

It was predicted yesterday that Hodes will be asked for a legal opinion on the point, either by the aldermen or the mayor, despite the fact that the health board yesterday refused to ask the city lawyer's advice.

"The city council will see to it that the standards are such that there will be no monopoly," said Ald. Ross.

EXPORT AIR LINES SCORES POINT IN SEA ROUTE FIGHT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15 [Special].—American Export Air Lines today won its first victory before the Civil Aeronautics authority in an attempt to establish a United States to Europe airline.

A motion by the company to include a subsidiary air route from New York to Rome by way of Portugal and Spain in its application to establish a trans-Atlantic service was approved by the CAA.

A motion by Pan-American Airways to dismiss the rival company's application for service to Ireland, England, and France on the ground it would violate the terms of the neutrality act was denied. The CAA will rule later on the full American Export Air Lines' application.

LEADERS OF MILK FARMERS BLAME REDS FOR STRIKES

Producers Urged to Oust Sowers of Revolt.

Communist forces are exerting powerful influences in rural sections of America to break down constitutional government. This warning was given yesterday by speakers at the 23d annual convention of the National Coöperative Milk Producers federation in the Congress hotel.

The communists operate in rural communities by working their way into producer organizations and trying to destroy them or dominate them, the delegates were told. Fred H. Sexauer of Auburn, N. Y., president of the Dairymen's League Coöperative Association, Inc., said dairy farmers first had to contend with the movement in the Philadelphia milk shed in 1932. It has been spreading ever since, he said.

Warns All to Be Alert.

B. F. Beach of Detroit, secretary and manager of the Michigan Milk Producers' association, said all producer organizations in this country have been, are, or in the future will be confronted with the attempts of communism to break down their organizations.

"Michigan farmers have lost hundreds of thousands of dollars as a result of the radicals' activities," Beach said. "It seems inconceivable that any organization of farmers will escape for long these radical elements which are interfering with membership morale."

Sexauer said the communist influence, thru the help of the Committee for Industrial Organization, had spread rapidly among dairy farmers in New York state during the last three months, culminating in the recent milk strikes there.

"From the communist party to the C. I. O. to the Dairy Farmers' union, or from the communist party thru the farmers' committee for action to the number of small organizations that have sprung up with all kinds and all types of names, the difference is in the method of approach and not in the objective," he said.

Discontent Their Loophole.

Both speakers warned the delegates to beware of so-called producer movements that are not led by farmers. They said radical elements invariably try to worm their way into producer organizations when prices are low or when farmers are discontented and that they never offer a plan to help the situation, but only try to incite further discontent.

Charles W. Holman of Washington, D. C., secretary of the federation, said in his annual report that dairymen and other farmers were being plagued more and more by the mistakes of the state department in making reciprocal trade agreements with other countries. "Inability of state department officials to see the effect of this program of continually cutting the duties on agricultural products is both deplorable and tragic," he said.

MILK PRICE BOOSTED IN INDIANAPOLIS TO 12 CENTS PER QUART

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 15 [Special].—Milk prices will rise 1 cent a bottle in Indianapolis tomorrow when consumers will pay 12 cents for quarts and 7 cents for pints delivered by grocery or dairy. The price of pints purchased at the store—6 cents—was not raised. Quarts purchased at the store will be 11 cents, a 1 cent raise. Special grades of milk were increased 1 cent, and whipping cream was raised from 20 cents delivered or carried out, to 21 cents at the store and 22 cents delivered, a half pint.

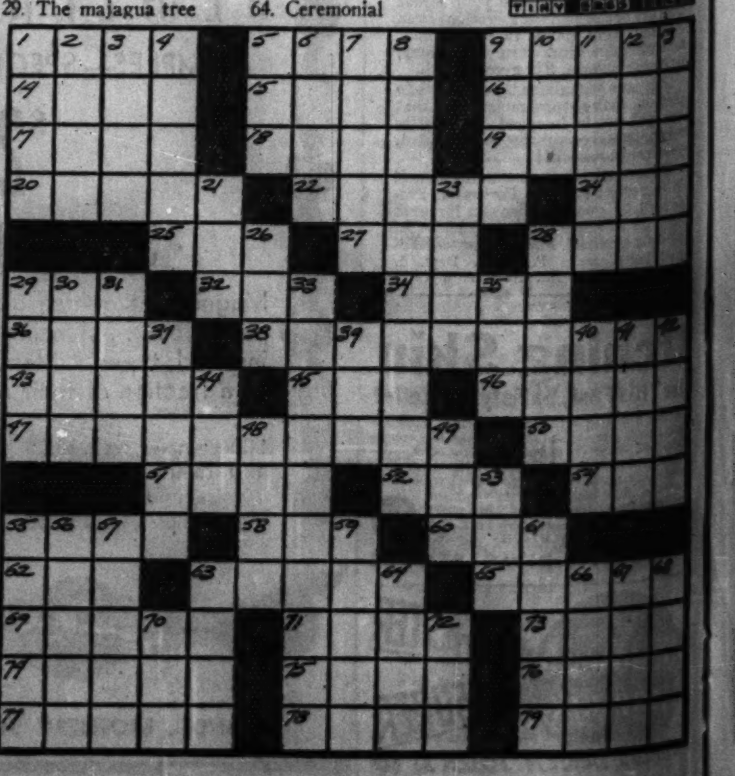
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED.



No man ever felt a more passionate love for his home than did Washington for Mount Vernon. He spoke of it with deep affection as his "vine and fig-tree" and his "goal of domestic achievement." "I can truly say," he once declared, "I had rather be at Mount Vernon with a friend or two about me, than to be attended at the seat of government by the officers of state and the representatives of every power in Europe."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Refuse anything else. At all drug stores. 10¢ and 25¢.

HALT 3D TERM TALK, VAN NUYS ASKS PRESIDENT

Action New Evidence of Split in Party.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Every day brings fresh evidence of the split in the Democratic party on the question of a third term for President Roosevelt.

Senator Van Nuys.

Today Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.] declared against a third term for any President and called upon Mr. Roosevelt to state his intentions.

"I think the Democratic party and the nation as a whole," said Senator Van Nuys, "are entitled to know whether President Roosevelt is going to attempt to run for a third term. I see no reason for so much mystery concerning his intention. The country, as well as the Democratic party, should be informed now for the particular reason that the next election will be a very crucial one.

Cites Domestic Situation.

"The country, in view of the foreign situation and domestic matters, should have plenty of time to weigh the qualifications of the different candidates.

"I cannot support the President or any other man for a third term because it is against the historic custom of this country."

Urges Free Congress.

Van Nuys supported the President on the repeal of the arms embargo and joined in the political truce that obtained during the extraordinary session of congress. But he indicated that he will be found opposing the President on some of the domestic questions to come before congress at the January session.

The declaration of the Indiana senator against a third term for Mr. Roosevelt was the second move within a week on the part of conservative Democrats in opposition to the renomination of the President. The first was the announcement of E. B. Germany of Dallas, Tex., Garner campaign manager, that the drive for delegates favoring the nomination of Vice President Garner for President next year will be carried into all states within the next 60 days.

Gets Poster Award

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan giving check to Miss Thelma Leighton, winner of fire prevention week poster contest.

Thelma Leighton, daughter of Mrs. Morris Hauser, 5114 Kimball avenue, was awarded first prize yesterday in the national school poster competition sponsored by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. Her poster was displayed thruout the country during Fire Prevention week. Miss Leighton designed the poster at Leighton Vocational school in St. Louis, where she is a student. Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan of the Chicago fire department conferred the award on Miss Leighton.

JEFFERSON IDEA OF GOVERNMENT IS CALLED BEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15—Using a small trowel which George Washington used at the laying of the corner stone of the capitol, President Roosevelt presided today at the corner stone laying of the 3 million dollar Thomas Jefferson memorial.

The circular marble structure is rising on an elevation across Washington's tidal basin from the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington monument. It is scheduled for completion in January, 1941, and the President said he hoped to be present at the dedication.

Mr. Roosevelt made a brief address in which he hailed Jefferson's political philisophy as of the highest significance in these days.

Ground was broken for the Jefferson Memorial Dec. 15, 1938, after several years of controversy over the design and site.

ROOSEVELT HAS 5,000 JOBS FOR HIS SUPPORTERS

Four Diplomatic Posts, 2 Judgeships Open.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—President Roosevelt has more than 5,000 jobs to give to deserving New Dealers. Altho some of the vacant posts will be filled by recess appointments, it is not expected that the bulk of the political plums will be passed out until congress meets in January.

Most of the vacancies are in postmasterships. However, there are some important posts in the list. These include a cabinet chair, four diplomatic posts, and two circuit judgeships.

The vacant cabinet post is that of Claude A. Swanson, late secretary of the navy. The President has shown no concern over the fact that it has not been filled and appears to be in no hurry to name a successor to Swanson. The department's affairs are being run by Charles Edison, assistant secretary of the navy.

Wilson Called Home.

Diplomatic vacancies are in Germany, Peru, Canada, and Bulgaria. The German vacancy resulted when the President recalled Ambassador Hugh Wilson in protest against Nazi aggression against Czecho-Slovakia. Wilson resigned to take a job in the state department.

The federal circuit judgeships are vacant in the circuit comprising New Hampshire, Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Porto Rico, and one including Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

On Dec. 31 there will be a vacancy on the interstate commerce commission when the term of Carroll Miller of Virginia expires.

The post of undersecretary of the interior is vacant, as is that of commissioner of fisheries.

Withholds Recess Appointments.

During the special session of congress, called to repeal the arms embargo, Mr. Roosevelt did not send up any of the 19 recess appointments he had made between the adjournment of congress in August and the special session late in September.

As a result of the failure to seek confirmation of these appointments the pay of the appointees stopped. Federal law provides that recess appointees shall be paid only during actual recess and that their pay shall stop at the adjournment of any session of congress called after their appointment.

Among the recess appointees are Ernest H. Gruening, governor of Alaska, under fire because of his radical background; Thomas M. Woodward of the maritime commission; Henry Slattery, former undersecretary of the interior who was made rural electrification administrator, and several state WPA administrators.

DEWEY TO MAKE PRESIDENCY BID IN MINNEAPOLIS

New York, Nov. 15 [Special].—Thomas E. Dewey, Manhattan district attorney, will begin his campaign for the Republican nomination for President by a speech in Minneapolis on invitation of the Minnesota Republican state central committee, probably on Dec. 6.

Announcement of Dewey's acceptance of the invitation of Dr. R. C. Radabaugh, Minnesota state chairman, was made today at the district attorney's office. It was said that the invitation had been received some time ago and that Dewey had promised to speak in several other cities, including St. Louis, but that he had set no definite dates.

It is expected that headquarters for Dewey will be opened here about the time of his Minneapolis speech. Russel G. Sprague, Nassau county leader, is understood to be under consideration for Dewey campaign manager.

ALPACUNA OVERCOATS

$40

Alpacunas are a scientific duplication of an animal's fur coat (see diagrams below)—that's why they are 26.3% warmer—61% longer wearing and 1½ pounds lighter in weight. They're here in balmacaans, single and double breasted raglans, set-in sleeve models and box coats—in grays, browns, tans, lovat greens and heather mixtures. Alpacunas are the largest selling overcoats in the world—and the greatest values, too—for regardless of soaring markets you'll still buy them at last year's low price of $40

GERMANS DAUB WINDOWS WITH ANTI-NAZI SIGNS

Wartime Restrictions Are Resented by Public.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—Resentment against wartime restrictions and rigid control as exercised by the GSP [secret police] is rising to the surface in Germany.

Every morning at dawn squads of Nazis can be seen inspecting streets and store windows and removing anti-Nazi inscriptions. Some inscriptions are painted on fronts of houses. Others appear on small stickers which are affixed to residences.

Dislike Idea of Long War.

Despite Germany's swift victory in Poland, vast circles dislike the idea of a protracted war. According to observers, this does not mean any furious and organized movement against Adolf Hitler's government exists.

They assert there is a vast difference between attempting to annoy authorities with stickers and signs and getting together to revolt. These observers maintain there is no potentional leadership left in Germany to organize a rebellion.

They argue that after this period of comparative inertia in the war and if the Germans win even a small victory, the Nazi bandwagon again will be crowded.

The public today learned of the introduction of clothes cards. The people discovered that the clothes they managed to obtain with special permits will be deducted from the clothes rationing cards.

New Taxes Irk Germans.

The size of additional tax payments demanded by the government adds to the public's disgruntlement. The Roman Catholic church has been informed that its war tax bill for the year will be 12,000,000 marks [about $4,800,000]. This means that the total income tax paid by the church will amount to about $9,000,000 a year.

A new order issued by officers controling German currency forbids German dealers to pay for foreign imports before delivery. Thus the risk of wartime transportation is placed on foreign dealers.

The ruling also makes it almost impossible for Germans to deal thru a third party unless the latter is willing to finance the deal. Coupled with the American cash and carry clause in the arms embargo repealer, the German order paralyzes German-American trade.

Get Goods Thru Trieste.

Italy and Russia in recent months loaned their services as transit countries for Germany. A certain amount of American goods has been reaching the reich thru Trieste, Italy.

The Germans say that "valuable goods, such as airplane motors, could be shipped via Pacific and Siberian railroads," but the new payment regulations are expected to hamper such efforts.

The Lokal-Anzeiger asserts American aviation industry is so far behind its production schedule it will be unable to complete new orders for a long time.

"Soon the people of England and France will have to recognize that they have been deceived," the paper adds.

Swiss Free Nazi Soldier Who Slept Across Border

BASEL, Switzerland, Nov. 15 (AP).—Swiss authorities today released their first prisoner of war, a German soldier who had slept his way across the border. The soldier fell asleep in the rear coach of a German train crossing the border and did not wake up until he was in Switzerland. The Swiss military command granted his plea that he be allowed to recross the frontier to rejoin his regiment.

Eighth Indian Ministry Quits Over British Stand

BOMBAY, India, Nov. 15 (AP).—The government of Assam province resigned today. It was the last of eight provincial governments dominated by the congress party of Mohandas K. Ghandi to quit in protest against Britain's refusal to discuss Indian independence until the end of the European war.

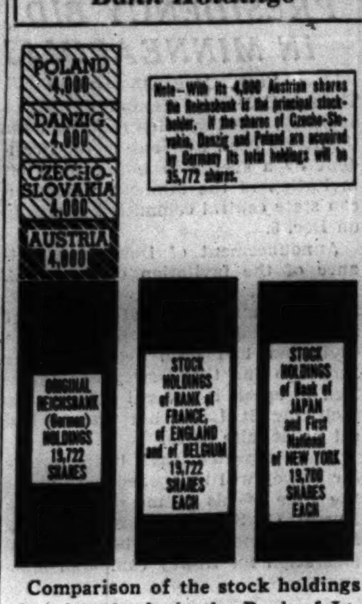
Bank Holdings



Note—With its 4,000 Austrian shares the Reichsbank is the principal stockholder. If the shares of Czecho-Slovakia, Danzig and Poland are acquired by Germany its total holdings will be 35,772 shares.

Comparison of the stock holdings of various banks in the Bank of International Settlements.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Nov. 15.—The question of ownership of stock in the Bank for International Settlements that is held in Danzig, Warsaw and Prague will not be settled until after the war is over, it was learned on good authority today.

In all, 12,000 shares are at stake in the areas seized by Germany since March. Danzig, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia each owned 4,000, as did Austria prior to its union with Germany. The Austrian shares have been added to the holdings of the Reichsbank, giving Germany 4,000 more than any other power.

The bank's charter provides for directors from Britain, France, Belgium, Germany, Italy, Japan, Holland, Sweden, and Switzerland, and requires that Switzerland approve any charter revision. This is believed to make it impossible for Germany to control the bank, which was founded in 1930 to handle German reparations payments and provide facilities for international banking operations.

6 New U. S. Submarines Sail to Join Asiatic Fleet

HONOLULU, Nov. 15 (AP).—Six new submarines of the American navy sailed today for Manila to augment the Asiatic fleet. The submarine tender Beaver sailed last week. The submarines, long scheduled for transfer to the Asiatic fleet, are the Tarpon, Porpoise, Pike, Pickerel, Perch, and Permit.

WOUNDED WIFE RECOVERING.

Physicians at St. Luke's hospital reported yesterday that Mrs. Grace Schmidt, 34 years old who was shot three times by her estranged husband last week, is now out of danger and will recover. Her husband, Enart, 36, of 4729 North Troy street, shot and killed himself Sunday to avoid capture.

LILLE, FRANCE, PUT ON ALERT BY AIR RAID ALARM

PARIS, Nov. 15 (AP).—Lille, industrial city in northern France, five miles from the Belgian border, was put on the alert by an air raid warning at 11:50 o'clock this morning. The alarm lasted half an hour.

Examination of metal tags from leaflets dropped on Paris by planes on Nov. 7 reveals that the flyers probably were German. The bands were inscribed "Cyclope DRP Hamburg."

"Reduced activity during the night" on the western front was reported this morning by the French general staff.

[The German high command early yesterday stated: "In the west no special events except minor local artillery activity."]

The French communique tonight said: "Patrol encounters and local artillery activity."

Blockade Minister Georges Pernot reported the French navy seized a total of 223,297 tons of merchandise consigned to Germany up to Nov. 10.

BIGGEST OF BRITAIN'S WARSHIPS REPORTED OFF CANADIAN COAST

New York, Nov. 15 (AP).—The New York Times said it was "unofficially but reliably reported" today that the British battle cruisers Hood, Repulse, and Renown and other British capital ships "have cruised to the Canadian coast within recent weeks."

The Hood, 42,100 tons and the largest warship afloat, and other capital ships, the newspaper said, "have been reported off Halifax and other Canadian coastal points from time to time, it was said, but apparently have been operating singly and as detached units, not in a squadron, as no more than one has been sen at a time."

If the reports of their presence in western Atlantic waters is true, the Times added, "it is considered probable by observers here that the British placed considerable credence in the reports that two German pocket battleships—the Deutschland and the Admiral Scheer—had eluded British blockade and were at sea."

POLICE BREAK UP ANTI-NAZI RALLY OF 2,000 CZECHS

PRAGUE, Nov. 15 (AP).—Two thousand Czech university students demonstrated against the German protectorate government today and sources close to the Czech university chancellery said 16 were arrested. After the demonstration, police guarded Wenceslas square and side streets but there were no further incidents.

The university students attempted to escort the body of a youth who died of injuries received Oct. 28, when Czechs attempting to celebrate the 21st anniversary of the founding of their now dismembered republic clashed with police.

Police halted the students' attempt to march from the medical school, where their comrade's funeral had been held, to the railway station. Then the students, singing Slavic songs, tried to enter Wenceslas square and Karl's square but were dispersed.

[Four persons were reported killed and many Czechs and Germans injured during the Oct. 28 celebration, which had been banned by the German government. Many were reported arrested.]

LESSONS OF WAR DELAY PLANS OF 2 U. S. CRUISERS

Designs to Be Reviewed for Possible Changes.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15. — The United States navy has halted plans for construction of two new 8,000 ton cruisers—the Cleveland and Columbia—to permit a review of their designs in the light of naval developments of the European war. The delay was announced today by Acting Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison.

The navy, Edison said, is making a study to determine whether it should build men of war of the pocket battleship type. Germany has three 10,000 ton battleships, the Deutschland, Admiral Scheer, and the Graf Spee, which carry six 11 inch guns as their principal armament and are capable of a speed of 26 knots. The vessels are faster than any capital ships afloat, except the British battle cruisers Hood, Repulse, and Renown, which carry 15 inch guns and have speeds of about 30 knots.

Navy In No Hurry.

Edison said that he did not think the pocket battleships "had shown very much yet," but added the navy is in no hurry to complete the two new cruisers.

The Deutschland and Admiral Scheer have escaped the British and French blockade and are at sea. Naval observers are puzzled by the failure of the vessels to undertake any extensive harassment of French and British shipping to date, but theorize the raiders possibly are inactive because their mission may be to sink vessels bringing American arms and ammunition to Europe.

"We are constantly studying types, reviewing lessons, and analyzing what we find out from the European war," Edison said. "The general board is reviewing plans for the cruisers which have been authorized and appropriated for.

"We believe that types like the battleships which have been developed over a great many years are sound and we don't want to forfeit our years of experience for meager developments over there."

Light Cruisers Building.

The navy has four light cruisers under construction—the Atlanta, San Diego, Juneau, and San Juan. Construction of two more was to begin shortly under the naval expansion program. These vessels would have twelve 6 inch guns as their principal armament and speeds of approximately 35 knots.

While the light cruisers would be fast enough to escape attack from vessels of the Deutschland type, they could not end the raiding careers of such craft.

Some naval officers hold that the American heavy cruisers, which have a speed of 32 knots and carry nine 8 inch guns, could engage with pocket battleships. These officers believe that the heavy cruisers, by reason of their greater speed, could force an engagement at ranges where their 8 inch guns would be as effective against the light armor of the pocket battleships as the 11 inch guns would be against that of the cruisers.

Another school of officers holds that the United States should have craft of the pocket battleship type to compete with such craft in the navy of a possible enemy.

These officers argue that the 11 inch guns of the pocket battleships might sink or damage the cruisers before they could close in sufficiently to use 8 inch guns.

BELGIUM SOUNDS OUT AMERICA ON SHIP TRANSFERS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15 [Special]. —The strain on Belgium's economy caused by the cessation of American commerce in the combat area defined by President Roosevelt led Count Robert van der Straten-Ponthoz, Belgian ambassador, to inquire today of Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles whether his country might obtain the use of some inactive United States merchant ships.

It is understood the stoppage of American ships in service to Belgium and the stress under which Belgium's own shipping is operating is reacting adversely on her interests.

The ambassador's inquiry was made cautiously in view of President Roosevelt's announced disposition to veto the plan for transferring some United States liners to Panamanian registry. What the ambassador sought to learn was whether the President's indicated displeasure over the proposed transfer of United States flag vessels would apply equally to European neutrals. What Welles told him was not revealed in detail, but the acting secretary said at his press conference that he had referred the ambassador to the maritime commission.

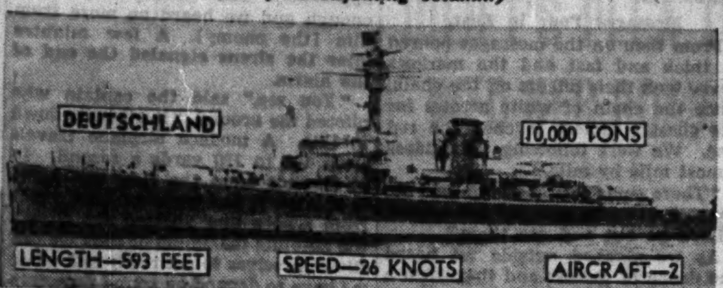
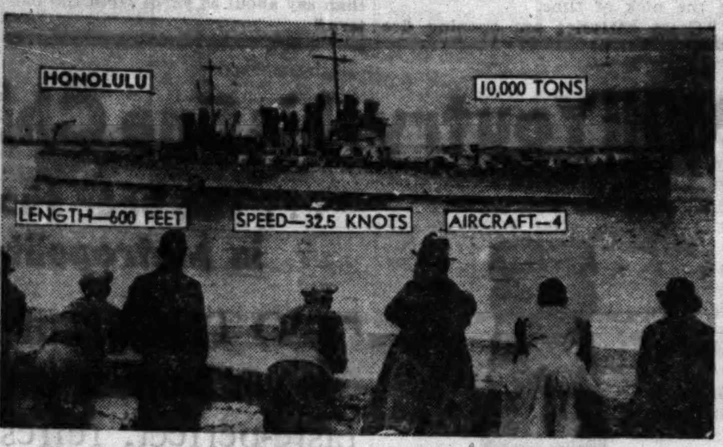
Comparison of Fighting Ships

(Story in adjoining column.)



Work on two new American naval cruisers has been halted while experts study possibilities of the German pocket battleships, of which the Deutschland is one. The principal armament of this ship consists of six 11-inch guns.



The Honolulu is an American light cruiser capable of higher speed than the Deutschland. It mounts fifteen 6-inch guns. Naval experts declare it could escape attack from the pocket battleships but could not end raiding campaigns of such craft.

Leaves for Its Soldiers Are Restored by Belgium

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 15 (AP).—Further relaxation of tension in Belgium was reflected in the restoration today of leaves for soldiers. Cancellation of the three days a month leave was ordered after King Leopold hurried to The Hague on Nov. 6 to confer with Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands. Leaves now are granted at the discretion of corps commanders.

RUSSIA CHARGES FINNS DREAM OF SOVIET CONQUEST

Says They Want to Push Boundaries to Urals.

MOSCOW, Nov. 16, Thursday (AP).—Soviet Russia made the sharpest press attack yet upon Finland today, accusing Finnish ruling circles of fostering an antisoviet policy.

The attack, in the form of a dispatch by Tass, official soviet news agency, from Helsingfors, Finnish capital, was almost as bitter as the press campaign which preceded the Russian march into Poland last Sept. 17.

The dispatch, distributed for publication in this morning's newspapers, based its tirade against the Finnish government upon what it said was confiscation of an issue of the magazine Soichtu. The magazine has printed articles friendly to the Russian government.

Charge "Hate Russians" Drive.

Tass charged that the Finnish army and press were instructed to hate Russians; that teaching in the schools was conducted along the same lines, and that the leaders of the antisoviet campaign of lies are the most reactionary elements who are dreaming of spreading the boundaries of Finland all the way to the Urals [in Russia].

"The English bourgeoisie has supported this antisoviet attitude," the dispatch added.

Denying that Russia had presented impossible demands to the Finns in the recent negotiations that were suspended by Finland, the dispatch said the Finnish government was trying to mislead world public opinion by falsely declaring it wanted an agreement with Moscow.

"But wide masses of the population are striving to establish friendly relations with the soviet union," Tass declared.

Prelude to Direct Action.

Foreign observers agreed that the Tass dispatch was another threat in the soviet campaign to force the Finns into an agreement in a short time, or else was a prelude to direct action.

The long drawn negotiations with Finland began Oct. 7 after Russia had obtained from Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania the right to establish considerable military, naval, and air forces in the north Baltic. Moscow has demanded a readjustment of frontiers near Leningrad, and naval bases in north Finland and at the mouth of the Gulf of Finland.

Finns Consider Talks Ended.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 15 (AP).—The Finnish delegation which has been discussing Russian proposals in Moscow returned home today and reviewed the talks with government leaders amid indications that the Finns consider the negotiations finished unless the Russians provide a new basis for resumption.

Altho no announcement of the government's course was forthcoming, the head of the Moscow delegation, Dr. Juho K. Paasikivi, told interviewers that the positions of the Russians and Finns differ greatly.

Paasikivi said that during his last visit to Moscow, his third, he conferred with soviet officials three times in 12 days, with Dictator Josef Stalin present and very active at two of the meetings.

Observers thought Russia would continue massing troops on the Finnish border in the hope that the strain of countermobilization would force Finland to yield. The Moscow delegation discussed the talks with the cabinet and Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko explained the situation to the foreign affairs committee of the diet [parliament].

WHEELER ASKS QUIZ ON CHARGE 2 NAVAL SHIPS ARE TOPHEAVY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15 (AP).—Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] demanded today a congressional investigation to place responsibility for the construction of what he called topheavy destroyers for the United States navy.

Asserting that he could see "no excuse whatever for a thing of this kind happening," Wheeler said he thought the facts ought to be laid before congress before it votes on new defense appropriations.

Acting Secretary Charles Edison acknowledged recently that the navy had found that some of its newest type destroyers lacked sufficient stability. But he contended that the defects were not serious and said steps were being taken to remedy them. Today Edison reiterated that the ships were good craft.

He explained that the defect was that the destroyers lacked the desired margin of safety in making turns at high speed, under certain conditions. Such changes as shifting ammunition storage space, and changing the center line of torpedo tubes will be made, he said, when facilities are available.

But Wheeler said he was "reliably informed that it is extremely difficult if not impossible ever to remodel a topheavy ship, even at great expense, so that it will thereafter perform satisfactorily."

4 NATIONS CLASH IN PROPAGANDA WAR IN BALKANS

Germany Sends Dictator of Sports on Mission.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 15.—Germany today made a new move in the Balkan propaganda battle with the announcement that Capt. Hans von Tschammer-Osten, its sports dictator, would arrive in Bucharest tomorrow with three aids.

Britain got the jump on Germany in the campaign here when Lord Lloyd, chief of British propaganda abroad, arrived Monday for a series of conferences to build up the British influence and supposedly to encourage Rumania to join any Balkan peace league which might be arranged.

Russia is doing her bit, too. Last night the Russian legation sponsored and invited Rumanian leaders to the première of a soviet film. Italy, the fourth entry in the propaganda battle, is at present concentrating principally upon economic factors.

Talks with Leaders.

Lord Lloyd already has interviewed Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu and other personalities, but the talks were secret. One report is that he is here to establish a British propaganda office.

The Germans' latest shot in the propaganda war was a little booklet entitled "Four Weeks of War," printed in Rumanian and circulated by the German legation.

Despite protests to Gafencu by the Polish legation, the booklet still is on sale. It is made up of a chronological account of the German invasion of Poland, followed by four chapters called "Lightning War in Poland," "Polish Fighting Methods,' "English Fighting Methods," and "German Fighting Methods."

Consider Balkan League.

Diplomats today continued their deliberations over the possibility of a Balkan league against the further spread of the war. Rumanians deny they have been approached on any such arrangement. The real source of all the talk about it is believed to be Italy, which hopes to get economic advantages in the Balkan countries. A Rumanian delegation will leave next week for Rome to discuss a new trade treaty to replace the present one which expires Dec. 31.

Italy takes 17 per cent of Rumania's petroleum exports and has been buying constantly increasing quantities of corn at high prices. Diplomats believe that her aim is to build up economic control of the Balkans.

JUSTICE PIERCE BUTLER.

PIERCE BUTLER, SUPREME COURT JUSTICE, DEAD

Supreme court by President Harding in 1922. The progressives of the northwest attacked him as a reactionary and the city council of Minneapolis adopted a resolution criticizing his selection.

But no one charged that the new justice lacked legal learning and skill. He held high rank and respect in the Minnesota bar and numbered among his clients the St. Paul Gas and Light company and numerous railroads, including the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Burlington, New York Central, and the St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Omaha.

As early as 1907 Butler won a national reputation for his handling of the Minnesota rate case for the northwest railroads. The case attracted attention because it was the first real test of the power of a state to regulate intrastate rates.

But Butler's talents as a lawyer were not confined to railroads. The government utilized his skill in the 1909-10 bleached flour cases under the food and drug act and in the first prosecutions under the Sherman anti-trust act, the defendants being Armour's, Swift's, and other Chicago meat packing firms.

Canada retained him as its counsel in arbitration proceedings to determine the price it should pay in the purchase of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway. From 1913 to 1918, Butler was a member of President Wilson's conference committee on federal valuation of railways.

In 1891 he married Annie Cronin of St. Paul. They had eight children. One daughter, Mary, died while serving as an army nurse in the world war. Four sons also served in the military forces.

SEES AIR BATTLE ON BLACKBOARD IN FRENCH DUGOUT

Tribune Man Describes Defense Tactics.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN NORTHERN FRANCE, Nov. 15.—It sometimes happens like that. The general had just said, "Now that you have seen how antiaircraft batteries work, I am going to show you the organism which is the brains of the whole air defense system in this region."

Having said this he halted at the entrance of a vast dugout which houses the brains and with French courtesy insisted on my preceding him. I was saying, "No, you first, general," when it happened.

The sirens went off.

Finds Defense Efficient.

This was how I came to have the unique experience of watching an air battle not just as a series of streaks and bursts in the sky but as a sort of three dimensional chess game with all the elements reduced to mathematical abstractions and therefore rendered comprehensible. Incidentally, I also witnessed a demonstration of the efficiency of the defensive system which has so far kept enemy raiders from inflicting any damage in France.

When the general and I stepped inside the headquarters the battle had been going on for some time The wail of the sirens was merely a warning that the enemy was nearing this particular region. It had sounded simultaneously in the whole area to give the civilian population time to take cover and the antiaircraft batteries to get ready for action.

The course of the battle up to that time was marked by a series of curved lines made up of red, white, and blue arrows chalked on two big blackboard maps of France. One showed the network of listening and lookout posts which covers the whole country, the other the positions of the batteries and chaser squadrons and the vital centers they protect.

Path of Enemy Marked.

The line of red arrows marked the path of the enemy—three German bombing planes. They were curving in from the north. Two white and one blue line of arrows marked the paths of the French and British fighters which had taken off from bases in France and in England to intercept the raiders.

The enemy had just been picked up by a listening post on the French coast and that is why the air alarm had been sounded in the region. Paris and London likewise had been notified, but had not considered it necessary to sound the alarm.

The atmosphere was tense with excitement and crisp with efficiency.

Orderlies were rushing in every few seconds from the telephone room with notes, officers were bustling about and a monotonous voice was reading off the latest reports to markers standing in front of the blackboard with chalk.

"Enemy planes approaching coast," the voice called out, "enemy planes approaching coast."

Talk to London.

"Enemy planes approaching French coast," I heard from the next room where two royal air force officers sat hunched over a mouthpiece. They were talking to London and the British air bases in France.

"Altitude meters, speedy kilometers per hour," I heard another voice droning to the batteries and the air fields.

Then there was a lull and for several minutes no reports came in except from the British and French chasers who were being picked up and identified by the lookouts every few seconds. The enemy was lost.

"I guess they have gone back to sea," said the general. "Too bad."

Close to Belgian Border.

Looking at the blackboard I noticed that station XY was close to the Belgian border. The markers chalked up another red arrow to mark the spot where the planes were reported and the direction of their flight, but it left a significant gap in the red chain.

"Do you see that?" the general spluttered. "The scoundrels have taken a swing across Belgian territory and then sneaked back across the border. That's why we lost them. They play this trick all the time. It's disgusting."

Messages Pour in Fast.

From then on the messages poured in thick and fast and the markers never took their fingers off the chalk. Once the chain of white arrows for the chasers almost touched the red line. We were following the raiders almost mile by mile.

"There come our chasers," said the general when he saw another report. "Let's go out and see them."

As we stepped outside we heard the drone of motors and then thru a break in the clouds, we saw them, three of them. They circled over the region for several minutes.

Open Fire on Planes.

We got back into the dugout just in the nick of time.

"Coast batteries are opening fire on enemy planes," the voice was calling.

The general rubbed his hands but apparently the enemy had had enough and we heard no more from him [the enemy]. A few minutes later the sirens signaled the end of the alarm.

"You see," said the captain who piloted me around, "it all boils down to this. A modern airplane travels from 100 to 120 yards a second. In 30 seconds from the time the plane is spotted it has traveled 3,000 yards from where you spotted it. That's the absolute maximum of time we can allow ourselves to get ready and when we have to depend on sound detectors it is worse, because the sound waves do not travel a great deal faster than the plane itself. To be able to swing into action within 30 seconds means that the men must never be more than say about 50 yards from the battery."

BOMBERS FAIL TO SHOW DEADLINESS IN ACTION, WAR EXPERTS REPORT

LONDON, Nov. 15 [Special].—Military experts here today declared that aviation operations by the German and by British-French squadrons indicate the bomber is a disappointment in war. As an offensive weapon, they said, it has not proved to be the deadly instrument it was supposed to be.

The experience of British airmen attacking Kiel, the German fleet base, and the German experience in attacking the Firth of Forth and other points on the Scottish coast have indicated that ground and air defenses are stronger than attack. Both sides have lost large proportions of their attacking units in every instance, it is reported.

Experts say the effectiveness of modern antiaircraft cannon is surprising. Strong ground fire can beat off all raiders, they report, and when supported by fighting planes is virtually impregnable.

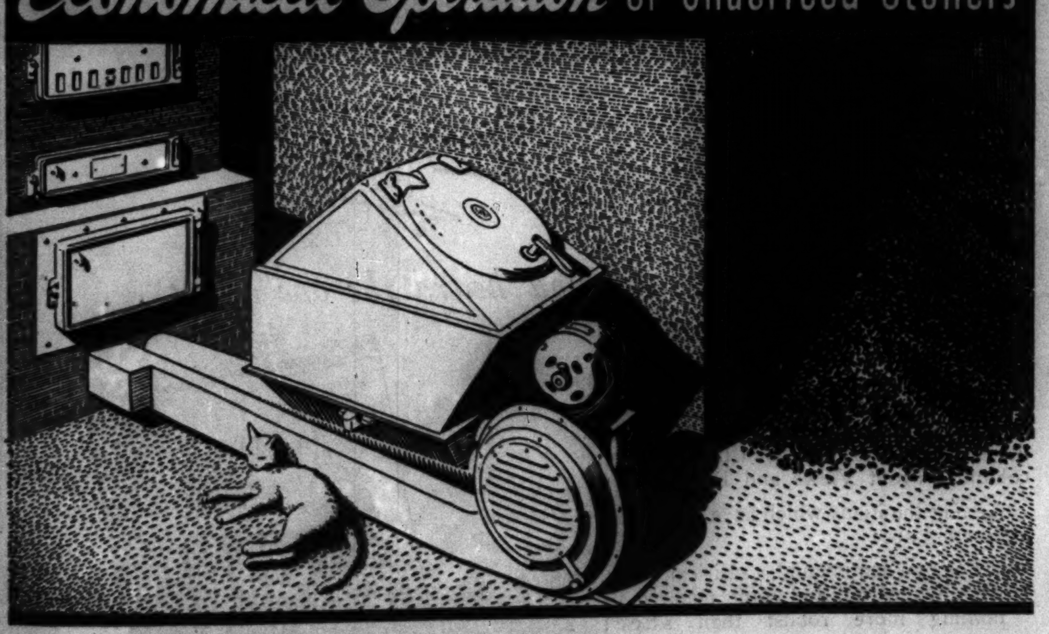
Economical Operation of Underfeed Stokers



POCAHONTAS coal combines in balanced proportion all the chemical elements necessary for complete combustion and maximum utilization of high heating units. This chemical composition distinguishes Pocahontas coal from average coal and establishes it as a most efficient and economical fuel for stokers.

Its long-burning qualities effect an appreciable reduction in stoker running time and a saving in cost of operation. Its low ash content reduces to a minimum the time and expense incurred in fire cleaning and refuse disposal. Low in sulphur, Pocahontas coal also burns without releasing objectionable gases.

Use genuine Pocahontas dustless coal and realize a higher return on your stoker investment. A representative of the railway's Chicago Coal Bureau will be glad to explain its advantages to you, and assist in the solution of any fuel problem. Call or write:

COURT APPROVES JULIET'S PLEA TO WED HER ROMEO

Papa Is Fightin' Mad, but Mama Shakes Hands.

New York, Nov. 15 (AP).—George Lowther III., who went to the law courts to establish a right to court Eileen Herrick, won his point today in a compromise that was amicable—at least for the record.

After a brief private hearing in the chambers of State Supreme Court Justice Isidor Wasservogel, the young broker's habeas corpus suit against Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Herrick, Eileen's socially prominent parents, was dismissed with this two point understanding:

That 20 year old Eileen, who was declared by the experts to have been one of the most glamorous of all the debutantes two years ago, should remain for 10 more days in the hospital where she has been resting.

That after that time George should be allowed to see her as often as he wishes—and marry her, too, if it's all right with her, and it seems to be.

Ruling Is Anticlimax.

This solution of a singular court action—which Lowther had brought in an effort to show that Miss Herrick was being detained against her will in her parents' fashionable east side home to prevent him seeing her—was anticlimactic against the events that preceded it.

Chief among these was a half-shove, half-blow directed at the big, broad shouldered young broker by Eileen's slight, gray haired father. This exchange occurred just as Miss Herrick and her nurse appeared in the bleak marble corridor of the Supreme court building some 2½ hours after the scheduled start of the hearing, and Lowther rushed to her with arms outstretched.

Detective Saves the Day.

As he shouted, his arm moved in an arc that ended on Lowther's shoulder. An impassive detective, seeming to be detached from the whole thing, moved in quickly, pulling Lowther away. Then Lowther, Herrick, Mrs. Herrick, Eileen and the lawyers marched into the judge's suite.

Miss Herrick's apparent unawareness of Lowther's presence was perhaps attributable to the extraordinary position of affairs, for in the conference before the justice it was she who protested successfully, when he suggested a 6-months' waiting period before she decided on marriage.

"I'll be a nervous wreck," she exclaimed.

Another incident similar to the corridor episode occurred in the judge's chambers when the young broker handed Eileen a ring. She took it, but her father doubled his fists and objected, so she returned it.

Judge Reviews Charges.

Justice Wasservogel opened the hearing by telling Miss Herrick that Lowther had charged she was being deprived of her liberty by her parents. She nodded, either in agreement or understanding, and remarked that she'd gone to the hospital on her own motion because there was "more peace there."

Then she said that previously, when she had tried to leave her home, detectives stopped her, and that she guessed they had been employed by her father and mother.

"Were you and Mr. Lowther about to be married?" asked the broker's counsel.

"Yes, sir."

"If you had your liberty, would you marry Mr. Lowther?"

"Yes, sir."

"Your father doesn't approve of Mr. Lowther, does he?"

"Yes, sir," she said with a straight face, adding that as for herself—she loves Mr. Lowther.

Her Decision and Her Life.

"If she wants to marry this man," the judge commented, "she has a right to do so. She ought to listen to her parents' advice; but she has civil rights, too, and if she makes a mistake it's her mistake and her life."

Mrs. Herrick announced that she felt cordial toward Lowther's father and aunt, and that she wanted to apologize for the unpleasantness. During the long corridor wait for Eileen to come from the hospital, Mrs. Herrick walked up to Lowther, halting his interminable pacing of the floor, and shook his hand.

"When the 10 days are up, and if I get a job," Eileen asked at the end of the interview, "may I see Mr. Lowther any time I wish?"

"Yes," said the judge, "of course you can."

"Thank you," she sighed.

So the 1939 Juliet went back to the hospital, and Lowther—a very, very happy Romeo—went somewhere to count the minutes for the next 10 days.

Tells of Parties

MARJORIE HETHERINGTON.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 15.—Another bartender and a yacht skipper were added today to the growing list of amours credited by witnesses to Mrs. Beatrice Veryl Pantages, who is engaged in a court battle with her husband, Rodney Pantages, over a divorce and the custody of their two children.

Mrs. Marjorie Hetherington, one time Pantages governess, told of the latest escapades. It was on the yacht Nomad, she said, that Mrs. Pantages met "Slim" Mock, the captain, during a gay round of parties in the summer of 1938 at Avalon, Catalina Islands.

"She told Slim she wanted him to be the skipper on their new boat, La Pan, and he took the job," Mrs. Hetherington recalled. The yachting parties, the witness said, were highlighted by Mrs. Pantages' "constant drinking."

Marjorie said Mrs. Pantages rented an apartment for Mock and visited him frequently.

SHIRLEY GETS 'A' IN CONDUCT AT GRANDPARENTS'

Shirley Boese, 17 years old, the girl who is unwanted by her parents, is now spending most of her evenings at home with her grandparents, Judge Rudolph Desort was informed yesterday. Remarking that Shirley's conduct seems to be like that of chaperoned young ladies of the Victorian era, the judge promptly gave her an A in deportment.

Shirley, tall and pretty, had been staying with her mother, Mrs. Edna Boese Elmstrom, who is remarried and lives at 8020 Vernon avenue. Mrs. Elmstrom didn't want to care for Shirley any longer. She said her daughter was headstrong and spent much time at parties and night clubs. The girl's father, Roy Boese, also has remarried, so Shirley went to live with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boese, 5541 North Mason avenue. She has been with them since Oct. 15.

"She's an excellent granddaughter," the elder Boese told the court yesterday. "Why, one eveing I found her reading Shakespeare." Shirley grinned and nodded when the court remarked: "That's better than being out somewhere and lapping up beer, isn't it?"

3 SEIZED IN DRUG RAID.

Two women and a man were arrested yesterday in a police raid on a flat at 2757 Pine Grove avenue. Those seized are Melvin Kaufman, his wife Juanita, and Miss Gladys Bowman. The police found narcotics in the place.

WATERWAY HEAD OUSTED; HOPKINS DEMANDED SCALP

Commerce commission control over water rates. Ashburn has been on record as favoring the Wheeler bill.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee and author of the bill, said he was very sorry to hear that Ashburn had been forced to resign.

"I've always felt that Gen. Ashburn did a great job," he remarked.

Gen. Ashburn's position paid $10,000 a year. This sum, like other expenses of the corporation, came from the revenues of the corporation.

The corporation was a white elephant until Gen. Ashburn took it over. The net worth of the system on June 1, 1924, was $10,000,000. On Dec. 31, 1938, its worth was fixed by the Interstate Commerce commission at $25,000,000.

Congress has appropriated no funds for the corporation since 1927, when $10,000,000 was appropriated. Of this, $7,000,000 was turned back to the treasury by Gen. Ashburn.

While the corporation's figures show it to be a money maker, railway representatives have noted that, because it is a federal agency, the expenses do not include many items of cost that a private operator would have to pay, such as postage, rental, and personal injury claims.

The shake-up of the corporation included the creation of two new positions—vice president and administrative assistant. John S. Powell, former controler of the corporation, was named vice president and Aubrey Mills, former assistant to Secretary Hopkins, was made administrative assistant.

Thompson, Ashburn's successor, was mayor of Rock Island from 1927 to 1933. He was elected to congress in the 1932 Democratic landslide. After serving three terms he was defeated in 1938 by Anton J. Johnson, Republican of Macomb.

THEY SAY IT FOR YOU

By CALEB

THE statistics can be had, of course. And they would certainly be most impressive. Such as: how many kinds and tons of paper are consumed in a year's production—how many gallons of ink, tubes of color, grosses of crayons, yards of lacy adornment. The number of drawings, black and white, large and small—the dollars paid out to artists, versifiers, printers, engravers and envelope-makers.

All these and sundry similar data, put in one place, might brighten life for accountants or researchers; but for you and me, such higher mathematics would not be the meat of the matter. The impression they would convey would be size—whereas the accent of our praises should rightly fall on a certain incomparable service which this particular business renders to Mr. and Mrs. Public.

Certainly no other craft-group has so completely made it possible for the human race to express its myriad sentiments, suited to a myriad occasions, as the Greeting Card manufacturers. . . . Every day is birthday to thousands. People are forever marrying, betrothing, good-bying, ailing, convalescing, journeying, graduating, anniversarying. And every hour of each day's twenty-four, other people—their friends, relatives and well-wishers—want to note the fact in communications formal or frivolous, beautiful or whimsical.

Think what an apoplexy of incoherence would result, if this "Army of the Inarticulate," as a literary critic once called us, had not had its needs anticipated by such experts in "saying it for you"! And per contra, think what depletion of revenue would afflict the Post Office Department; what unnumbered feelings would be slighted, hearts wounded, and lives bleakened—for want of these thousands of appropriate messages arriving at the psychological moment to provide most pleasure at least cost in the quickest time!

Some such thoughts as these visited your correspondent as he loitered about the gala greeting-card array on our first and second floors, and along our Crystal Corridor. At these "anthologies of affection" old and young seem to congregate by a common instinct. And, one would affirm, a very wise one, as well. For no matter what you may have to say, or to whom you would say it . . . these connoisseurs of expression have provided the Very Thing, wittily or graciously phrased, and always appropriately dressed. All you have to do is sign, seal, and pass it on to the postman.

7 WOMEN, 5 MEN TO DECIDE KIDNAP SLAYER'S FATE

Government Starts Case Against Jack Russell.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

Robert E. Brown, government witness.

Jack Russell, Oklahoma outlaw, went on trial for his life yesterday before a jury of seven women and five men in the court of Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward. The jury is the first mixed jury in the history of Cook county qualified to impose the death penalty.

Russell is being tried for the kidnaping of Billy Scott Hamilton, Kansas milling salesman, who was found shot to death last July 14 near Ringwood in McHenry county. Hamilton's body was found just three days after Russell escaped from a guard of the Oklahoma state penitentiary at McAlester.

Won't Lock Up Jury.

Altho he has confessed the killing, Russell is being tried in federal court for the crime of kidnaping and transporting the kidnap victim across a state line. Under the so-called Lindbergh law this crime is punishable by death. The law provides, however, that the death penalty can be imposed only after a trial by jury.

Judge Woodward ruled that the jurors need not be locked up at night. But during the trial, and while they eat lunch together, they will be guarded by two deputy United States marshals, a man and a woman.

One of the jurors, Mrs. Charles E. Miner, is wife of the state WPA administrator. Another is Mrs. Charles Hartshorne, the wife of a University of Chicago professor. A third is Miss Josephine Perry, a former state representative.

First View of Gun Toter.

For most of the women, this was their first view of a gun toting criminal. They gazed curiously at Russell, a paunchy man, with red hair, freckles, and small brown eyes. He returned their gaze unabashed, and appeared unconcerned as the prosecutors described the crime.

High point in the opening day's testimony was when Robert Edward Brown, 72 years old, operator of a photographic studio in McAlester, took the witness stand. Brown was the first man encountered by Russell after his escape.

Brown, a long lean Oklahoman with a thatch of unruly gray hair and a stubble of beard, coolly eased himself back in the witness chair and crossed his legs. Then with obvious relish he related to the jury and courtroom spectators the tale of how Russell at the point of a gun forced him to drive in a mad flight across three states.

Had to Follow Orders.

"He put his gun on me when I was getting into Jitterbug—that's my car—in front of my studio," the westerner drawled. "Shucks, there wasn't anything I could do but follow orders. We got in the car and started driving. It must have been about 80 miles before he spoke to me.

"I couldn't see the sense to that. He had a gun and I didn't but we could talk. So I told him a story—a pretty good fish story. He laughed and that broke the ice. We finally got to be pretty good pals."

The fugitive gunman was in constant fear of highway patrols, the witness related. As they neared the Arkansas river, boundary between Oklahoma and Arkansas, Russell advised him to crouch down to escape being shot and ordered him to drive across the bridge at top speed.

"Too Smart to Kill."

"I'm tougher than Capone but too smart to kill," Brown quoted Russell as saying "I'm going to let you live, Dad, but I'm out to get a couple of other guys for stealing my money and my wife."

When they reached VanBuren, Ark., Brown said he told Russell:

"I'll never forgive you for one thing, Jack. Me and Jitterbug started out for a drink and we haven't had one yet."

Russell immediately bought a pint of whisky for $1.10, handing the bottle to the photographer first. Brown grinned as he retold the incident.

"I took it and said: 'Young man you've got a long ways to go and you won't need this.' Then I drained the bottle."

Jitterbug Can't Take It.

With a note of sadness in his voice Brown told how his automobile broke down the next day near Pittsburg, Kas. "Jitterbug couldn't stand the pace," he explained. "She threw a shoe and got overheated. Then Jack started to hunt for another car and let me go. That's the last I saw of him."

Attorney Donald D. Rogers, defense counsel, tried to show on cross-examination that the photographer was not an unwilling captive. But the witness' testimony remained unshaken.

W. H. Riddle, the Oklahoma prison guard from whom Russell escaped, was first on the stand. He has since been discharged from his prison post. Russell was serving a 10 year sentence for robbery and Riddle was detailed to take him a mile and a half into McAlester to see an eye specialist.

He told how he and the convict retired to a hotel room to toast one another in beer and make some telephone calls. He said Russell got his gun after he put it in a bureau drawer for safekeeping while he was in the bathroom. The outlaw bound and gagged him before departing.

Opening statements were made to the jury by Defense Attorney Rogers and A. Bradley Eben, assistant United States attorney.

In addition to Mrs. Miner, Mrs. Hartshorne, and Miss Perry the jurors are Mrs. Helen Quanstrom, 10749 Ewing avenue, wife of an electrician; Miss Josephine Perry, 6221 University avenue; Mrs. Paul Oppermann, 5521 Blackstone avenue, associate secretary of the English Speaking union; Mrs. C. Kingman Perkins, 5629 University avenue; Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher, 48 East Schiller street, widow of a real estate dealer; William F. Fitzgerald, 5832 South Kilbourne avenue, a brokerage employé; Charles E. Sheldon, 722 North Grove avenue, Oak Park, a shoe salesman; Edward H. Bradley, 4856 Warner avenue, a radio dealer; Edward Erickson, 4137 Addison street, a machinist, and Arthur Hannibal, 6332 South Wolcott avenue, an usher.

POLICEMAN KILLS REFORM MAYOR, WOUNDS GUARD

New York, Nov. 15 [Special].—Louis F. Edwards, reform Democratic mayor of Long Beach, on the south shore of Long Island, was shot to death in front of his home today by Alvin Dooley, a motorcycle policeman. Dooley also critically wounded the mayor's bodyguard, James Walsh.

Long Beach police and politicians said there is no doubt that the shooting sprang from the election of officers of the Patrolmen's Benevolent association two weeks ago. Something of a local political power for four years thru his post as president of the association, Dooley was ousted by Walsh, who had strong backing from the mayor.

DO THIS 30 MINUTES AFTER EATING TO ALKALIZE EXCESS STOMACH ACIDS FAST

When you know "acid indigestion" is on the way, take 2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia (or 2 Phillips' Tablets)

Excess acids neutralized, you'll feel wonderful all evening.

No need now to be afraid to enjoy the food you like. If you expect acid indigestion after meals, follow this simple routine.

Take two teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia a half hour after you leave the table. Or, if you're not at home, take two Phillips' Tablets, which have the same neutralizing effect.

This gives you a thorough "alkalization" just at the time excess acids are developing . . . and does the job in a few minutes. No nausea or embarrassing "gas" to ruin an afternoon's work or spoil an evening . . . none of that uncomfortable fullness, or stinging heartburn. You're surprised at how wonderful you feel.

Try this way — especially if you have been using some slower or less effective way to overcome acid stomach. The Phillips' Method may be a revelation and solve your problem once and for all.

When you buy ask for and make sure you get the real Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Note the words "genuine Phillips'" on both bottle and Tablets box.

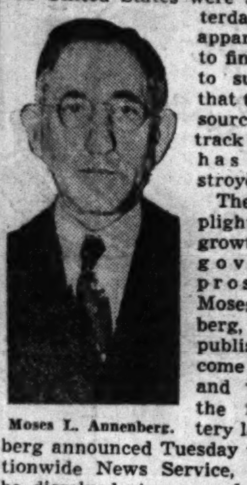
BOOKIES GROPE WAY THRU FOG OF LOST BUSINESS

Stoppage of Race Data Deals Death Blow.



Moses L. Annenberg.

Bookmakers in all large cities of the United States were striving yesterday, without apparent success, to find some way to survive, now that their central source of race track information has been destroyed.

The bookies' plight is an outgrowth of the government's prosecution of Moses L. Annenberg, wealthy publisher, for income tax evasion and violation of the federal lottery law. Annenberg announced Tuesday that his Nationwide News Service, Inc., would be dissolved at once and that yesterday would be its last day of operation.

Grope for Solution.

Chicago's bet takers frankly admitted they knew of no feasible solution that would satisfy their customers. They said their business had already dropped 60 per cent since the Illinois Bell Telephone company ceased carrying the Nationwide reports a week ago. Today things are going to be tougher.

"Maybe our era has ended," one bookie said. "We've just been scratching along, getting telephone results individually from resorts in other states that still had the Annenberg service. Now that's finished.

"Our patrons are used to good surroundings and a steady flow of information over the wires. We can't stand the rents of big places without big play, and we can't get the play unless we have steady entertainment thru the afternoon.

"The industry will survive, but it looks like it will go back to being little business. Bets will be taken thru cigar stands, tavernkeepers, newspaper boys, and elevator operators, and the pay-off will have to be delayed for hours."

Substitute Plan Costly.

In other cities the bet establishments were trying to work out plans to station men at the tracks to relay information by telegraph. Such a system would be costly compared with the Annenberg charge of $25 and up per week There is no assurance it would last long if government agents started to clamp down.

Another proposal was that a Cuban radio station might send out the results to be caught on bookie receiving sets. Short wave domestic radio also was suggested.

Boiled down to essentials, the only practicable solutions are: [1] for bookmakers or combinations of books to arrange for telephone and telegraph service, or [2] to have delayed pay-offs based on reports in newspapers or racing publications.

ANNENBERG IN COURT

Annenberg and 19 associates appeared yesterday before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to answer to indictments. In all there are 10 counts, bribery and perjury being alleged in addition to income tax evasion and lottery operation. Annenberg is named on seven counts.

His attorney, Weymouth Kirkland, informed the court of the Nationwide dissolution, which he described as entirely voluntary and not based on any admission by his client that he had been guilty of illegal acts.

Attacks Federal Charges.

Kirkland then attacked the legality of the indictments on intricate technical grounds. The judge ordered the government to file answering briefs before Nov. 27, when oral arguments on the points at issue will be heard. Should the court rule in favor of Annenberg, the indictments would be automatically dismissed. An adverse ruling would force him and his associates to trial.

At Kirkland's request, a suit asking the court to enjoin the telephone and telegraph companies from withholding service from Nationwide News was dismissed. This suit was filed before Annenberg reached his decision to do away with this property, whose income was estimated at more than three million dollars a year.

POLICEMAN SHOT BY EX-CONVICT; CONDITION GRAVE

Harrisburg, Ill., Nov. 15 [Special].—Cecil Brokmyer, 45 years old, a state highway patrolman, was shot and seriously wounded tonight by a young ex-convict he had trailed eight miles after a filling station holdup here. At the Lightner hospital physicians said Brokmyer probably would not live.

The shooting occurred in Cletus King's filling station at Carriers Mills, southwest of here. The ex-convict, Willard Shockley, 23, had robbed a Harrisburg filling station of $20 and fled in a stolen car. Brokmyer and another state policeman, Fred Holper, overtook him at Carriers Mills.

Shockley was bending over the engine, trying to remove a speed governor, when Brokmyer walked up on the other side of the car with his gun drawn. Shockley seized his own pistol and fired point blank at the policeman. Shockley escaped on foot when pedestrians walked in front of Holper, preventing him from firing.

DR. GORE MURDER CASE PLACED IN HANDS OF JURY

Benton, Ill., Nov. 15 [Special].—A jury of 10 men and two women tonight was deliberating the murder case against Dr. George W. Gore, Benton physician. He is on trial for killing his relative, Carl Choisser, Benton attorney and newspaper publisher, in a shooting in this city's public square on Sept. 25.

At 11 p. m. the jury was instructed that if a verdict is reached during the night it shall be sealed and presented to the court at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

The case is the second murder trial in the Gore family within a month. The slaying of Choisser climaxed a quarrel between him and Dr. Gore over the first case in which the physician's namesake son was charged with murder in the mysterious slaying of his stepmother, Nancy Gore, the elder Gore's second wife, last July.

Choisser Was Counsel.

Choisser, a nephew of Dr. Gore's first wife, was young Gore's counsel. Attorneys for the physician said Choisser threatened to blame him in the deaths of both his wives if he did not furnish funds for his son's defense. The young man was acquitted Oct. 20.

The case against Dr. Gore was given to the jury at 4:52 p. m. today. The state had demanded the death penalty, and defense attorneys had contended the physician was emotionally insane when Choisser was slain.

After the jury retired, young Gore shook hands with his father and clapped him on the back. It was reported to have been the first amicable meeting between them since before the young man's trial.

Thruout the two day trial the courtroom was filled to its capacity of about 600 persons. Most of the spectators held their seats during a two hour noon recess, and about 200 had lunches brought to them in the courtroom tonight. Four hours after the jury retired the courtroom still was crowded.

Testify Gore Was Insane.

Circuit Judge Blaine Huffman told the jurors they could return one of the following verdicts:

That the defendant was insane at the time of the slaying and is still insane. That the defendant was insane at the time of the slaying, but has regained his sanity. Guilty of murder, with a sentence of death, life imprisonment, or not less than 14 years in prison. Guilty of manslaughter, with a prison sentence of 1 to 14 years. Acquittal.

In late testimony six defense witnesses expressed the conviction Dr. Gore was insane in the few days preceding the slaying of Choisser. Dr. George Noble of the Anna state hospital testified that a victim of acute psychosis does not have the power to distinguish between right and wrong.

Two rebuttal witnesses for the state, Dr. F. H. Comstock, psychiatrist at the Alton state hospital, and Dr. Frederick A. Causey, senior physician at Jackson state hospital, responded affirmatively to a hypothetical question on whether Dr. Gore was sane.

"We Wanted A New Car...

and this is how we got it"

We talked over the one thing that presented a difficulty—the money question.

"We can buy it on time" said my husband, "but I suppose we will have to pay a lot extra for the financing."

"How much extra?" I asked. "You know, Tom, we must save every dollar we can."

"Well, there is one way to find out. Let's phone Commercial Credit. That's the finance company that guarantees new car buyers against any over-charges in financing."

"Yes . . . and they also guarantee that we get exactly the insurance* we pay for."

So we called them up. They gave us all the facts and told us that the total finance charge is only 50c a month per $100 of the amount to be financed. They told us we could buy any make of new car on their guaranteed plan.

We have to be sure, however, our new car is financed through Commercial Credit.

"I have heard plenty about padded charges and uncertain insurance coverage provided in some finance plans in Chicago. I'm going to be sure I get that guarantee" said friend husband.

WILL THE BAR REFORM THE BENCH?

United States District Judge John C. Knox in New York, in ordering the disbarment of Louis S. Levy, one of the best known and most prosperous members of that city's bar, condemned his conduct in the strongest words which could be used. The turpitude upon which the order was based involved more than a prominent member of the bar. Its greater significance was that it tainted also a man then sitting as the senior judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals, Federal Judge Martin T. Manton, whose judicial place and prestige were described as being just inferior to that of a member of the United States Supreme bench.

Manton was convicted of selling his judicial decisions, writing opinions favorable to clients from whom he, his business associates, and the companies in which he was interested had received money. The disclosures in this case struck at the bench and the bar. Unfortunately for the opinion which must be entertained of the enforcement of justice in the United States, the Manton episode does not stand out as a startling blot upon the otherwise confirmed integrity of law enforcement. While the conduct of Manton was coming to light Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas of Connecticut was called back from a winter cruise in the Caribbean to answer questions regarding his association with Manton and with the affairs of the great swindler, Donald F. Coster-Musica.

Thomas met the inquiry by resigning and entering a sanitarium, thereby avoiding impeachment proceedings. In the public mind at this time it was natural that the misfortunes of the New York State Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer should also have a place. Justice Lauer had been unable to restrain Mrs. Lauer from repeated violations of the customs law and from smuggling jewels and apparel of great value. His innocence of participation may have made the inferences unjust.

Again, if New York and Connecticut were the only localities to disturb the confidence in the administration of justice, there might be the feeling that deplorable episodes were so much the exception that the general probity of the judicial system need not be gravely suspected. However, again in New York it must be remembered that Ferdinand Pecora, the trial judge in the first Hines case, so conducted the trial that the great New Deal racketeer and political scoundrel, facing a New Deal judge, was discharged on a technicality which found no proper judicial support. Subsequently before another judge Hines was convicted by District Attorney Dewey.

From the east the scrutiny of the bench can move to other parts of the country without gaining reassurance that there is little cause for alarm. Here in Chicago the relations of several judges with underworld characters and with fraud even in their own court have been revealed. One Municipal court judge, Eugene McGarry, is under indictment and Judge Eugene Holland, in whose court hundreds of gambling charges were dismissed, is being questioned as to his relations with the murdered race track man and former Capone associate, O'Hare.

If the country were combed for instances in which the judicial system has failed to merit the confidence of the people many disturbing illustrations of unjudicial conduct could be found and many in which the authority of the court has seemed to protect the political malefactors and their criminal associates for whom the law was supposed to be reaching. Of these incidents one in Louisiana stands out, where the scandals of the state university have resulted in a general exposure of the corruption fostered by the inheritors of the Huey Long empire.

In Judge George P. Platt's court members of a grand jury undertook to protest against the methods of District Attorney Charles A. Byrnes and were ordered under arrest. They charged the district attorney was obstructing their inquiries. The court refused to hear their petition and turned two of them over to his bailiffs. That procedure brought out one of the largest mass-meetings of indignant citizens New Orleans has seen in a generation.

The people of the country cannot preserve a wholesome confidence in their judicial processes when they read daily of so many instances in which the judiciary and the law enforcement officers show laxity, perversity, duplicity, and even extraordinary turpitude. People must feel that the organized bar of the country, the American Bar association, and the state bar associations have not shown the proper interest, the right spirit, or a decent concern for the standards of law enforcement.

Naturally people would expect that an honorable profession would be the first concerned with the courts in which it practices. The bar should be the leader of public opinion, it should be the champion of justice, and it should use its power and influence, not laggardly but on the alert to expose and punish misdeeds and crimes on the bench. It should keep its own profession clean. It should be the guardian of judicial integrity.

The facts appear to the practicing lawyers long before they become public knowledge. An indifferent bar lets the people down. It will damage its own profession. It can permit a judicial deterioration which will impair all law. This country has a constant struggle to keep its various governments to the honest performance of duty and no pollution of the sources could be greater than a poisoning of the headwaters of law enforcement.

LORD ROTHERMERE AS A SOVEREIGN STATE.

The London court hearing of the claims of Princess Stefanie Hohenlohe-Waldenburg on the pocketbook of Viscount Rothermere, the English newspaper publisher, contains so many suppressions that interest, altho all agog, remains unsatisfied. The ageing editor, ripe in the experiences of succeeding the great Northcliffe, his brother, has had a tremendous time in the Bagdads of the world.

The princess was his roving ambassadress. Rothermere, speaking for himself as a witness, said: "I am not a sovereign state, yet." It is just because he seems so much to have been one that the reticence of the English court is so tantalizing when letters, personages, and events are mentioned shadowly only to be skipped. Princess Stefanie affirms that Lord Rothermere gave her a contract stipulating that she should receive five thousand pounds for life to act as his representative in the courts and chancelleries of Europe.

As his representative she had tried to guide Herr Hitler in the good life. He disappointed both her and her patron. If a gentle stimulus from Rothermere had worked, how much more than five thousand a year for life it would have been worth. Any good chancellor of the exchequer would have put it in the annual budget as he reduced the tax from seven to three shillings in the pound.

Another joint enterprise of the princess and her patron was to reëstablish the Hapsburgs in Hungary. Rothermere said that Hungary was so poor it couldn't afford a crown, but he would have contributed funds. "It's a great pity it did not come off." What a man. He would have put an ancient monarchy on his pay roll. Some American editors flatter themselves that they support an administration, but not in the Rothermere fashion, not by footing the civil list and furnishing the royal buttery. Rothermere was a greater man than Col. House.

There is too much left out of the story in the London court. The British included in the white book—Miscellany No. 9—on Poland and the deterioration of the European situation, Ambassador Nevile Henderson's narratives of his chats with Hitler and Goering. They make the success of the book. May we look forward to Miscellany No. 10, on the deterioration of the Hitler reformation and the Hapsburg return, with all the documents?

LORD LOTHIAN'S SUGGESTION.

The proposal of Lord Lothian that the war end in the formation of a United States of Europe—while extremely difficult, if not impossible in practice—is excellent in theory, certainly is far ahead of the balances of power and the peaces that have been imposed by the victors on the vanquished, in the past.

If it should prove impracticable, as it probably would, to form a United States of Europe, with a congress passing laws for the government of Europe, it should prove entirely feasible to reach a just peace with all subject peoples freed and allowed self-government within boundaries arrived at and guaranteed by all of the European nations.

Peace, except by conquest, can only come thru the acceptance of the warring powers of terms suggested by the peaceful powers and guaranteed by them, because the warring countries have every reason to distrust each other, their past relationships having been continued deceits and betrayals.

If such a just peace can be achieved, neither of the warring sides would denounce or betray it, if faced not only by a new war with its present enemy, but war with the present enemy reënforced by all of the neutral states of Europe. Lord Lothian may have made an outstanding contribution to European peace.

Editorial of the Day

OF MICE AND MEN—A BIOMETRIST'S LAMENT.

[Baltimore Sun.]

To reduce expenses the London zoo has developed a system whereby animal lovers can adopt pets—anything from a dormouse to an elephant. The guardian can't take the creature home with him [presumably he wouldn't want to]; but the weekly sum he subscribes is spent on feeding the animal he designates, and in recognition of this service his name is inscribed on a plate affixed to the cage. A dormouse costs its guardian a shilling a week; bears run to 5 shillings, elephants to 30. The panda is tops. It costs £2 every seven days to support it in the style to which captive pandas are accustomed.

It seems unfortunate that the system could not be extended to other animals which are perhaps less impressively decorative but certainly no less useful than pandas and elephants. In a recent issue of the New Statesman and Nation Prof. J. B. S. Haldane, Weldon professor of biometry at London university, contributes a melancholy article entitled "I Was a Biometrician." As a consequence of war, he points out, the university has evacuated a skeleton staff, closed its libraries and halted much of its research. "In the case of nonbiological sciences," he writes, "the temporary cessation is not very serious. In my own it is fatal." He and his department, he explains, concerned themselves with "the details of inheritance" in flies, beetles, rats, mice, and other creatures. Now "some of my pedigreed stocks have found, or may later find, refuge elsewhere. Other animals of known pedigree have had to be destroyed and many years' work will be required to build up similar stocks again."

That does not constitute the whole of his lamentation. He also regrets the dismissal of junior assistants and, above all, the serious pause his work must suffer. But the desolation of his laboratories summarizes the problem. "Horse racing," he says, "is not, like scientific research, a prerogative of civilized peoples, and some will think that so long as pedigreed race horses continue to eat food which might otherwise be used a war to save civilization might respect humbler creatures which serve science."

The cost of war has never before been stated in terms of mice and beetles; but these sacrifices that entail the suspension of work which, "if it does not answer the problems of human eugenics, at least suggests the methods by which they may be answered" are no less real, and perhaps, in the long view, no less serious than the more obvious sacrifices of human comfort and national wealth.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

AMONG THE FIRST EDITIONS.

Number 11 Eldridge Court was a famous literary address in Chicago from 1893 to 1905. George Bernard Shaw and Robert Louis Stevenson addressed letters to it, and more than 300 books were published there. The English reading world had its eyes fixed on Eldridge Court then, but today there are not many Chicagoans who can say offhand where it was.

Well, it was the present 9th street, between Wabash and Michigan avenues; and No. 11 was an old carriage house—a three story one—that had belonged to the Willoughby mansion. There Stone & Kimball, and later Herbert S. Stone & Co. had their editorial workshop.

A collection of first editions, cover designs, and posters from 11 Eldridge Court is now on exhibition at the Newberry library, and we feel like lecturing a bit on a few of its items. Here is George Ade's most mentioned work: "Fables in Slang," 1903, bound in yellow buckram with blue lettering; title page by Frank Hazenplug; 46 illustrations by Clyde J. Newman.

The firm had previously published Ade's "Artie" and "Pink Marsh" [short stories] and announced a novel by him to be called "The College Widow." But Ade never wrote a novel with this title; he had merely talked about it, so he gave Mr. Stone the "Fables," compiled from his newspaper columns instead. He turned his "College Widow" idea into a play in 1905.

Here is "Graustark," George Barr McCutcheon's maiden book, 1901: Bound in gray-blue cloth, stamped in white; error, "Noble's" for "Lorry's" in line 6, page 152. This was an editorial lapse, for McCutcheon had called his hero John Noble and the publishers had changed it to Granfell Lorry, except in that line. There was much revision of the original manuscript by the staff; Mr. Stone, Lucy Monroe, and Wallace Rice were the people who trimmed its rough edges.

Here is McCutcheon's second: "Castle Craneycrow," 1902; title supplied by his brother, John T., from an old nursery rhyme.

Sidney Kramer, Ph. D., U. of C., is about to publish a book that will tell you the rest of the story.

THE UNLUCKY AGE.

Being thirteen is a nuisance, by heck!
Mother still washes my ears and my neck,
Tells me my shoes are not properly shined,
Scolds when my shirt tail is showing behind.

Dad says that thirteen is time for some brains,
Says I'm too old to be playing with trains;
When he was my age, he'd like me to know,
He was a hustler and earning real dough!

Movies now cost me a quarter a time;
Kids a year younger get in for a dime!
Haircuts, like grownups, cost seventy-five;
"Boys of thirteen are too little to drive."

Too big for this and too little for that!
Dad says my head is too big for my hat;
Mom says such finger nails she's never seen—
Gosh, but it's tough when a guy is thirteen!

Hidden Gems in the London Times.

I observe you are giving Sherlock Holmes a run for his money. I find in the London Times of Oct. 7 the following obituary notice: [Could she be related to the characters in "The Hound of the Baskervilles"?]

Baskerville—On Oct. 6, 1939, at Crowsley Park, Henley-on-Thames, Caroline, widow of Col. John Baskerville, aged 93. Funeral strictly private.

The Agony Column of said Times is always good for a grin or two. For example:

Mr. Churchill's Westminster flat; 5 bedrooms, 3 baths, 3 sitting rooms, to be let furnished for 9 months at its unfurnished rent. Write Private Secretary, Admiralty House, Whitehall.

Apparently the London children aren't the only ones getting evacuated. Terry.

HATS AND THE SOUL.

I meant to hear the sermon today,
But all the hats were in my way—
The hats of gray and the hats of brown,
The many black hats with the pancake crown,
The drab little hats and the gay ones, too,
The hats that were old and the hats that were new,
And I wondered if hats were, perhaps, a guide
To minds and souls, if one saw inside;
If a hat of gray with a rolled-down brim
Meant a weary soul with its light burned dim;
If the one over there with a rose of red
Was owned by a soul that tossed its head;
If jaunty hats covered souls that were glad
And if droopy souls' hats were tired and sad;
If a saucy feather that caught my eye
Was owned by a soul with wings to fly.

O, I meant to hear the sermon today
But all the hats were in my way.

THE ANTISEPTIC POWER OF THE STOMACH.

Every little while some one will inquire about the antiseptic function of the gastric juice—the fluid manufactured by the stomach glands. Will it destroy germs? As we know, this substance contains hydrochloric acid [.2 of 1 per cent] as well as several ferments and enzymes.

The query comes presumably because most of us realize that the oral cavity is not sterile. In other words, various organisms and parasites may linger about the teeth, on the tongue, and within the structures of the throat. In consequence, they are swallowed along with our meals. Fortunately, most of these invaders are innocuous, but some vicious types from the tonsils or elsewhere may be mixed with the edibles and sent on the journey thru the alimentary tract.

While the suggestion was made more than a hundred years ago that the gastric juice possessed the ability to do away with bacteria, no proof was forthcoming until recent studies demonstrated that digestion is but one of the jobs of this important secretion. But we must not think of the stomach as a complete disinfecting pouch. On the contrary, many organisms will survive to tell the tale.

Apparently it is the hydrochloric acid which issues the death warrant to many potential breeders of disease. It is probably true also that a rather potent chemical which exists in dilute form in saliva serves as an assistant. In the presence of an ordinary food such as milk the microbe which is responsible for undulant fever [Brucella abortus] and which so frequently contaminates lacteal fluid has a hard time holding on. That it will live in some instances is evidenced by the many cases of this malady which we encounter. The chances are, however, that we would have much more illness of this character were it not for the killing action of the stomach secretions.

In the same manner we can explain why, in a considerable number of individuals who drink water containing typhoid germs, only a relatively few will be attacked by the ailment. We can assume that about 10 per cent of those who imbibe an equal quantity of organisms will be afflicted. With the others the gastric juices are sufficiently strong to render the germs harmless. It should be remarked, however, that food may reduce the bactericidal power of this material, particularly when accompanied by large amounts of fats.

We must acknowledge our debt to this wise provision of nature. Were it not for the output of the peptic glands, the body would of necessity be obliged to make some other provision for slaughtering countless microbes. Thus, we can understand that whenever the normal acid is absent, as it may be in certain conditions, we observe a greater tendency toward intestinal infections.

Now and then patients lack hydrochloric, even tho they exhibit no immediate symptoms. Among our older friends this is not at all uncommon. In fact, we note the phenomenon occasionally following an illness such as influenza. But sooner or later, unless the chemical is supplied, many of these persons will complain of digestive upsets, some of which are of bacterial origin.

In any discussion of this sort we must, of course, think of general physical resistance and what we call susceptibility. Children rarely contract typhoid but they seem predisposed to dysentery.

But this does not mean that we ought to depend upon the digestive system to take care of noxious "critters." Emphasis must be laid constantly upon clean foods, clean dishes, clean utensils, clean methods in both cooking and eating, and clean hands at the table. If this does nothing more, it will save much work on the part of the alimentary tube. As has been pointed out, fluid taken with meals makes very little difference as water in the gastric pouch actually stimulates the glands to increased production.

A COMMON EXPERIENCE.

N. W. writes: At night when I am in bed I feel a swaying motion at the back of my head. When I open my eyes it subsides. What causes this?

REPLY.

This is a common experience following long automobile rides, boat trips, etc. It is due to the stimulation of the apparatus in the inner ear controling equilibrium. It is transmitted frequently via the muscles of the eyes.

SPLINTS MAY HELP.

M. F. F. writes: Can anything be done for a baby who was born with the small toe lying under the next one?

REPLY.

The application of a proper splint may correct the defect. Your physician can advise you.

PROBABLY AN INFECTION.

J. M. writes: What is the cause of a red spot appearing periodically on the white of the eye? Patient is 31 years old.

REPLY.

This may be due to a slight irritation or infection. As a rule, a tiny capillary becomes distended, or it may rupture.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

Nov. 16, 1914.

[111th day of world war; 77th of present war.]

PARIS.—The government announced that the Germans had been driven back from all their positions on the left bank of the Yser canal. [There was no denial from Berlin except a brief comment that the army's progress was satisfactory.]

PARIS.—It was announced here that a British cruiser had shelled and disabled the Turkish forts at Shekh Said on the Strait of Bab-el-Mandeb at the entrance to the Red sea. Indian troops then landed and after driving the garrison inland, blew up the fort's magazines.

VIENNA.—It was admitted here that the Servians had checked the Austrian advance. The Montenegrin army, it was announced, had driven back the Austrians in Herzegovina province, Austria.

LONDON.—All Britain was mourning the death of Sir Frederick Sleigh Roberts, hero of the South African war. Lord Roberts died of pneumonia after he had contracted a chill while visiting British troops in France.

CITIZENSHIP DAY.

Manitowoc, Wis., Nov. 13.—Citizenship day, with formal public induction into the status of American citizenship of all 21 year old citizens, the pattern for which was set by Manitowoc county last May, will spread to state and nation in 1940.

The American Bar association could do nothing more worth while than to indorse and promote the Manitowoc plan and program on a national scale. I am confident lawyers everywhere would find it an inspiring undertaking, rich in rewards. Now, as never before, do we need a sincere, inspiring, nation-wide demonstration of Americanism in action. And who is better qualified to do this than the lawyers of America.

Already lawyers in many sections of the country have manifested an interest in the movement. The state bar association of Montana unanimously indorsed the Manitowoc plan and adopted a procedure for such a program.

President C. A. Beardsley of the American Bar association writes:

"I agree with you that your plan might be a useful and laudable project for the American Bar association."

THE TRIBUNE indorsed the plan editorially last January. Can't you urge the A. B. A. to indorse the plan? Citizenship day is the birth of a new day in American democracy!

AN ISSUE FOR VOTERS.

Oregon, Ill., Nov. 15.—Petitions are being circulated in Ogle county for the right to vote next November on whether the voters want county commission government or retain township supervision. THIS MANTENO PATIENT DIED.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—In answer to Dr. Neuchiller's letter of Nov. 8, which said "the relatives of patients at Manteno should be thankful that Manteno has such a competent staff of physicians." Where does the thankfulness come in?

The amount of taxes paid by the people of Illinois entitles them to a competent staff of physicians at any institution. As to the competency of the staff at Manteno, I have my doubts. You see, Dr. Neuchiller, I happen to be the relative of a patient who DIED at Manteno. And I did not see any particular signs of competency in my visits there. An oxygen tent, brought to save a dying patient, took two hours to arrive, and once there the "competent staff" did not seem to understand how to set it up. Needless to say it was too late.

Also, it was not brought until the relatives insisted, and they also paid for it. It should have come voluntarily four or five hours earlier. I think if we had kept this patient out of the hands of that staff she would be alive today. But we put her there believing she would be made well. I saw a nurse, or rather an attendant, take this same dying patient's pulse and say she did not know what it was. I am not a nurse, and I took that patient's and was easily able to count it. Incidentally, it was about 160, and there was no doctor in attendance. We had to phone our personal physician and he recommended medicine she should have been having. We had to rout a doctor up to give her this medicine, but it was too late. And the death certificate gave the remote cause of death, not the immediate one. We still don't know the immediate cause of death of this patient. Competent staff, did you say?

A RELATIVE OF A PATIENT WHO DIED.

POLITICS; NOT FARMING.

Sullivan, Ill., Nov. 13.—I note in THE TRIBUNE that the trustees of the University of Illinois are protesting about the Normal schools putting in a course of agriculture, claiming it duplicates the work in the agricultural college at Urbana. Evidently the board does not know much about the agricultural branch of the university, except the amount of money it spends. Its chief asset to agriculture is its political side; as an asset to the average farmer in Illinois it is indeed a great joke. But it ranks along with Wallace—when it is a liability and a menace to intelligent farming.

What else could one expect when the entire institution has a decrepit appearance. Many antiques are on the pay roll—waiting for Father Time to place them on the pension list.

Thank you for publishing facts about the Horner administration, or at least some of them. It would take volumes to publish all of it. He certainly has been Illinois' greatest mistake.

THE PUNKEST EDITORIAL.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—I have read many punk editorials published by THE TRIBUNE. The one published today, "A Yardstick Bites the Dust," caps the climax.

Never, at any time or place, has anything been printed as self-contradictory as that editorial.

To try to analyze it would be to dignify it.

To contradict it would be a useless task.

HELPING COMMUNITY FUND.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—The 1939 campaign of the Community fund got off to an unusually fine start. This is due in a large measure to the prompt and generous response from all of those upon whom we have called for help in one form or other.

We are particularly grateful to THE TRIBUNE for its support in the news and editorial columns. This support has been of real help in getting us off to an unusually fine start this year.

HIKING PRICE OF TICKETS.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—I am an ardent six day bike race fan and was angered by the hiking of prices on Saturday night. I attended three nights during the week at the price of 40 cents for the second balcony.

Having worked a friend of mine to a high pitch of excitement we set out Saturday night for the Stadium, with but $1 apiece.

We were greeted by a sign above the box office, $1.10 for balcony. Need I say more? EX-FAN.

A DESERVED TRIBUTE.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—I liked the story of St. Peter's church and its pastor, Father Leander Conley, O. F. M., written by Irene Steyskal in Monday's paper. Altho St. Peter's is the most popular Catholic church in central Chicago, I am sure the information you gave was news to many people. Probably many never had heard of the Franciscan fathers in charge, and of their wonderful service. I hope you will keep publishing more about churches and their pastors' work for the people.

Chicago, Nov. 8 [Legal Friend of the People].—My husband passed away leaving a will in which he left everything he had, personal and otherwise, to me, waiving bond. I was to be executrix and administrator of said estate. There are three children, all under 21 years. Do household furnishings have to be included in his personal effects and be probated when most of the articles were anniversary gifts? M. C.

Yes, technically the household furnishings that belonged to him should be included in his estate.

TRACTION PLAN BLOWS UP; CITY QUITS PARLEYS

Charge Lines Demand Too Much for Bondholders.

The city council yesterday accepted a report by the local transportation committee that an agreement on a unified traction franchise cannot be reached with representatives of the transit lines. The council voted that Mayor Kelly should explain to the federal court, which has jurisdiction over the lines, why a franchise agreement is impossible. The franchise negotiations have been carried on since last May.

The report, submitted to the mayor and council by Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], committee chairman, charged the transit lines with being "more concerned with a guaranteed return to the first mortgage bondholders of the proposed company than giving improved service to the car rider of Chicago."

Assail Exchange Proposal.

The committee said its members could not accept the transit companies' financial reorganization plan drafted last spring before negotiations were begun with the city representatives. The report assailed the provision that the $72,000,000 of surface lines' first mortgage bonds should receive a dollar for dollar exchange of first mortgage bonds in the proposed merged company and that the present 5 per cent interest rate would be maintained on the new bonds.

The report also said the committee could not accept the transit negotiators' proposal that $30,000,000 in cash now held by the Chicago Surface Lines be withheld from the proposed modernization program until earnings of the new company had been proved satisfactory.

Quinn said estimates made by the city's engineering staff showed that the proposed new company could operate with a reasonable profit on a 7 cent street car fare if the fixed interest charges on the bonds were reduced. The companies' negotiators have held out for an 8 cent car fare.

Court to Hear City's Position.

William H. Sexton, special traction attorney for the city, will go before the federal court, representing Mayor Kelly, within the next few days. He will outline the city's position to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Judge Wilkerson has the power to put the transit lines up for court foreclosure sale if a unification can not be worked out under a new franchise. He has threatened many times to sell the properties, but has delayed in the hope that unification could be achieved. Under foreclosure proceedings the elevated and transit lines would be sold separately.

Mayor Kelly said yesterday before the council meeting that the city was tentatively considering the possibility of trying to borrow funds from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to finance a unified transit modernization.

QUIZ 4 ELECTION OFFICIALS ABOUT BALLOT CHANGES

Four election officials of two precincts in the 1st ward were held by the state's attorney's office yesterday for questioning in connection with alleged ballot irregularities in the April and June elections. Assistant State's Attorney Frank Christenson said investigation has shown that ballots were erased and changed at these polling places. Those held are James Shanks, 1636 Prairie avenue, Democratic judge in the 17th precinct of the 1st ward; John O'Hara and Joel Fiske, both of 159 West Van Buren street, and John McAvoy, 444 Sherman street. Fisk and McAvoy were Democratic judges in the 3d precinct of the ward and O'Hara was a Republican judge.

Menaced by Bandits

BERNICE REINKALL.

New City police last night were seeking four bandits who escaped with $6,500 yesterday morning in a daring robbery of a Goldblatt Brothers department store at 4700 South Ashland avenue. One of the bandits was wounded in a gun battle with a store detective in sight of 300 customers and 60 employés.

Carrying a shopping bag, three of the robbers went to a cashier's desk, drew guns, and ordered Mrs. Bernice Reinkall, the cashier, to turn over the money. Mrs. Reinkall screamed and fainted. The robbers scooped up the cash and started for the door.

Charles Regan, the store detective and a former city policeman, followed. Near the door two of the robbers fired at him, but missed. Regan fired and one of the gunmen fell. His companions dragged him outside to an automobile in which a confederate waited. Regan emptied his revolver as the bandit car escaped.

Boyle Bernot, 6147 University avenue, a former policeman and paroled convict, was arrested later for questioning. He was sentenced to Joliet penitentiary as a robber in 1934.

MAYOR FAVORS BUYING OF MORE GARBAGE TRUCKS

Mayor Kelly recommended to the city council yesterday that additional garbage and ash collection equipment be purchased when funds become available. He urged that plans and specifications be drawn up now.

He also asked the council to consider the land fill method of refuse disposal by which New York City now reclaims large areas.

In reporting on street and alley cleaning, Mayor Kelly said a primary need was more coöperation from householders. He said 22 per cent of the buildings in Chicago lack garbage cans. Chicago has only 892 pieces of equipment, rented or owned, for street or alley cleaning, he added, as compared with 3,940 in New York, although the mileage is greater here. New York has only 3,748 miles of streets and few alleys while Chicago has 3,758 miles of streets and 1,025 miles of improved alleys.

Tell How Illinois Employes Are Solicited.

tions armed with a letter of introduction from Welfare Director Bowen. It was addressed to managing officers, superintendents, and wardens and read:

"This will introduce Mr. Harold A. Stone. Any courtesies you may be able to extend to Mr. Stone will be appreciated."

This entree was sufficient to obtain for Stone and Mose the coöperation of the managing officers. An office in one of the institution buildings was placed at their disposal and employés were notified, thru their supervisors, that Mr. Stone and Mr. Mose wanted to see them. When they appeared they were offered an Illinoisan pledge card.

Investigator Poses as Employé.

M. L. Craig of Chicago Heights, investigator for the Civil Service Protective association, posed as an employé at East Moline and approached Stone after he had interviewed two bonafide employés.

"Stone asked me if I wanted to sign a pledge card," Craig testified. "I told him I guessed there was no way out, and I did sign and paid him $1.25, which was 2 per cent of an attendant's monthly salary. I asked Stone where the money went, and he replied that it went for campaign purposes. He said the governor could not campaign on his salary alone."

One witness who refused to contribute was Mrs. Alma C. McElhine, chief nurse at East Moline and a civil service employé.

"Mr. Stone asked me if I wanted to sign," she testified, "and I asked him what the money was to be used for. He replied that it was for the Illinoisans, a Democratic organization, and would be used for campaign funds, literature, and other campaign expenses.

She Refuses to Sign.

"I asked what would happen if I didn't contribute. Mr. Stone said: 'I'm sorry I can't tell you. I have no authority to tell you.' I told him I wanted more time to think it over, and I didn't sign."

When Stone was on the stand, he declared he thanked both those who signed a pledge card and those who didn't.

"I didn't coerce any one, and I didn't say they would 'be taken care of' if they didn't sign," he declared.

Asked the purpose of the Illinoisans, he answered: "We would tell the employés it was a group of state employés interested in good government and anxious to see people affiliated with their party remain in office."

Under Ryan's cross-examination, Stone said he sent the money he collected to Miss Pauline Rithmille at the Illinoisans' office, 602½ East Capitol avenue, Springfield.

Q.—Are you familiar with the law that prohibits solicitation of civil service employés? A.—I am now.

Q.—Were you then? A.—No.

Q.—Did any one tell you to collect from civil service employés? A.—No.

Q.—Were the solicitations made on the institution grounds? A.—Yes.

It was not until late in the day that the name of Public Works Director Smith, head of the Illinoisans, came into the testimony. Assistant Attorney General Milne brought it out in his questioning of Collector Mose.

Q.—What is the purpose of the Illinoisans? A.—I never had it explained to me.

Q.—Do you know any of the officers? A.—No.

Q.—Which Smith? A.—F. L. Smith.

Attorneys in Clash.

Attorney Edmund Burke, well known Springfield lawyer who was prosecutor in the so-called Lorimer graft trials many years ago, appeared at the hearing as counsel for Dr. Joseph A. Campbell, managing officer at the East Moline institution. One of his questions led to a sharp exchange between Attorney Ryan and Chairman Lancaster.

Burke was cross-examining Ben B. Wolff, treasurer of the Civil Service Protective association.

Burke had brought out through previous questioning of Clayton F. Devine, president of the association, that it had from 3,800 to 4,200 members who paid $12 annual dues, payable quarterly in advance.

"What is this money spent for?" Burke asked Wolff. "I object!" Ryan shouted.

"Why?" demanded Chairman Lancaster. "It isn't an issue here," Ryan told him.

Charges Made, Chairman Says.

"This commission," said the chairman firmly, "wants to know what all funds solicited from civil service employés are used for."

"But there have been no complaints about the way in which the association's money is spent by the association," Ryan countered.

"That isn't true," Lancaster replied. "There have been complaints which have been made to this commission as a body."

"Name one!" Ryan challenged.

"I could give you several!"

Chairman Lancaster finally asked Devine and Ryan to furnish him a certified statement of income and expenditure of the association for 1938 and 1939.

"I assume," Ryan said, "that you are going to ask a similar statement from the Illinoisans?"

"Do you think that's essential?" Lancaster replied. "That's one of the matters I wanted to discuss with you attorneys."

Newspaper men later asked Lancaster whether he planned to ask for a financial statement from the Illinoisans. He said the commission members would decide.

CHINESE BATTLE JAPANESE DRIVE AGAINST LIFELINE

Fighting Rages 35 Miles from Indo-China.

HONGKONG, Nov. 15 (AP).—Chinese forces on the coast of Kwangtung province in south China battled today against a new Japanese attack believed aimed at China's rail and highway lifelines to the outside world thru French Indo-China.

Japanese headquarters here announced that combined army and naval forces had landed near Pakhoi, 300 miles west of Hongkong on the gulf of Tongking.

Chinese military officials at Chungking, Chinese capital, confirmed the landing. They said an unknown number of Japanese troops came ashore from 12 transports, 45 miles west of Pakhoi and only 35 miles east of the border of French Indo-China.

Shore Guns Duel Warships.

Advices received by Chinese government spokesmen here said Chinese shore batteries engaged in a fierce duel with Japanese warships lying off the coast.

Thru Indo-China run the lifelines that have been China's route of supplies from abroad since the closing of virtually all of her seaports by Japanese occupation.

The point where the Chinese said the attack was launched is only 80 miles south of Nanning, army center of Kwangsi province. If the Japanese are intent on cutting the overland lifelines they would have to strike thru this province.

It was believed here that the Japanese were more interested in such a maneuver than in merely occupying Pakhoi. Altho it is the only treaty port of south China remaining in Chinese hands, Pakhoi is not considered vital.

Near Hainan Island.

The scene of the attack, in addition to being near to French Indo-China, is just north of Hainan Island, the occupation of which last Feb. 10 by the Japanese brought inquiries from both Great Britain and France as to Japanese aims.

The Japanese then replied the occupation would continue only long enough to wage war against the régime of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek. Today the Japanese foreign office in Tokio said of the new attack that "the Japanese government will adhere strictly to the policy hitherto pursued toward third powers."

BALLOT FRAUD FOES MAP NEW COUNTY FIGHT

A plan for a county-wide organization to end election fraud in Chicago was drawn up yesterday at a civic luncheon sponsored by the Chicago Bar association.

The organization will be an affiliation of groups which have fought election fraud in the past. The Honest Ballot committee, formed in 1934, of which Mrs. Harriet M. Robertson is chairman, will serve as a neutral clearing house, it was decided.

Thru the new affiliation duplication of activity will be avoided, Attorney Albert J. Meserow, chairman, said. It also may make it possible to have a volunteer watcher in every precinct in the 1940 elections. As H. Barry McCormick, chairman of the Chicago city manager plan, said: "Next year is a crucial year. Illinois is the pivotal state. Chicago is its pivotal city. If we ever needed watchers, we will need them then."

"If people only knew what a little bit of good it took to overcome the dishonesty of elections," Mrs. Will F. Lyon, vice president of the Cook County League of Women Voters, said, "they would be glad to contribute that good."

Birds Upset Test.

November 15, 1939.

HUNGRY birds upset a hybrid corn test at the Du Page county farm this fall. Five different hybrid strains were planted side by side in one of the fields in order that yield and other comparisons could be made. Starlings started ripping open the tips of the husks and eating the soft kernels as soon as the ears formed. Workers noticed that the birds usually stayed along one side of the field and seldom went beyond the first eight rows of corn.

Later crows and pheasants attacked the same cornfield. They, too, did most damage along the same side of the field where the starlings had fed. When it was time to pick the corn this fall the harvesters found that many ears had been ruined along the west side of the field, while there was only slight damage elsewhere.

Thus Yield Is Reduced.

As a result the eight rows of hybrid No. G8 made a yield of only 45.7 bushels per acre, while the yields of the other four strains ranged from 62.3 to 73.6 bushels per acre. All the corn was planted at the same time, cultivated the same way, and the soil was fairly uniform thruout the field.

The farm workers are of the opinion that the birds found the kernels of the No. G8 corn no more tempting than those of the other strains, but that they ate the corn near the edge of the field because it was easier to watch from there for any possible approach of danger. Crows and starlings almost invariably do more damage around the edges of a cornfield than out in the middle. That was true this year of all the cornfields on the farm.

All the G8 corn that escaped the birds was hard and dry at picking time and was considered of good quality. The corn of the different strains was weighed as it was gathered and the yields were figured on the basis of 72 pounds to the bushel.

Yield of Other Strains.

The highest yielding strain was No. G12. It made 73.6 bushels per acre, but the ears contained slightly more moisture at picking time than those of the other strains. No. G23 came next with a yield of 71.1 bushels per acre. The ears were dry and more uniform in size than any of the others.

Hybrids No. G30 and G161 produced 68.7 and 62.2 bushels per acre, respectively. Nearly nine acres of G114 grown in the same field made a slightly lower yield than the average of the four best hybrids in the special test.

The heaviest corn yield on the farm this year came from a field of 4.1 acres of hybrid No. G66. This small field made 415 bushels, or 101.2 bushels per acre. The field was near a cattle feeding yard and had been manured heavily. No. G66 is a special grain hybrid, but it makes large stalks and heavy foliage and sometimes is used at the farm for silage. The average yield for the entire 29.6 acres of corn harvested for grain this fall was 72.2 bushels per acre.

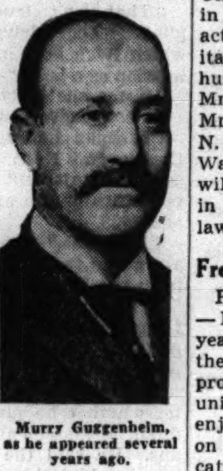
M. GUGGENHEIM, COPPER MINING FIGURE, IS DEAD

New York, Nov. 15 (AP).—Murry Guggenheim, 81 years old, member of the famous copper mining family, died today. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Leonie Bernheim Guggenheim; a son, and a daughter.



Murry Guggenheim, as he appeared several years ago.

With his father and three brothers, Guggenheim organized the firm of M. Guggenheim's Sons in 1881, which merged its smelting and refining branches in 1901 with the American Smelting and Refining company. Business associates said a large measure of the success of the Guggenheim brothers in the metallurgical and allied fields was a result of Murry Guggenheim's business sagacity and foresight.

With the accumulation of mining millions Guggenheim and his wife in 1929 established the Murry and Leonie Guggenheim Foundation for organized charitable and benevolent activities and subscribed more than $3,000,000 for free dental clinics to care for the teeth of poor children in New York.

Guggenheim was an uncle of George Denver Guggenheim, 32, who shot and killed himself in a hotel room here on Sunday.

MARY RYERSON, WIDOW OF STEEL MAN, DIES AT 84

Mrs. Mary Mitchell Ryerson, widow of Edward Larned Ryerson, steel manufacturer, died yesterday in her home at 38 Banks street after a long illness. She was 84 years old.

Mrs. Ryerson was the daughter of Donald G. Mitchell, an author who wrote under the pen name "Ik Marvel." Her husband, who was chairman of the board of the Joseph T. Ryerson & Son Steel company and a leader of social and philanthropic organizations in Chicago, died in 1928. Surviving are her daughter, Mrs. Donald McKay Frost of Boston, and two sons, Joseph Turner Ryerson, a member of the board of the Inland Steel company, and Edward Larned Ryerson Jr., vice chairman of the board of Inland Steel.

Private funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon in Mrs. Ryerson's home, and burial will be in Lake Forest cemetery.

COWLES ESTATE IS $1,120,758 AFTER TAXES AND COSTS

The gross estate left by Alfred Cowles, a director of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for 48 years and a leader in civic affairs, was appraised at $1,538,852 in a report approved yesterday by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. This is reduced to a net estate of $1,120,758 after deductions of $405,144 for income taxes and federal and state inheritance taxes, and $12,950 for administrative costs and other expenses. The bulk of the estate is left to two sons, Alfred Cowles III. and Knight Cheney Cowles. Mr. Cowles, who was 74 years old, died Jan. 15 in his home at 1130 Lake Shore drive.

SCULPTOR WINS DIVORCE; GIVEN CUSTODY OF SON

Carl Hallsthammar, a widely known sculptor, won an uncontested divorce yesterday from Mrs. Martha Hallsthammar before Judge Oscar F. Nelson. The charge was desertion. Hallsthammar, who is 42 years old and lives at 1638 Berwyn avenue, received custody of his son, Carl Olaf, 6. The mother has the right to visit the child once a week. The couple were married in September, 1929, and separated Sept. 10, 1938. Hallsthammar, a native of Sweden, created the figures in the General Motors building at A Century of Progress exposition and in 1937 won the $500 Logan prize at the Art institute.

STEAL $250 STATUETTE.

Arax Develian, owner of the Oriental Art gallery at 8 North Michigan avenue, reported to police yesterday the theft of a Chinese ivory statuette valued at $250.

IF THROAT IS SORE

IF A COLD has given you a miserable sore throat, here's how to relieve the suffering.

DO THIS NOW—Melt a small lump of VapoRub on your tongue and feel the comforting medication slowly trickle down your throat—bathing the irritated membranes—bringing blessed relief where you want it, when you want it.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Augusta E. Hoff.

Mrs. Augusta E. Hoff, a resident of Hyde Park for 52 years and the wife of Charles W. Hoff, president of the University State bank, died yesterday in Presbyterian hospital. She was active in women's clubs and charitable organizations. Besides her husband she leaves three daughters, Mrs. Hazel MacClintock of Chicago; Mrs. Clarence S. Gedney, Buffalo, N. Y., and Mrs. H. B. Le Quatte, Port Washington, N. Y. Funeral services will be held at 3:15 p. m. tomorrow in the family home at 5641 Woodlawn avenue.

Frederick N. Willson.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 15 [Special].—Frederick Newton Willson, 83 years old, for 43 years a member of the Princeton faculty and since 1923 professor of graphics emeritus in the university, died today. As a hobby he enjoyed inspecting new bridges and on his 80th birthday he crossed the catwalk of the Golden Gate bridge. This year he crossed the Hudson river on the catwalk of the George Washington bridge.

Mrs. Nellie Makowski.

Mrs. Nellie Makowski, 58 years old, wife of Paul Makowski, record clerk at the county jail, died of heart disease yesterday in her home, 2838 North Drake avenue. Her husband, a son, and a daughter survive. Funeral services will be held in St. Hyacinth's church at 9:30 a. m. Saturday.

Charles W. Pasche.

Davenport, Ia., Nov. 15 [Special].—Charles W. Pasche, 76, president of the Davenport Besler corporation, died today of a heart ailment. Mr. Pasche was born Sept. 1, 1863, in La Crosse, Wis., and was a banker as well as a manufacturer.

FIVE AMERICAN ARMY BOMBERS ARRIVE IN RIO

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 15 (AP).—Five American army bombers, bearing a message of felicitation from President Roosevelt to President Getulio Vargas, arrived here today to take part in the celebration of Brazil's 50th anniversary as a republic.

Mr. Roosevelt's message recalled his visit here in 1936 and declared the mutual friendships of the two countries was based on mutual respect and the right of new world nations to realize their destiny without extraneous interference.

The "flying fortresses" flew to Rio de Janeiro from Asuncion, Paraguay. A sixth plane was left behind there because it was damaged in attempting to take off and a seventh landed at Porto Alegre, 400 miles from here because of fuel shortage.

RECLUSE FOUND DEAD; HAS $2,227 IN OLD ROCKER

Karol Dombrowski worked on the railroads and in the steel mills and saved his money. Then his wife died several years ago, and he lived alone on the first floor of a two flat building he owned at 8540 Muskegon avenue.

A neighbor, Mrs. Mary Myslewski, 8311 Manistee avenue, missed the familiar figure of Dombrowski on the streets yesterday and went to investigate. Peeping thru a window, she saw Dombrowski, dead in bed. She summoned South Chicago police.

They found $16 in a dresser drawer. Mrs. Myslewski said she thought the old man had considerably more. She was right. In the bulging back of an old rocking chair the police found $2,227.25.

Dr. Frank J. Goodnow.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 15 (AP).—Dr. Frank J. Goodnow, 81 years old, former president of the Johns Hopkins university and legal adviser to the first government of the Republic of China, died today. He had been in failing health since retiring from the university presidency, 10 years ago. Dr. Goodnow was summoned to China shortly after becoming dean of the Columbia university political science department in 1906, and became adviser to Yuan Shi Kai, leader of the newly created republic. He helped prepare a constitution for China similar to that of Japan, except that it provided for a president instead of an emperor. He became president of Johns Hopkins in 1915.

Henry M. Scambler.

Henry M. Scambler, a retired insurance broker, died yesterday. He was 75 years old and had been a resident of Chicago for 50 years. His home was at 1408 Jarvis avenue. He leaves his widow, Frances; two daughters, Ethel G. and Gertrude E., and two sons, the Rev. John and Dr. Frederick Scambler. The Rev. Mr. Scambler is pastor of St. Christopher's Episcopal church, Oak Park. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the Church of the Atonement, Kenmore and Ardmore avenues. Burial will be Memorial Park cemetery.

John E. Morrell.

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 15 (AP).—John E. Morrell, 28 years old, member of a packing company family, died tonight of pneumonia. His father, the late John H. Morrell, was president of the Morrell Packing company. A brother, George A. Morrell of Ottumwa, Ia., is treasurer. Young Morrell was born in Ottumwa and was graduated from Dartmouth college. He came to Topeka two years ago to work in the company's plant. Later, however, he turned his attention to aviation.

Cyrenus Cole.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—Cyrenus Cole, 76 years old, retired Republican congress member from the 5th Iowa district, died here last night. He was editor of the Cedar Rapids Republican when elected to congress in 1921. He did not seek reelection in 1932, ending 12 years continuous tenure of office. Recently he completed a revision of a history of Iowa which he wrote many years ago.

Frank B. Baird.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 15 (AP).—Frank B. Baird, 86 years old, Buffalo industrialist and manufacturer, died today. He was known as the "father of the peace bridge," in the building of which he played a leading part. The bridge spans the Niagara river between the United States at Buffalo and Canada at Fort Erie, Ont.

Francis A. Gibson.

JURORS GET 2D SUIT TO CONDEMN LAND AT AIRPORT

A Circuit court jury of six men and six women last evening was deliberating in the second condemnation suit for land required by the city for enlarging Chicago airport. The case was given to the jurors by Judge Denis J. Normoyle shortly after noon.

The case involves 32 of the 78 parcels needed to acquire a new right of way for the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad. The railroad tracks now lie along the line of 59th street, bisecting the 630 acre tract that will make up the expanded airport. The tracks are to be moved north of 55th street.

At the first trial, involving 22 parcels, another jury awarded the owners $18,048, which was $3,375 more than appraisals submitted by the city. Six more condemnation trials are to be held. The next, involving three large parcels, will begin on Dec. 4.

100 ESTIMATED DEAD IN FIRE AT LAKE OIL TOWN

CARACAS, Venezuela, Nov. 15 (AP).—A revised estimate said tonight that probably fewer than 100 persons lost their lives in the fire which swept the stilt supported shanty town of Lagunillas on Lake Maracaibo Monday night.

The government press office issued a statement expressing the opinion that the number of dead and injured was not nearly so high as the 800 estimated earlier. No exact list of dead or survivors was available. Informed quarters said the Venezuelan government would not permit the town to be rebuilt. The village was considered a firetrap, it was said, made more hazardous by escaping oil which sometimes collects in a scum near the shore.

500 TAKE NURSES' EXAM, SO STATE "HIRES A HALL"

Five hundred young women, graduates of nursing schools in Illinois, yesterday took the first part of a ten hour state examination for registered nurses. As only 200 could be accommodated in the examination rooms of the state department of registration and education at 600 South Michigan avenue, the other 300 took the test amid the colorful surroundings of the Casino room in the Congress hotel. The 500 will finish the examination early today. Then 300 other graduates will be put thru the tests, which are conducted by an examining board of five registered nurses.

Dies as Result of Plunge in Rescuing His Pet Dog

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 15 [Special].—Clarence Miller, 42 years old, died today of injuries incurred when he fell from his third floor apartment in rescuing his pet dog. The dog had been sitting on the window sill. Miller tripped as he ran to the window, but pushed the dog off the ledge into the room as he tumbled out.

OMEGA OIL PENETRATES!

That's Why It's Good for Muscular Aches, Pains, and Sore Muscles

You can't help praising such a grand penetrating rub as Omega Oil—it's a real pain reliever that has been helping humanity for many years.

It's a powerful medicated oil and the good relief it often brings in distressing muscular soreness such as backache, chest pains and stiff neck has made it a favorite family remedy in thousands of homes the country over.

It's also great for the relief of sore, aching, burning feet and also the pains of sciatica, lumbago, and muscular rheumatism.

Rub penetrating Omega Oil in good for best results—it won't burn or blister or stain—35 cents is the price.

ASK AUTO CLUBS TO WAR ON GAS TAX DIVERSIONS

Congress Street Scheme Called Typical Misuse.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—The misuse of gasoline tax revenue on projects designed more for realty promotion than for traffic benefits was condemned in a resolution introduced here tonight before the 37th annual meeting of the American Automobile association.

Joseph J. Cavanaugh.

Joseph J. Cavanaugh, manager of the Chicago Motor club, the author, said he was aiming particularly at the 32 million dollar Congress street proposal pending before the Chicago council.

"With every penny of available road funds needed for improvements to lessen the hazards and delays of motor travel," said Cavanagh, "the million affiliated members of this association must actively oppose all plans to divert auto tax dollars to foreign purposes."

Diversion Bad as Graft.

The resolution damns such diversion as an imposition as serious as outright highway graft. It was approved by the committee and will be passed by the convention tomorrow. Omitting the "whereases," it reads in part as follows:

"Realty developments, slum clearance projects, and playground building are worthy objectives, but should be financed by general taxation. To obtain these objectives by building broad parkways of little service to the motorists who pay for them is an imposition.

"Therefore, be it resolved that the American Automobile association urge member clubs to oppose such economically unsound construction with as much vigor as they oppose all forms of highway graft."

Ickes on Program.

Interior Secretary Harold Ickes, who made the future development of Congress street a provision of an 18 million dollar PWA subway grant to Chicago, is on the convention program for tomorrow. He will talk about Travel in the Americas.

The speed trap form of highway graft was described and a plan was advanced for its eradication in a report of an AAA committee headed by Frank E. Whittemore of Akron, O. The report said that fee grabbing justices of the peace and constables were continuing to flourish, notwithstanding an opinion from the United States Supreme court several years ago which held that a defendant was deprived of his constitutional rights to an impartial trial when tried before a court with a financial interest in the verdict.

The Whittemore committee held that the justice of the peace system was deeply rooted in American jurisprudence and that political considerations alone might make it impossible to eliminate this court. However, the committee suggested that these magistrates be deprived of all jurisdiction in traffic cases by creation of trafic courts with the judges on salaries.

Council Bans 'U' Turns by Automobiles in Loop

The city council yesterday passed an ordinance prohibiting "U" turns by motor vehicles in the loop district, either at intersections or in the middle of the block. The measure was recommended by the traffic committee, headed by Ald. George D. Kells [28th].

MRS. CAROLINE J. REILLY.

John L. Coyne, a department store official, was sued for $250,000 on a charge of breach of promise in a suit filed in Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Caroline J. Reilly, 42 years old, a widow, of 191 East Walton place.

The bill alleged that Coyne, who is 60 years old, promised to marry Mrs. Reilly on Jan. 30, 1935, in New York City and again on April 27, 1935, in Chicago. But last Aug. 3, while she was in France, she received a letter from him stating that he could not marry her, the bill said.

Breach of promise suits were outlawed by the state legislature on July 1, 1935, but Attorney Gerald Crane, counsel for Mrs. Reilly, said that the present action is filed on the theory that the alleged marriage promises occurred before that date. Crane said that Mrs. Reilly is a former actress and model. Her husband, Charles Reilly of Minneapolis, died in 1926.

ERRING AUTOIST GETS A DRASTIC CHOICE IN COURT

Joseph Cohen, 402 South Karlov avenue, a pharmacist, spent an unfortunate half hour in Safety court yesterday. He was accused of speeding while intoxicated past a stop light at Roosevelt road and Canal street on Oct. 6.

Sergt. Thomas M. Lowery testified that the pharmacist staggered from his car and boasted: "I could buy any cop in town for $5," and tossed a $5 bill at him. Sergt. Lowery had the $5 bill as evidence. When Cohen disclaimed ownership, Judge Joseph B. Hermes confiscated the money and gave it to safety patrol boys from McKay Elementary school, who were visiting the court.

Judge Hermes found Cohen guilty and gave him a choice of a $200 fine or 30 days in jail. When Cohen protested, insisting he could procure witnesses to prove his innocence and his charge that the policeman had abused him, Judge Hermes deferred sentence until next Wednesday.

Miss Jean Hartman, 18, of 2935 North Mason avenue, and Eugene Brooks, colored, of 3853 Langley avenue, were fined $25 each for reckless driving.

Europe's Littlest People Aren't Worried About War

Apparently Europe's animosities don't extend to its littlest people. In a group of 56 midgets who arrived yesterday at the Morrison hotel were natives of England, Scotland, Wales, France, Germany, and Hungary. They appeared during the summer at the New York World's Fair, and were recently granted a six months' extension of their visas to permit them to remain in this country. They don't take up much room. The midgets will appear here in a department store.

INQUEST TO OPEN TODAY IN CRASH DEATH OF CYCLIST

An inquest will be held today in Elmhurst into the death of John Gratzke, 64 years old, of 3d street, Elmhurst, who was killed Tuesday night as he was riding his bicycle in Lake street near Indiana street in the suburb. John Patrick Carbon, 16, of 131 North 20th avenue, Melrose Park, driving his car west in Lake street, struck a car parked partly on the road shoulder. His machine spun around twice into the eastbound lane, where Gratzke was riding.

Carbon and Arthur Steinhebel, 18, of 234 Addison avenue, Elmhurst, owners of the parked car, were both charged with reckless driving. They are to appear today before Justice of the Peace B. E. Rathje in Wheaton.

Run down by a hit and run driver a week ago in front of 3550 North Halsted street, Mrs. Helen Hanson, 48, of 519 Arlington place, died in Cook County hospital.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 759 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 584 were killed in Chicago, where 19,428 were injured in the same period.

AHOY! ADMIRAL'S SNOW CRUISER IS HEADING TO SEA

Boston, Mass., Nov. 15 [Special].—Admiral Richard E. Byrd's motorship North Star tonight was moving along the first leg of its 12,000 mile journey to the Antarctic. It sailed from here at dawn today. It will stop at Philadelphia to pick up some airplanes, then will head, via Panama and New Zealand, for the expedition's west base in the frozen southland.

Aboard the ship is the 37 ton snow cruiser built in Chicago with which the scientists plan to explore 675,000 square miles of unknown territory in the south polar region.

Admiral Byrd said the expedition hopes to strengthen previous United States claims to territory in the Antarctic region. Fifteen different branches of science are expected to be benefited by researches conducted by the expedition.

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an urban superhighway.

PETITION FILED TO TEST VALIDITY OF ROAD BONDS

A petition for leave to file a friendly suit testing the validity of $60,000,000 in notes for superhighways in Chicago and Cook county was filed yesterday with the state Supreme court by Corporation Counsel Hodes. The suit, a mandamus action, will be against Edward J. Barrett, state auditor.

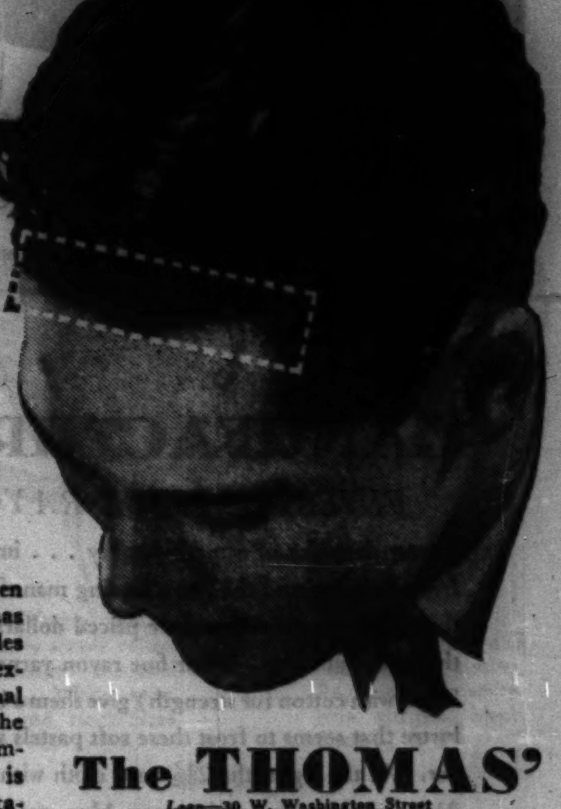
Barrett, in order to form a basis for the test case, refused last Friday to register a $10,000 note for sale by the state treasurer as provided in the enabling legislation enacted by the legislature last summer. The suit is for a court order to direct the auditor to register the notes for sale.

2,050 Reliefers to Start School Patrol Work Today

Ald. William J. Cowhey [41st], chairman of a subcommittee of the council traffic committee, announced yesterday that beginning today 2,050 men on relief rolls will be assigned to duty on crossing safety patrols near schools.

HOW TO AVOID BALDNESS

Watch these danger zones



DEFINITE warning signals always precede baldness. When your scalp itches or is laden with dandruff, and when your hair falls abnormally in the "danger zones" (forehead and crown) you are being warned that baldness is approaching. You must act at once if you wish to avoid baldness.

Do what a quarter-million other men have done—consult Thomas. Thomas treatment is proved by almost two decades of success—is reliable, dignified, and inexpensive. It ends dandruff, stops abnormal hair loss, and promotes hair growth on the thin and bald spots. Call today for a complete scalp examination. No charge is made for the examination nor for consultation and if you do not come within the scope of Thomas treatment you will be promptly told.

"TOUCHDOWN FOR SEAGRAM'S!"

Says TED HUSING

"Those Crown Whiskies are Getting Smoother and Smoother"

We asked Ted Husing, radio's famous sports announcer, to taste and compare Crown Whiskey blended in 1934 — with Crown Whiskey blended in 1939. "Your present Seagram Whiskey wins by a wide margin," said Ted. "It's much smoother and mellower."

Have you tasted Crowns lately? Try the milder 5 Crown—the richer 7 Crown. Both are "America's Finest."

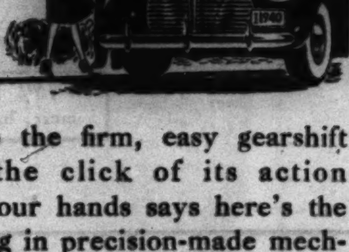
The Big Kick's in Not Being Rich



YES, it's nice to have a lot of money to spend. But don't forget there's also plenty of fun to be had "on the way up" to affluence.

There's the satisfaction of achieving something better than you're used to—stepping up, for instance, to this smart, swift, solid Buick after you've been driving run-of-the-mill cars.

Just you feel the silk-smooth surge of its great 107-horsepower micropoise-balanced straight-eight engine—and you know that all that went before was only preliminary to this big thrill.

You flip the firm, easy gearshift—and the click of its action under your hands says here's the real thing in precision-made mechanisms, not just a stopgap to tide you over.

You roll your steady, even-going, firm-riding way, and the taut, staunch, everywhere-substantial feel of this fine carriage brings a sense of "getting somewhere" as satisfying as your first gilt-edged bond.

You've got action in this honey. You've got style. You've got value, and everybody knows it. You've got life—you'll romp up hills and tame the wide-open spaces and doff your cap to no one on the way.

And there's nothing light, or loose, or tinny, or labored about it anywhere. Here's the sure, steady, take-it-in-stride demeanor of a car that's competent-plus.

Suppose you have to stretch a bit to buy this Buick—well, you'll find that will only make you prize this great eight all the more!

So go look at the car that can mark a milestone in your life. It doesn't cost a thing to find out how little a really good car will stand you delivered.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & Co

DR. F. B. SNYDER BECOMES 11TH N. U. PRESIDENT

Inducted at Ceremony in Evanston Church.

Dr. Franklyn Bliss Snyder was inducted as the eleventh president of Northwestern university at an impressive ceremony yesterday in the First Methodist church of Evanston. In his inaugural address Dr. Snyder said that in the present troubled world humanity's chief hope is still religion and education. He declared the American rights of free speech, free assembly and free press must be preserved.

More than 1,200 persons, including university trustees, all members of the faculty, religious leaders, alumni and students, attended the installation.

Awarded Honorary Degree.

Among those taking part in the ceremonies were Kenneth F. Burgess, president of the board of trustees; Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president emeritus of the university and Dr. Snyder's predecessor; the Right Rev. George Craig Stewart, Episcopal bishop of Chicago; Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Methodist area of Chicago; the Rev. Dr. Ernest Fremont Tittle, pastor of the First Methodist church, and Dr. Thomas F. Holgate, dean emeritus of the university college of liberal arts.

Dr. Scott awarded Dr. Snyder the honorary degree of doctor of humane letters. Burgess then presented the new president with the symbols of authority, the charter and seal of the university.

Tells Need for Freedom.

Dr. Snyder said that at the founding of the university in 1853 two themes appeared — a belief that church and university have a common purpose, the development of educated Christian citizenry, and second, a belief that the university could best work toward this purpose in an atmosphere of religious and intellectual freedom.

"Today the arch foes of humanity are not Hitler or Stalin, nor Naziism or communism," he said, "but sin and ignorance. I have no fear that our American way of life will fall a victim to the 20th century black death that is ravaging Germany and Russia."

Dr. Snyder, who is 54 years old, has been acting president of the university since Sept. 1, when Dr. Scott retired. He has been connected with Northwestern for thirty years and was vice president and dean of faculties before taking his present office.

Wins His Divorce at 86 4 Years After Elopement

DROP BUNDESEN'S BID TO REJOIN MEDICAL SOCIETY

The application of Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health, for readmission to the Chicago Medical society was withdrawn abruptly Tuesday night a few minutes before the society's governing council met to consider new members, it was learned yesterday.

Members of the society said that friends of Dr. Bundesen decided at the last moment to withdraw the application, at least temporarily, because of opposition within the organization to his readmission. Dr. Bundesen said last night he was unaware that the application had been withdrawn.

Dr. Bundesen resigned from the society in 1929 as a protest against the ouster of Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, nationally known surgeon, from membership. Dr. Schmidt was expelled because he was president of the Illinois Social Hygiene league, a philanthropic association which treats venereal disease and engages in campaigns to interest the public in preventive measures.

Charles Boyer, Film Actor, Ready to Fly to America

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 15 (AP).—Charles Boyer, motion picture player, arrived here today with his wife, Pat Patterson. They will leave Sunday for the United States on a Clipper plane.

[It was reported in Paris on Oct. 24 that Boyer, then stationed with the French army in southwestern France, would be recalled to Paris to undertake a propaganda mission in the United States.]

VICTIM OF MANTENO EPIDEMIC TESTIFIES BEFORE GRAND JURY

Fred Brackenbush.

Brackenbush, a victim of the epidemic, was taken from one of the hospital isolation wards after physicians reported he was physically able to respond to the grand jury subpena. Members of the jury said they would accept responsibility for having him leave the isolation ward in violation of a health department rule. Brackenbush has not received the last of a series of injections required before typhoid patients are discharged from isolation.

Other witnesses during the day were Owen Reilly, a watchman at the hospital; Frank T. Harrelson, a steward; Robert Bunch, in charge of the printing shop; Joseph Amen, druggist, and Henry Ahrens, plumber. Reilly and Harrelson were reported to have testified concerning conditions in the hospital kitchens. The grand jury inquiry will be resumed today.

GROUP TO MARK FORT DEARBORN SITE APPOINTED

Council Approves Kelly's 14 Nominees.

The city council yesterday approved a resolution establishing a commission to mark properly the site of old Fort Dearborn. Then it concurred in the appointment of 14 members whose names were submitted by Mayor Kelly.

The chairman is Maj. Harry A. Musham, historian of the fort. Col. Edward N. Wentworth Jr., past national commander of the Military Order of the World War, and Maj. Harold I. Meyer, member of the Society of 1812, are vice chairmen, and Dr. Stanley W. Clark is secretary.

Plan Pavement Marking.

To revive the stirring associations of the fort, the commission proposes that the Michigan avenue bridge be named "Fort Dearborn bridge," that the outline of the original fort be marked in colored concrete set into the surrounding pavement, that a reproduction of the American flag of 1812 fly over the site near the juncture of Michigan avenue and Wacker drive, and that unnamed points in the vicinity be named for members of the garrison massacred by Indians in 1812.

Historians in Group.

Members of the commission besides Maj. Musham, Col. Wentworth, Maj. Meyer, and Dr. Clark are Charles B. Pike, president of the Chicago Historical society; L. Hubbard Shattuck, a director of the society; Robert C. Fergus, a member of the society; Prof. James A. James of the Northwestern university department of history; Robert Knight, assistant city building commissioner; Bion J. Arnold, Edmund J. Doering, Henry S. Bottomley, Lieut. Col. Willard R. Matheny, and Harold G. Sperling.

Ex-officio members are Loran D. Gayton, city engineer; Joseph J. Butler, superintendent of streets; Albert A. Sprague, chairman of the Chicago Plan commission, and George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the Park district.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & CO

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

Reviewing Stand.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 15.—So many fine performances by the younger players that in the rush to the foreground of the Jimmy Stewarts, the Jane Bryans, the Mickey Rooneys, the Linda Darnells, et cetera, we are apt to forget the veterans are still in there pitching.

On the "Grapes of Wrath" set Jane Darwell, who is in her 40's, is enacting the rôle of Ma Joad, one of the coveted rôles of the season. . . . Maria Ouspenskaya, Fay Bainter, Spring Byington, all have passed the 40th milestone. . . . Etienne Giradot, who just died, was 83 years old and a fine performer up to the very last.

C. Aubrey Smith is old enough to be the town's grandpa, but I've yet to see him turn in a bad performance or even a mediocre performance. . . . Lionel Barrymore has seen many winters and many summers, but has yet to see a bad press notice.

This reflection is provoked by Roy Helton's absorbing piece in the October issue of Harper's: "Old People, a Rising National Problem" . . . Helton, pointing out that the nation now has more people of 20 to 65 in our population and fewer under 15 than at any time in 40 years, points out that such movements as "Ham 'n' Eggs" soon will be assured of automatic victory. . . . The growing population of ageing will have the whiphand. . . . In 1850 the national life expectancy was 35 years. . . . He points out that today the life expectancy is 60, and going higher. . . . Civilization has extended the life span and created a national problem. . . . The ageing are no problem on the stage or screen, because the veterans admit no compulsory retirement age . . . their experience makes them better and better. In business life the aged are retired automatically, their experience wasted.

Helton, in his piece in Harper's, insists that the old should be permitted to carry on active and useful lives. . . . He points out that Sophocles was 90 when he completed his Oedipus trilogy, that Titian painted his most magnificent canvas when he was 99, that Benjamin Franklin won the French alliance for the colonies when he was 70, that at 80 Edison was engaged in determining if rubber could be produced from domestic plants.

Hollywood could have offered Helton facts to bolster his contention that the ageing should not be dismissed as unfit. . . . May Robson, Wally Beery, Ronald Colman, Paul Whiteman, Paul Muni, Al Jolson, Fred Allen, Jack Benny, Groucho Marx, W. C. Fields, Cecil B. De Mille, Fannie Brice, Eddie Cantor—all of these are well past their fortieth birthdays and yet are hitting on all six cylinders.

And that's only part of the proof. . . . Leslie Howard, Ina Claire, Victor Moore, Leo Carrillo, Nick Schenck, L. B. Mayer, Sam Goldwyn, Ed Wynn, Sophie Tucker, Alfred Lunt, and Lynn Fontanne, Mary, Boland, George Arliss, George Bancroft, Harry Carey, Gertrude Lawrence—it would be a crime of the most severe dimensions if these people were forced to the sidelines because they've exceeded the 40s, 50s, or 60s.

The late Alice Brady was winning academy awards when she passed her forty-fifth birthday. . . . No, I'm afraid that my sympathies would all be with the ageing people of the world, because they deserve a fair shake of the dice, too. . . .

One morning about 3 o'clock, in the old Lindy's restaurant on Broadway, I asked Arnold Rothstein how it felt to beat all the top gamblers of the world. . . . "There's little or no thrill to it," he said, "because I never play the other fellow's game and he always plays mine. In other words, I own the game and the 'kitty' finally cuts them down to size."

Rothstein's appraisal comes back to me this week in Hollywood, because it so happens that in the last seven days I've watched movie stars and stars of other sports playing the other fellow's game. . . . Last night I played pool with Spencer Tracy, Tim Durant, tennis star Gene Mako, and football star Bill Shakespeare, at Groucho Marx's house. . . . Academy award winner Tracy carefully sighted along the barrel of his cue, took aim and fired. . . . The object ball skittered off to the right of the pocket to the raucous laughter of the other contenders.

Tennis star Mako followed Tracy. . . . Now Mako, partnered with Donald Budge, won every important championship in tennis. . . . He took careful aim, fired and nothing happened. . . . Notre Dame's Shakespeare aimed, fired and almost knocked himself out. . . . Wall streeter Durant proved the best of a sorry lot, but obviously we were all novices at "the other fellow's game."

Two nights previously I'd engaged in a backgammon duel with Tyrone Power, Jack Benny, and Ralph Blum. . . . The three of them beat me, and Tyrone then eliminated them, but just as he was feeling chipper about his victory Mary Benny sat down at the board and gave him a lacing.

Darrieux Lady Plays Lead in French Farce

"MADEMOISELLE MA MERE."
Presented by J. H. Hoffberg.
Directed by Henri Decoin.
Presented at the Sonotone theater.

THE CAST.

Jacqueline	Danielle Darrieux
Her Father	Marcel Simon
Albert Letournel	Alerme
Georges	Pierre Brasseur
Julien Moreuil	Robert Arnoux
The Detective	Pascali
The Inn Keeper	Larquey

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The Sonotone abandons propaganda for the nonce and presents its patrons with a slightly naughtee French farce, which features the young and zestful Danielle Darrieux, with whom we became acquainted in "Mayerling" and "Abus de Confiance."

Prominent with her in the film are one able, middle aged Alerme—as the heroine's husband in name only—and a slim, rather colorful youth named Pierre Brasseur, who plays the husband's son, a young doctor whose dislike for his frivolous stepmother turns into something much different.

Jacqueline is a gold digging little termagant who has married Papa Letournel as a way of evading marriage with another man whom she's decided she doesn't want. Once the wife of the infatuated Albert, she proceeds to treat him like the dirt under her feet and to spend his money on fantastic clothes, household decorations, and gigolos.

Son Georges, feeling that she is disgracing the honorable name of Letournel, puts a detective on her trail. . . . Developments prove her merely floolish—not bad. BUT, infuriated at the espionage, Jacqueline starts out to really do a neat job of 'scutcheon bemirching. . . . Entrez Georges. . . . Of course, the two young people discover that—but I guess I'd better not tell you any more of the story.

"Mademoiselle Ma Mere" is extremely light, decidedly on the side of the risque and adequately acted after the French manner. . . . You may care for Danielle, but I found her rather too much à la screeching guinea hen to be appealing.

See you tomorrow.

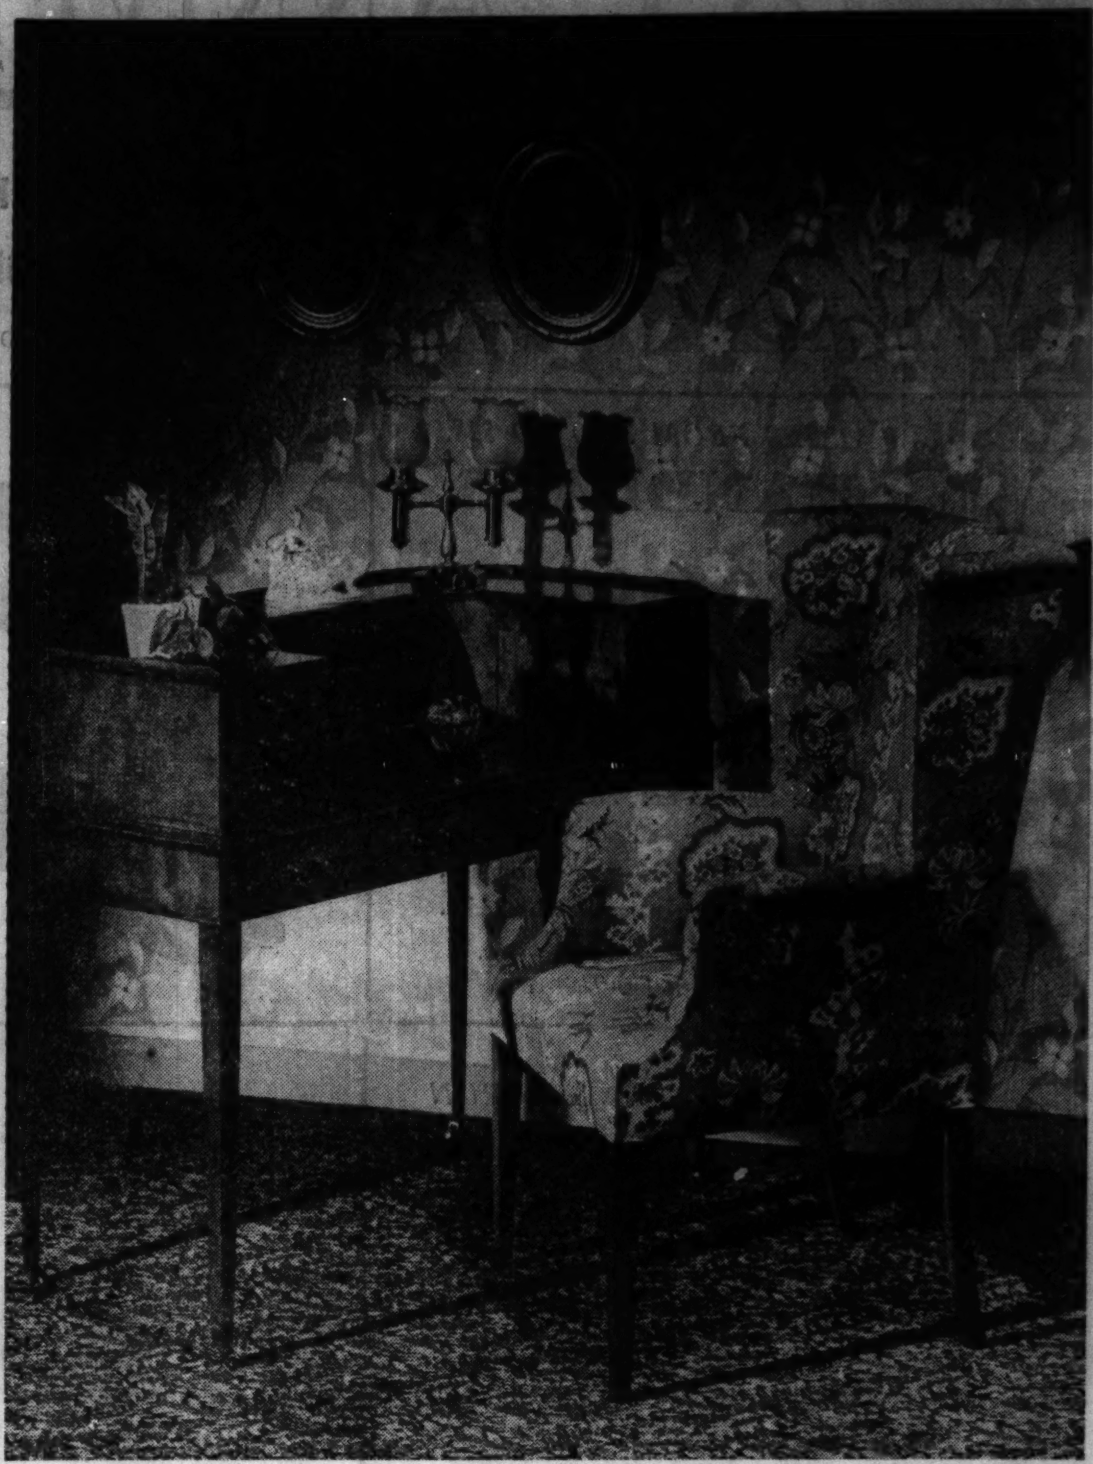
Museum Boosters Will Hold Six Hour Public Tour Monday

A six hour tour of parks and museums will be conducted Monday by the Chicago museum tours committee. The committee is a not-for-profit organization made up of representatives of ten museums and exhibition places within the city.

Monday's tourists will be taken by motor coach from the Women's club to the chrysanthemum show at the Garfield park conservatory, and then return downtown via Logan square and Lincoln park, to be at the Art institute for luncheon. The visitors will then see the great Italian paintings and the "Fifty Years in American Art" exhibit. The final stop of the tour will be the Oriental institute.

Guides will be on hand at each place to escort the tourists. The committee announced that a charge of $2.25 per person will cover all of the cost of the tour, including bus hire, luncheon, and admittance fees.

A Writing Desk for Living Room



[Grignon Photo.]

Copied from a design of Sheraton's, this interesting writing desk is called an "estate desk" and is intended for use in an 18th century English type of interior.

Writing Desk Is Ornament in Living Room

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

A writing desk is a necessary unit in the furnishing of most living rooms. If you're one of the lucky people who has a library you'll do your writing there amid book lined walls.

But if you don't have a library you can find a spot in the living room that will suit the purpose. Desks, this season, are as practical as they are good looking.

For the traditional room [colonial, or eighteenth century English, or Regency] there are charming copies of old knee-hole desks, most of them in walnut or mahogany with nut-brown inlaid leather tops. A vertical row of drawers on either side provides ample storage space for writing things.

The break-front cabinet, too, makes a beautiful living room addition and usually has a special compartment that serves as writing desk and that has a number of pigeon holes. Similar to this piece of furniture is the chest of drawers that has a drop front which reveals a writing compartment. This is a most practical item for the one room apartment.

The so-called Gov. Winthrop desk, or secretary desk, is not seen as much now as it was a few years ago. However, it is still suitable in early American period rooms and is available in maple, as well as in mahogany and walnut.

Copied from a handsome desk designed by Sheraton in the eighteenth century is a piece called the "estate desk." Carried out in mellow toned mahogany, it has slender, tapering legs and three shallow drawers in a row beneath the writing surface.

With this desk may be used a slender wing chair covered in a flowered fabric, or, if you prefer, a Sheraton or Hepplewhite armchair or side chair.

Modern rooms furnished in the light, natural finished woods have desks that are generous in size, very simply designed and without any carving or elaboration of ornament.

Benefit Ball

Jewel Shades Style Slippers, Matching Bags

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The two track mind shoppers, one-half seeking beauty and luxury, the other half clamoring for practicalness and service, should see the newest jewel toned party slippers and matching flat envelope bags. Chiffon soft kidskin comes in five exquisite jewel colors, sapphire blue, ruby, emerald, amethyst, and topaz, shimmering softly and ready to echo any material in the gowns you will wear.

The sandals have suavely fashioned lines, kidskin marvelously draped into the outline over the toes, and slender ankle straps to accent the high graceful thin heel.

The bags are marvels of sophisticated streamlines, flat, of a size that can easily be managed with gloves, muff, or jangling bracelet on the wrists. The insides are of luscious toned flesh or ivory satin, with the required slits and pockets and capacity for all the beauty gadgets for a successful evening.

The clasps are big, handsome simulated jewels in square cut effects to blend with the color of the kidskin. These duets are the smartest finds in town, they are the combination of slippers and matching bag that goes dress parade all the year round, with clinging crêpes, filmy chiffons, sleek satins, and picture book brocades and velvets. They are simple enough in classic fashioning to accent tailored dinner clothes as well as the more frou-frou stuff with ruffles, flounces, or languidly lovely laces.

High color gloves are creating excitement. Chinese vermilion long slipons, three or four shades of unusual green tones, sulphur, deep purple, and fire truck red. Short street affairs have no adornment, but the more dress parade gloves glint with sequin trim, with fanciful multicolored embroidery and beads, but all under control.

Man's World? Try the Public Library First

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Whoever boasted that this is a man's world should hie him to the Chicago public library for enlightenment. A bit of Library week sleuthing [by proclamation of the mayor Nov. 12 to 18 is Public Library week] revealed that 80 per cent of the public library's complicated services are carried on by women.

Fourteen miles of book stacks—more than 1,600,000 volumes—are mustered under the roof of the central library. A sixth of the population, about 600,000, are enrolled as borrowers of books. From the circulation room on the third floor an average of 3,500 books go out each day on two week loans—over a million in a year or, with the branches and stations included, over 10 million.

Let the outer door to the sanctum of the chief librarian open a crack and up from her typewriter pops the head of Miss Gertrude Shine, secretary to Carl B. Roden. Miss Shine has dubbed herself the library's watchdog. For more years than she cares to tell she has held that first public contact line at the center of the library system.

Mrs. Elizabeth Barnes Lipkes and Miss Nordica Fenneman jointly direct the library system's circulation.

In the library's foreign department there are books in 28 languages, and between them two women on the foreign staff know the contents of and advise readers on the collection of approximately 100,000 volumes. Miss Celia Udell, in the service for more than ten years, speaks French, German, Russian, Polish, Latvian, and Yiddish and has a reading knowledge of the Scandinavian, the Dutch, and the minor Slavic languages. Miss Clara Finkelstein specializes in Spanish, French, and Italian.

If you want to know what makes a Mexican jumping bean jump, whether Mount Vernon had a basement, how the expression "getting down to brass tacks" originated, or what Joe Doe's Chicago address was in 1871, Mrs. Roberta B. Sutton will find the answer. By mail, by telephone, person to person, the reference department, branches included, answers more than half a million questions a year. Miss Edith Covalt ranks next to the head of the civics department, which is the depository for all government documents, business, and financial records.

Miss Wilhelmina Timian, up in the crowded music room on the fifth floor, presides over 10,000 bound volumes, 20,000 folds of sheet music, and stacks of symphonic, opera, and oratorio scores. Her regular borrowers number some 9,200 amateur and professional musicians annually. Miss Helen Forman, known for her own etchings and paintings, has been head of the Art room for 15 years.

There is the A. W. Swayne collection on the first floor, with its 85,000 slides for visual education. That, in the punster's directory, is Mrs. Dale Peach's preserve.

Forty per cent of the library's card holders are children. For more than 15 years Miss Adah F. Whitcomb has had charge of the schools department and the children's Thomas Hughes room. Miss Agatha Shea is director of the juvenile work in all the branch libraries.

The practical and painless forms of adult education advanced by the library's readers bureau are attracting increasing numbers of patrons. With Miss Alice M. Farquhar as its chief, the bureau plans courses of reading for leisure hours, for an entire reading season or for a systematic study of a single subject.

Miss Agnes Greer spends six days a week teaching library methods to young men and women in her public library training class on the first floor. Staff members also hold special classes, with Miss Greer as instructor.

TOASTED COCONUT MERINGUE CAKE

½ cup Crisco	2 cups cake flour
1 cup sugar	2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt	⅔ cup milk
2 eggs	1 teaspoon vanilla

Blend Crisco, sugar, salt, vanilla and eggs. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Pour into 2 "Criscoed" 8-inch layer pans. Bake 35 minutes in moderate oven (375°F.).

COCONUT MERINGUE FROSTING: Soak 1 teaspoon gelatine in 1 tablespoon cold water. Set over hot water long enough to dissolve gelatine. Add to 2 unbeaten egg whites. Beat till stiff. Then beat in ¼ cup sugar. Mix ½ cup chopped coconut with half the frosting and spread between the layers. Spread remainder of meringue over top of cake. Cover with toasted coconut (spread 1 cup of coconut in a shallow pan; bake in moderate oven till golden brown—stir occasionally).

Tea to Open Two Big Days at Art Institute

BY JUDITH CASS.

TODAY and tomorrow will be gala days at Chicago's Art institute. The 61st annual reception is being given this afternoon from 3 until 5:30 o'clock. Tomorrow night from 8 until 10:30 o'clock the formal opening of masterpieces of Italian art lent by the Italian government will take place.

Both will be notable occasions, for altho today's is an annual affair, it always is an outstanding one, and tomorrow night's is the sort of thing that happens only occasionally in a lifetime.

"I wouldn't think of missing the reception Thursday afternoon, for I want to see the Italian pictures," we've heard often since invitations have been out for the annual reception today and to the formal opening of the Italian masterpieces tomorrow night.

This confusion is a natural one, perhaps, but it is confusion, nevertheless, for today's reception marks the opening of the "Half a Century of American Art Exhibition" in the east wing galleries. The Italian pictures in the second floor galleries at the top of the stairs, to the right as one goes up, will not be on view today.

Art institute members are invited to both receptions and members of the honorary and sponsors' committees for the Italian show also are on the invitation list for tomorrow night. Trustees and honorary committee members have been invited to meet for after-dinner coffee at 8 o'clock tomorrow in gallery 45, where the institute's own beautiful Italian paintings are hanging. Representatives of the Italian government, including Don Ascanio Colonna, the ambassador, if he is able to come from Washington, and his wife will be present.

Tea Table to Depict a Notable Wedding.

The tea tables at this afternoon's party will rival the American paintings for the attention of the several thousand women who will be there, for the tables always are works of art themselves. In gallery 45 the Antiquarian society and Fortnightly club will be hostesses, serving from a table based upon a specific event in Chicago social history—the wedding of Ida Marie Honoré to Frederick Dent Grant, son of the then President of the United States, Ulysses S. Grant. The wedding took place on Oct. 20, 1874, and the account of this spectacular event filled the entire front page of THE TRIBUNE the next morning.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, whose husband was a nephew of Ida Marie Honoré Grant, and Mrs. Potter Palmer III., will be among those assisting at this table. Mrs. Charles S. Dewey and Mrs. Alice H. Patterson are in charge of the decorations.

A table of the 1890's is being arranged by the Municipal Art league, the Chicago Woman's club, and the Art institute alumni in gallery 40. In gallery 27 a table of the 1900's will be presided over by members of the Arché club and the Musicians Club for Women. The Chicago Drama league and the Renaissance are in charge of a table of the 1920's in gallery 30, and a modern table will be in gallery 48 with members of the Contemporary, the Friday, and the Arts club as hostesses.

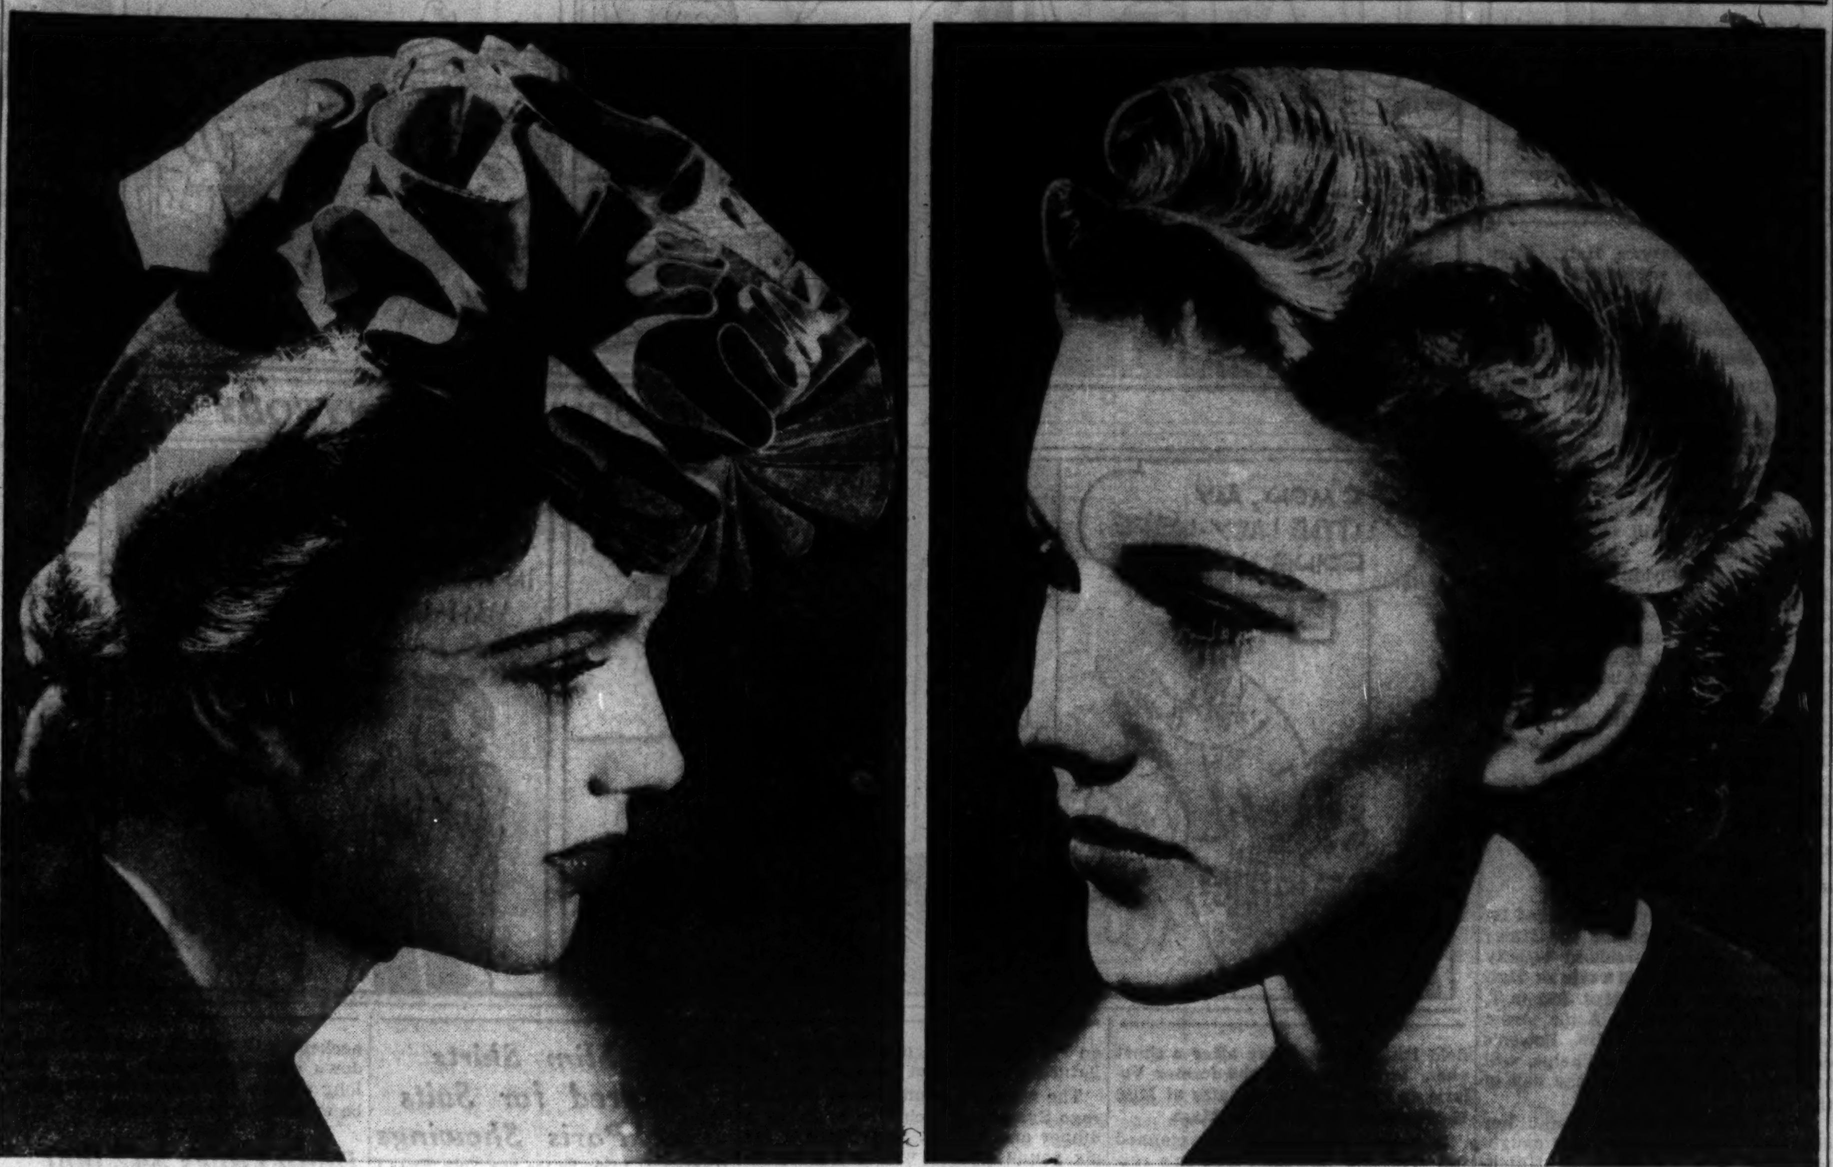
New Hair Styles Seen Thru the Looking Glass



[Paul Garrison Photos.]

Softness as well as style characterizes the fashionable hairdress today. Eccentric, impractical arrangements have been replaced by coiffures such as this one, which complements the new deep crowned hats, flatters the face and looks even better after a brisk brushing than it did before. Skillful shaping, good waving and healthy hair texture are its essentials.

The pursuit of hair softness as well as hair style absorbs women these days. More and more women are facing the fact that the hair on their heads has the texture and lackluster of straw, and that even the smartest hair arrangement doesn't conceal the fact. It looks good when they step out briskly from the beauty salon, but two days later the sheen and the softness have disappeared.

Daily scalp massage should be a ritual with women who want to restore the natural oil to their hair. The scalps have been left untouched for so long that they're unhealthily taut and practically dormant. Loosening them up with vigorous manipulation is one of the first steps in building up the good scalp circulation that is essential to healthy—and attractive—hair.

Brushing is important, too, and that women are realizing it is apparent. Just look at the figures for hair brush sales! More and more women who practically abandoned the hair brush when they abandoned long hair are buying and using them.

Reconditioning treatments are a good investment for 99 women out of a hundred; they're sadly needed, and women know now that they pay good dividends in more successful permanents and in improved hair luster.

The new hair styles, or the trend in hair styles, is toward soft simplicity. The fussy, elaborate hairdress is not fashionable—and the people who worry about the state of the hair health of the nation are delighted. The good hairdress is the kind that will "take it" [via massage and brushing] between shampoos. If a style is properly executed by the man with the shears it will look all the better for a vigorous brushing every day.

Institute Shows Half Century of American Art

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The "Half a Century of American Art" exhibition opens this afternoon in the east wing galleries of the Art institute with a formal reception. Beginning Friday it will be open to the public and will remain on view to Jan. 7.

The exhibition is made up of paintings and sculpture which have been presented before at the institute in the annual American Paintings and Sculpture exhibits. This annual has rarely been interrupted; the last time being in 1933 and 1934 when a large part of the Chicago World's Fair show was installed in those galleries.

This "Half a Century of American Art" takes us back to 1888 and up thru the years, a decade to a room, to the present moment. The paintings are well hung and widely spaced through the galleries. In fact so thinly are some of the rooms installed one wishes more of our important Chicago painters had been included.

The first galleries are devoted to the earlier paintings and there we find many and many a brilliant work replete with magnificent color and imbued with craftsmanship. Those were the days of giants, one is apt to regret, as one discovers in 1922 the first turn of the tide to the modernist painting which has been the officially accepted art since that year.

Even in the modernist art division there are curious lapses. One of the most talked-of pictures of its year was the "Mussel Gatherers" by Preston Dickinson. It hung upside down for days in the exhibit and no one could puzzle out its meaning.

A frantic message from the painter caused the Art institute to reverse the hanging, but still the visitors were puzzled. The huge picture looked like people clawing in gray bed-clothes for snails and remained that to most of us. John Carroll, another very important modern painter, who fired Chicago to indignation with his dissipated night-after women, is also among the missing.

There is a stunning Oliver Dennett Grover present—"June Morning, Lake Orta." J. Jeffery Grant, Ralph Clarkson, Jonas Lie, Alson Skinner Clark, John E. Costigan, George Inness, Charles Francis Browne, Karl A. Buehr, George Bellows [every one will like his swimming-hole, the "Forty-Two Kids"], Frank W. Benson, Louis Betts and George Biddle are ably represented.

Before 1922 the paintings stretch in a parade of striking beauty; after 1922 we find muddy color and worse than sloppy drawing. We find space given to artists who have exhibited only once or twice or three times in the American Paintings and Sculpture exhibit [who are there because they are moderns] and we find painters who have added immeasurably to the prestige of Chicago in art, men like Rudolf F. Ingerle, Frank C. Peyraud and Frederic M. Grant, men who have repeatedly made the show [but who are classified as nonmoderns] left out.

The exhibition is well worth seeing both for what it includes and for what it excludes. No greater contrast can be found today in any of our local galleries between the new note art of the modern school and the craft which is still an essential of the nonmodern painting. Here we find them lined up.

The Art institute, we think, however, has made a fatal mistake in showing modern as the chief art being practised and accepted today in Chicago.

Drop 'Falstaff' from Plans of Opera Season

BY CECIL SMITH.

Verdi's "Falstaff," the second and last important revival of the current Chicago City Opera company season, has been withdrawn from the schedule and will not be given this year at all. In its place on Saturday afternoon a doublt bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" will be presented.

The cast for "Cavalleria Rusticana" includes Dusolina Giannini, Margery Mayer, Armand Tokatyan, Désiré Defrère and May Barron. "Pagliacci" will be sung by Vivian Della Chiesa, Arthur Carron, John Charles Thomas, Robert Weede [debut] and Giuseppe Cavadore. Angelo Canarutto will conduct both operas.

The opera company explains that "Falstaff" has been withdrawn because rehearsals for the new version in English were not going well, so that the performance could not have been a credit to the company if it had been presented this season.

Furthermore the English translation decided upon some months ago proved to be unsatisfactory when stage rehearsals were held earlier this week. Henry Weber, musical director of the company, said that the libretto "will need a great deal of reworking, some cutting and some rewording before the humor will be in any way apparent to the audience."

A further change in the week's schedule brings forward André Burdino instead of Tito Schipa as tenor lead for Grace Moore's "Mannon" Friday evening.

Last night's rather dismal repetition of "Mignon" was sung by a second cast, in which only Virginia Haskins, Elizabeth Brown, and Désiré Defrère were held over from last week's list of principals. I heard only a part of the opera, but it was enough to discover that Coe Glade's Mignon still misses the point as far as ever, in both voice and characterization.

Virgilio Lazzari, singing Lothario here for the first time since 1921, was not too happy. André Burdino was the Wilhelm Meister, and Robert Ringling appeared as Giarno without letting his name be printed in the program. Louis Hasselmans conducted.

THE STAGE

After Saturday evening's closing of "Hamlet," the Grand Opera house will remain dark for a single week before it is relighted Sunday evening, Nov. 26, by a musical extravaganza entitled "A Night at the Moulin Rouge." A populous girl show more or less of the "Scandals" and "Vanities" type, the new attraction includes among its headliners Helen Morgan, Ada Leonard, and Stan Kavanagh.

Two extra matinées will help take care of the press of business at the Harris theater. Friday afternoon Katharine Cornell and her company will present "No Time for Comedy" for the benefit of the thrice worthy Actors' fund. All the proceeds, including the free services of the cast, will be devoted to the assistance of aged, sick, and needy members of the theatrical profession.

An additional Thanksgiving day matinée—purely commercial—will be offered Nov. 23.

Opera Patron.

A man telephoned the Chicago City opera for information.

"I want to go to opera and I don't much care which evening of the week," he said. "The only thing is, I want to go to an opera that has no death scene and plenty of soldiers."

Considerable brain cudgeling followed the request and finally Conductor Henry Weber was asked for advice.

"Sell him tickets to Aida," he said. "It has plenty of soldiers and the death scenes are at the end, so he can leave if he wants to."

Devi-Dja inspired a famous New York hat designer's latest collection. The women of the troupe wear native garments, and wonderful turbans and handsome jewelry. The desire of all of them, men and women, is to see collegiate football games. But they have a Saturday afternoon performance. The troupe carries its own cook, and a grill is toted along. They eat rice dishes and fish highly seasoned. They have their own priest with them, too, and the troupe's religious beliefs are Hindu, Mohammedan, and Catholic. About Aunt Mary.

(In the morning mail.)

Dear June: It's one of those family stories. . . . When Aunt Mary came to stay with us she was 91. (For the last two years she had been living alone in her house without plumbing and heated only by wood stoves.) Most of the time she preferred to wear a basquelike garment with a full black skirt, which seemed appropriate for her shriveled little form. The "basque" was one her mother had made for her shortly after the civil war. In the interest of cleanliness—for the old lady was perfectly satisfied with her clothes as they were—mother produced a bright print dress one day. The brilliance of the colors pleased her, as we had hoped, and she removed the cherished garment. Somewhat regretfully she looked it over and supposed that it was frayed and worn, and then added apologetically, "It must have been shoddy material."

—Michigander.

Tea to Open Two Big Days at Art Institute

know, That Life Begins at Forty. So won't you come and celebrate with Corson at a party. Please represent your favorite sport, be it football, pool, or tilting, and don't forget the gentler ones like bundling, cards, and yachting. You'll have a chance to try your skill at what you most excel at 7:30—residence of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Ellis, Nov. 25th," read the postcards received by some of the Corson Ellises' friends.

The postcards are double ones so that an invitee can reply on one-half of the card.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Adams Carr have issued invitations to a housewarming at "Carr castle," their apartment at 210 East Pearson street, from 5 until 7 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Carr is the former Miss Peggy Wiley.

The James O. Heyworths [Jean Stevens], who have moved back to Chicago after living in Detroit for several years, are planning a dinner party before the Bachelors and Benedicts' ball next Wednesday at the Palmer House. Mr. Heyworth is a former member of the B's and B's' committee.

The Roy L. Flannerys and the Kendall I. Lingles are others planning preball dinners.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Bodman and her mother, Mrs. Nicholas de Teresa, arrived in Chicago yesterday after spending several months at their home in Florence, Italy. They have taken an apartment at the Seneca hotel for the winter.

St. Chrysostom's Guild Opens Benefit Tonight.

"Christmas shopping made easy" is what the woman's guild of St. Chrysostom's church might call its Christmas windows display today and tomorrow at the parish house, 1424 Dearborn parkway. Attractive articles of every sort and variety, expensive and inexpensive, will be arrayed in cheery booths.

Mrs. Harold Eldridge has been in charge of constructing the booths; Mrs. Dudley Stark, wife of the rector, is in charge of a turkey dinner to be served tonight and tomorrow night. Mrs. Richard T. Crane is the tearoom chairman for both days. Two movies will be shown after dinner tonight. Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. will speak at 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

Mrs. George A. Ranney and Mrs. Rensselaer W. Cox are co-chairmen of the sale.

Hull House Sale at Bowen Home.

Any Christmas items overlooked today and tomorrow at the Christmas windows may be purchased equally painlessly and earily at a sale of Hull house goods for which Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen is opening her Astor street home next Tuesday. Mrs. Bowen's daughter, Mrs. deKoven Phelps, will entertain at luncheon on the day of the sale.

Mrs. James C. Hutchins and her daughter, Miss Margaret, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Chauncey K. Hutchins, and Miss Nancy Orr have gone east for the debut in Boston tomorrow night of Miss Sally Reed. Miss Reed is the daughter of the Philip Loring Reeds, who used to live in Chicago. Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne also has gone east for the Reed party. She will stay over to celebrate Thanksgiving with her son, Nathan, who attends Andover.

Mrs. Thomas Tyler's attractive house guest, Mrs. Washburn Wright, is returning to her home in Bloomfield Hills, Mich., today after a short visit. Mrs. Tyler and the former Valerie de Pew were roommates at Miss Hall's school in Pittsfield, Mass.

A second Christmas sale planned for Tuesday is the Women's exchange's annual one. It will be held in the ballroom of the Drake hotel.

Tea Will Follow Alliance Program.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine and Mrs. Robert J. Dunham will be hostesses at tea at the Alliance Française following a musical program at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Countess Bolognesi and Mrs. Loyal Davis will pour.

Alphonse V. Roche, professor at Northwestern university, will lecture on "Under the Sign of Taurus" on Saturday morning at the alliance.

The woman's committee of the Chicago Symphony orchestra is giving a dinner and concert party tonight for six young women who are going to their first Thursday night concerts this winter. They are the Misses Anne Stuart, Helen Mary Bryan, Elizabeth Stenson, Mardo Pattou, Susanne Allen, and Alice Blair. Their escorts will be Clinton Frank, Jack Williamson, McPherson Wood, Arthur Wood, George Haselton, and Fred Hall.

The party will dine at the Cliff Dwellers in Orchestra Hall building. Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, chairman, and Mrs. Solomon B. Smith planned the party. The "musical debutantes" will carry identical bouquets of violets and pink carnations. Egon Petri, eminent Dutch pianist, will play the Busoni Concerto with the orchestra tonight and tomorrow afternoon.

Short, Slim Skirts Featured for Suits at Paris Showings

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Nov 15.—Suits are important items of Paris midseason collections. They give the first forecasts of what the spring mode will bring forth. The first wartime fashion openings are no exception to this rule.

Molyneux is featuring two distinct suit silhouettes. One has a swing jacket and slim skirt. The other has a double swing skirt and trimly fitted jacket, often belted just across the back or across the front. Incidentally, Molyneux's skirts are the shortest in Paris this season.

Molyneux makes both these types of suits in plain dark woolen for town wear; in classic black and white or brown and white tweeds for sports.

Both are enlivened by contrasting angora sweaters or jersey blouses, often buttoned across both shoulders in the manner of military epaulets. Some of these blouses have high draped necklines; others are turtle necked; still others have tiny turndown collars. Parisian models have long sleeves. For America they may be made with short sleeves.

Here Are Some Simple Graces for the Season

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

At this season of the year, when families gather for Thanksgiving day and dinner, eating is more than a meal. It is a sort of ceremony with a very special significance. A number of parents are always desirous of having their children say a simple grace or of initiating the custom of saying it themselves. For these families we are reprinting today some of the graces—blessings on food—that seem the most beautiful and suited to children. You will notice that they vary a little, to be easily memorized by either younger or older children.

GRACES.

We thank Thee, Lord, for the world
so sweet;
We thank Thee, Lord, for the food
we eat;
We thank Thee, Lord, for the birds that sing;
We thank Thee, Lord, for everything.

Father, we thank Thee for Thy love
Shown in such lovely ways;
For food to eat, both plain and sweet,
Accept our grateful praise.

Little Jesus, come and be our guest.

God is great, and God is good,
And we thank Him for our food.

Come, Lord Jesus, be our guest,
And let Thy gifts to us be blest.

We thank Thee, Father, for the night
And for the pleasant morning light,
For rest and food and loving care
And all that makes the world so fair.

Dear Jesus, as our heads we bow,
For our food we thank Thee now.

Heavenly Father, thankful are we
For all the blessings that come from Thee.

For health to be hungry,
For food every day,
For hands that have served it,
We thank Thee today.

We thank Thee for this food
And this bright new day;
Make us well and strong
And happy at our play.

Dear Lord, we thank Thee for Thy care,
The food we eat, the clothes we wear;
Be present with us everywhere.

These graces and additional prayers may be had in permanent form in our "Graces and Prayers" booklet. Send a stamped, addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

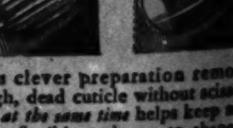
DON'T CUT CUTICLES

Clever Cosmetic Beautifies Nails While it Softens Cuticles



This clever preparation removes tough, dead cuticle without scissors, and at the same time helps keep nails more flexible and easy to shape. It brings out their natural beauty. It is a cuticle remover, a cuticle oil and a stain remover, all in one.

You may not have time for long expensive manicures, but with Manicare you simply brush your fingertips a little each day, to keep nails nice. Avoid hangnails or brittleness.

'Junior League Shop Prepares for New Drama

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The play that the Chicago Junior League's Children's Theater department will take to the Chicago public schools this winter is definitely a "homemade" product, thanks to the theater's new workshop. The shop has been operating at full speed since September, turning out the costumes, scenery, and masks that will be used in a version of "Alice in Wonderland" that has been written especially for the league by Mrs. Charlotte Chorpenning.

The play will open on Saturday morning with a performance at the Winnetka Community house. A second performance, which league members and their children may enjoy, will be given on Dec. 16 at the Chicago Historical society. Between these performances, the show will be given at about 20 public schools. Miss Evelyn Bouscaren is playing the title rôle.

William McCreary of Northwestern university's school of speech has been directing the workshop. He designed the stage settings, which are collapsible, so they will fit into the truck that will carry the play to the schools. They also are noiseless. The curtain never closes on the 45 minute performance. Black screens, oval in shape, give the illusion that the audience is looking down the rabbit's hole.

Mrs Francis Rew Stanton designed and executed the scenery, which is painted on canvas, mounted on gauze, and wound onto two spools. The strip of gauze five feet high that carries the scenery is black, to blend with the back drop. As Alice experiences the varied adventures that lead her into the garden the scenes are wound from one spool to the other across the back of the stage.

The toadstool on which the caterpillar sits is on runners and so are a handsome tea pot in which the duchess enters, and the queen's house. Mrs. John A. Kovas, director of the league's theater department, and Mrs. Stanton are making a miniature of the stage, its settings, and the interesting continuous scenery. It will be shown at the league's annual art show next spring.

The new lighting equipment the department has purchased is no less remarkable than its portable stage accessories. Using overhead lights instead of footlights, the framework and control box can be set up in an auditorium of any size. Mrs. William Wieboldt, who studied under Mr. McCreary at Northwestern, will operate the lights.

Girl in Teens Is Entitled to Social Circle

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Miss Blake: "I'm almost 15, and am a sophomore in high school. My father is very strict. He will not allow me to go out with boys my own age. He won't even allow me to go out with crowds, or invite boys to the house. When a boy calls me on the telephone, even about homework, he asks them so many questions that sometimes I'd rather die than face them again.

"Don't you think he is being unfair by making me so unhappy? He tells me he doesn't want me to go out with boys until I'm 19 or 20, and when it's 'serious,' as he calls it. I try to make him understand it is only clean, innocent fun that I want. Do you see any harm, Miss Blake, in going to the movies with a boy, or roller skating, or just going with a crowd to some one's house and dancing? I don't want to have honest-to-goodness dates. I just want some fun with boys and girls my age. Can't you make my father see he is hurting me more than he is helping me? By the time I'm of marriagable age I won't know anything about the opposite sex, and because of this fact I may choose the wrong mate. If you think my father is right and I'm wrong, I'll be only too glad to take your advice." "M. L."

If more girls had as much good sense as you seem to have, fathers would have no need to worry about their daughters. It looks to us as tho you have a stubborn man on your hands who needs careful handling to make him see that it is all right for you to have boy friends as well as girl friends with whom you can have group good times. You are too young for "dates," as you know, but you are not too young for wholesome friendships with the opposite sex. There must be some way you can "get around" your father.

Why not wheedle him into taking you to one of the high school basketball games where you could introduce him to your friends? Flatter him a little by telling him how proud you are of him, because he is such fun! Suggest to him that it would be fun to have the [illegible] up to the house some night, and that you'd like him and your mother to be in on the fun and help you give your friends a good time. That's just one suggestion. Maybe you can think of some others.

Alfred Duff Cooper Will Speak at Feast of Haggis

Alfred Duff Cooper, former first lord of the British admiralty, and his wife, the former Lady Diana Manners, will be the especial guests at this year's Feast of the Haggis, to be given by the Illinois Saint Andrew society on Saturday night, Dec. 2, at the Stevens hotel. Albert L. Tossell is general chairman for the function, the proceeds of which will go to the society's Scottish Old People's home in Riverside. Haggis is a meat pudding eaten by Scotsmen on the eve of St. Andrew, patron saint of Scotland.

Gossip in Brand New Guise

HEAT WITH COAL
But don't think of the cost per ton, think of the cost per year

IT'S AMAZING HOW MUCH FURTHER THIS BETTER COAL GOES
YES, I NEVER KNEW BEFORE THAT THERE WERE DIFFERENT GRADES IN COAL

SOME heating plants use certain grades and types of coal much more efficiently than others. Frequently, but not always, a grade of coal which costs more per ton is most economical for the season. In some plants a less expensive grade gives better satisfaction. When you buy coal, think of the cost per year, not the cost per ton.

Consult a good reputable coal merchant and let him help you to determine the type and grade of coal best suited to your heating system. If he is a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association, he has a laboratory and engineers to assist him in his selection.

With coal heat, you get the best form of heat because you get an even heat flow. This is because you get no sudden stopping and starting of your furnace as you do with other fuels. With other fuels, the air stratifies in layers when the furnace is off. This "layer-cake" heat means that you get cold around your feet, warm around your chest and hot around your head. Other fuels cost at least 40% more.

Consult your coal merchant and order coal or coke today. If you are not sure he is a member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association, call STAte 9723.

Rasping Voice Detrimental to a Girl's Charm

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"There's nothing that detracts from a girl's charm and personality as much as an unpleasant voice," warns Elsie Hitz, dramatic actress, recently selected as having radio's most perfect speaking voice.

Miss Hitz thinks that every woman has a potentially good voice, but she spends too little time trying to bring out its best qualities.

The average girl goes along in her own sweet way and just assumes that only those women who plan a dramatic or musical career for themselves need give attention to speech and voice. This is where the first mistake enters, according to our informant.

"You will be surprised to learn that caring for your voice will not take as much time from your everyday routine as going to the hairdresser or to the movies. It is merely a matter of taking a little time and applying yourself."

One of the first steps Miss Hitz suggests in trying to develop a better speaking technique is to stand before a mirror and watch yourself talk. At the same time, listen to the tone, pitch, and quality of your own vocal efforts. This is an ideal test to find out what might be wrong, and also to get the idea of how you look while talking. Standing in front of a mirror also will help you to eradicate any unnecessary contortions of the mouth and face, which many women use, unconsciously, to help express themselves.

"And you must stand erect! Round shoulders and sunken chests are responsible for so many girls 'swallowing' the last syllables of words. Let your tongue say all that is on your mind!"

Engagements Announced

Miss Florence Coleman Kelly whose engagement to John F. Hennessey has been announced by her mother, Mrs. Edward T. Kelly. Mr. Hennessey is the son of Mrs. James Hennessey of 7310 Yates avenue. Miss Kelly was graduated from St. Xavier college. Mr. Hennessey is a graduate of the De Paul university college of law. The wedding will take place on Dec. 27 in St. Philip Neri church.

Proper Care of Heating Plant Pays Dividends

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

It is by no means too late to have your heating plant checked and put in first class working order for the real work ahead.

No one thinks of starting on a cross-country trip without making sure the family bus is conditioned for the jaunt, and a heating plant has more strenuous work these next few months than an auto ever faced.

Nor does it matter whether a central heating system is hand fired or fueled by a coal stoker, oil, or gas. The point is that it needs to be in first class shape to do a first class heating job economically.

Days still are warm enough to give the house a thoro warming early in the morning and then let the fire go out for a few hours while a good heating expert goes over boiler or furnace, cleans fire box, checks on grates and draft mechanism, and makes sure that all joints are tight; also that the chimney is tight and that there are no leaks around the clean-out door or in the smoke pipe and its connection to chimney.

Vacuum process cleaning is a service which can be had practically everywhere at a reasonable price, and it's worth many times the price in the efficiency it gives to your central house heater!

Modernization of an existing heating plant can mean ease to the mind as well as added heat to the house.

If you have an automatically fired boiler you can make it a present of a relief valve as protection against excessive pressure, or a water feeder which will automatically protect a boiler against a too low water level.

Practically any old hot air system can be converted into a modern forced warm air heating system, and instead of that humidifying pan which you have been filling by hand for some years now you can have a type which will keep itself filled with water.

A radiator heating system also can be given a present of a humidifying unit which will supply your home with plenty of moisture.

And if you are ready for a big move toward easier living you'll find that you can change in less time than you think from a hand fired heating system to one which is fueled by a coal stoker, gas, or oil.

Appeals for Small Wagon.

"Dear Miss Brown: My husband and daughter are unemployed, and my son's small salary does not cover expenses for a family of six. My youngest child is in high school and the oldest has been an invalid for nine years. I have been doing home work, and must bring back a box of finished work at 6:30 every morning and pick up new material at 2. We had a coaster wagon, but it has been stolen, and I am unable to carry these boxes which are so heavy I can barely lift them. The little I make is used for food, and we need it badly. MRS. K."

This address is on the southwest side of the city, and this mother will be grateful for a small wagon of any kind.

The Housewife

Have you seen the elegant new piece of furniture for the living room called the hobby table? It is a beautifully made table with an octagonal top which is of glass. Underneath this show case you arrange your choice treasures for your friends to admire. A copy of an old Hepplewhite design of the 18th century, this piece is part of a distinguished line of adaptations of antiques.

Danger on the Border

By FREDERICK R. BECHDOLT

[Copyright: 1939: By Frederick R. Bechdolt]

SYNOPSIS.

Leonard speeds west by car after finding that the sample of ore sent to him by his sick friend, Dillon, is rich in gold. In Copper City he picks up two strange companions, fat Mrs. Sebastian, and Louis Mestres, who claims to be a line jumper. They set out just after the pay car of the Golconda mine. In a lonely spot they come upon the car, its occupants murdered, and the three bandits still on the scene. They chase Leonard's car with a machine gun.

INSTALMENT IV.

A CROOKED ASSAYER.

Mestres' arms were moving from side to side.

Leonard slackened the power and shifted into second. They plunged into a pair of ruts which twined like a snake's track through the [illegible] earth. The dust was stifling, there were moments when Leonard could barely see the radiator cap.

"Give her all she'll stand." It was the voice of Mestres. The [illegible] whined, the rat-tat-tat of the machine gun came again, a slug tore through the top. And then it seemed to Leonard that the sound of the firing was growing a little fainter, a moment later he was sure of it. Louis Mestres shouted:

"It worked all right! They've stopped."

Half an hour later the sedan was speeding across a stretch of [illegible] ground where the road climbed toward the next mesa. The car which had pursued them was a black speck in the middle of the brown flat. Leonard glanced back.

"How did you do it?" he demanded. Mestres nodded toward Mrs. Sebastian.

"My ruff!" the latter said, and Leonard noted that she was once more all Mexican.

"You still have a package of tacks in the other roll," Mestres told her. "It will do you if you are economical."

"Roofing paper," Leonard said, "and the tacks that hold it. I see."

"They are big tacks," Mestres shrugged his shoulders. "They have wide heads. And the luck was with us. Those fellows picked the same pair of ruts which we had taken."

There was an interval of silence during which all parties were engaged in re-assembling their scattered thoughts, assorting the various vivid pictures which had flashed before them. Leonard was the first to break it.

"It was robbery," he said, "and that little fellow with the blue eyes and the blond moustache——"

"He's the Golconda company's paymaster," Mestres interrupted. "And he will go back to the mine tonight with a story——"

"How he managed to make his escape, while the outlaws were murdering the escort." Leonard took up the recapitulation. "It's simple enough and a good plan if it had only worked, but we came along."

He ceased speaking, and now his eyes were narrow. Apparently the pair in the rear seat were doing some thinking along the same lines for they, too, were silent. The sun was getting low, and dark shadows were creeping up the sides of a range of mountains which lay ahead of them along the western skyline. They were traveling in a higher country now, among stunted live oaks and pinion pines.

"And you plan to stay in Golconda?" Mestres asked.

"A few days," Leonard said. The other shrugged his shoulders.

"I'd like to know what story that paymaster's going to tell when he gets back."

There was another long interval when none spoke. The western sky was beginning to take on its first faint tints of the approaching sunset when they saw the two towns ahead of them, the new mining camp of Golconda sprawled along the lower reaches of a bleak mountain's flank, and south of it a strip of brown plain, beyond this, a scattering of flat-roofed buildings huddling under some tall cottonwoods, the old Mexican town of San Ilario. The road led straight to this, and when they reached the edge of the settlement Mestres spoke again.

"Let me out here." The car came to a stop and he alighted. He turned and he looked Leonard in the eyes. "That paymaster will come back to Golconda before long." He waved his hand, "Adios!" He turned away. The car started on. The voice of Mrs. Sebastian came from the rear:

"Plis. The Casa Verdi. Tha's my place."

She was, Leonard reflected, becoming more and more Mexican. The building which she had designated stood beside a narrow, dusty street. A flat-roofed adobe plastered on the outside, and the plaster had been painted a bright arsenical green which made him shudder although he was no esthete. A sign above the door proclaimed its name in letters of the same poisonous hue.

It took Mrs. Sebastian some time to clamber forth and get her two rolls of roofing paper. During the interval a girl came around the corner of the green adobe, a tawny creature in a ragged brown slip with sandals on her feet. Although her garb said that she was a drudge, there was a feline grace in her movements which held Leonard's attention. She stood in a patch of sunshine, gazing at the car. Mrs. Sebastian was breathing hard after her struggle with the roofing paper. She nodded solemnly at Leonard.

"Mebbe yo' should come see me before yo' talk about thees' thing. Mebbe ees good for you'."

She turned and saw the girl. It seemed to Leonard that her full face changed color.

When Louis Mestres told Leonard that he was a line jumper, he used a common term of border parlance. From Yuma to El Paso it meant the same thing, a species of fugitive who had slipped across the international boundary ahead of some sherif, or Mexican soldiers as the case might be. Within a few months of his arrival he usually managed to get into trouble in his new sanctuary and thereafter he became a sunburned, ragged wanderer who spent most of his time at lonely water holes, drifting in and out of the smaller hamlets as mysteriously as a night-prowling coyote.

But the species had another and a sleeker breed. Its members were not so easily recognized, the pasts which they had left behind them were sometimes merely unsavory, their misdeeds usually untinctured by violence. To them the boundary was a convenient jumping off place in case of future collisions with the law.

Paul Collins was a member of this dubious brotherhood who were striving to rebuild the wrecked structure of badly managed lives. The sign over his assay office bore the name by which he had been known in a prosperous town on California's mother lode, before he was arrested for selling stolen ore. For there are many floaters among the metal miners of the west, particularly among those who have been blacklisted for the theft of high grade rock, and if some patron of those old days happened to drop in on him, an alias would only bring more trouble.

The office was a small affair in a narrow wooden building, tucked in between two stores on the main street of Golconda, he had been doing fairly well here.

But the memory of the fat years when high graders used to slip down the gulch to his office in Sutter Creek with their illicit burdens of gold-flecked quartz abided with him. And the discontent which it brought was always sharpened by the bitter recollection of the eighteen months that had followed his exposure.

He had done his time in San Quentin as a trusty in the office of the prison photographer, with that curious sense of injustice which is characteristic of many who have failed to beat the game of life. And, ever since the day when he had left the big barred front gate to start in on a new existence, he had cherished a gnawing grudge against the law which had caught up with him—a desire to dip deeply into the flesh pots once more had tantalized him, day and night. His fall had left one lesson: the next time he tried to pull off something, it would be a single coup and——

"Someone else is going to hold the bag." So he had assured himself and he meant to keep the promise. It was shortly before Leonard's arrival in the Mexican settlement a half mile or so away, when Collins saw his opportunity.

He saw it in the form of a little button in the bottom of a crucible which had been cooling ever since he had taken it from his furnace. Now the pellet lay in one tray of his delicate scales, dull gold, he read the figures on the scales.

Long experience had made him quick at mental calculations, he knew the richness of the ore from which the button came before he set the figures down on paper, and he drew a quick, deep breath. He was thinking:

"That's Dillon's ore, he doesn't know one rock from another."

Fruit juice appetizers will be the choice of most menu-makers for the Thanksgiving dinner's first course. Fruit juices, for the most part, are real appetizers and don't help to satisfy an appetite, which should be keen and ready to go when the golden turkey appears at table.

Make the fruit juice colorful. Harvest time is a colorful season, and the Thanksgiving table should be gay. Most of these suggested fruity cocktails are warm and cheerful in color and character.

FRUIT JUICE APPETIZERS FOR THANKSGIVING.

1. Cranberry juice. Buy it canned, or cook berries in a larger than usual amount of water, strain, and sweeten to taste.

2. Cranberry and pineapple juices in equal parts.

3. Cranberry and orange juices in equal parts.

4. Minted orange juice. Bruise a mint leaf and let it stand in orange juice for half an hour. Garnish each glass with a leaf or sprig of mint.

5. Pomegranate cocktail. Since you don't get much juice by squeezing pomegranate halves orange fashion, it's usually best to boil the seeds in water until all color is out. Then sweeten as desired and use the pomegranate cocktail by itself or combined with as much orange or pineapple juice.

6. Pomegranate-orange juice. Color and flavor orange juice with juice from pomegranates, extracted with an orange juicer. Beautiful color and peppy flavor!

7. Cranberry-peach nectar. Color and accent the flavor of canned peach nectar by adding a little cranberry juice.

8. Grape and grapefruit juices. Combine grape juice and grapefruit juice in equal parts, or use a third as much grapefruit juice.

9. Mint cocktail. Color orange, pineapple or grapefruit juice, or a mixture of all three, with a few drops of green vegetable coloring. Crushed peppermint candy may be used for both flavoring and sweetening.

10. Tomato cocktail. Buy the cocktail ready made, or mix your own from tomato juice, adding seasonings such as salt, celery salt, onion juice, lemon juice, and a speck of sugar. Equal parts tomato and sauerkraut juices make a wonderful appetizer. Or make a tomato and cucumber cocktail like this one:

Tomato and Cucumber Cocktail

[Serves four]

2 cups tomato juice
¾ cup grated cucumber
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
2 teaspoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon horseradish

Combine and chill. Stir before serving.

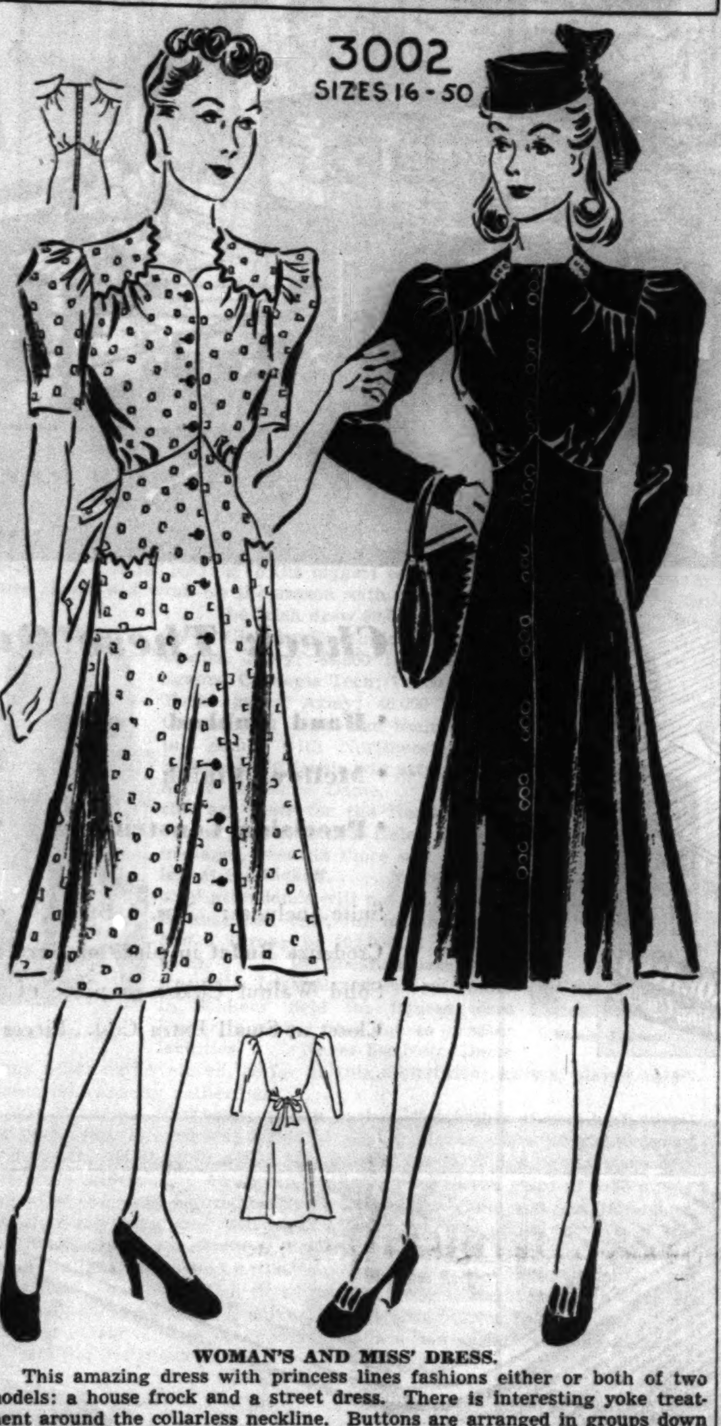
Either Street or House Dress



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This amazing dress with princess lines fashions either or both of two models: a house frock and a street dress. There is interesting yoke treatment around the collarless neckline. Buttons are arranged in groups down the front, and there may be a bow in back or not, as you wish. Sleeves may be long or short. In either case they are puffed at the shoulders. Pockets are optional.

Cottons, silks, woolens, velvet, and velveteen all make up well. Make your choice for the type of dress you have in mind.

Style No. 3002 is designed for size 16, and for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material, 1½ yards of braid for house dress, and 2½ yards of 54 inch material for street dress.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Today's Features

ON W-G-N.
[Central Standard Time.]

The Concert Revue, featuring themes from Rudolf Friml with Kathryn Witwer, William Miller, and the mixed octet as vocalists and the orchestral offering, directed by Henry Weber, will be presented over W-G-N and Mutual at 9:30 p. m.

Miss Witwer will sing "Elsa's Traum," and Miller will offer "Do Not Go, My Love," by Richard Hageman. A violin solo of Anton Arensky's "Serenade," will be played by Concertmeister Michael Wilkomirski. Other numbers will include, "Marche Slave," by Peter Tschaikowsky; "Slavonic Dance No. 2," by Anton Dvorak, and "Artist's Life," by Johann Strauss.

The Life of Mary Sothern, W-G-N's drama about the trials of a young wife, is scheduled at 11:15 a. m. The program heard Monday thru Friday at the same hour stars Betty Caine as "Mary Sothern." According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The other evening in a fourteen table Mitchell duplicate tournament, I held the North hand and opened the bidding with a psychic two heart bid. Here is the hand and the bidding:

"North, dealer.
"Both sides vulnerable.

♣A 5 2

"The bidding:

North	East	South	West
2 hearts	Pass	2 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

"My partner was set three tricks, but we were next to top on the board, and finished fourth in the tournament. Please notice that the opponents had a laydown slam in clubs or diamonds.

"Question: What bids, if any, would two master players, sitting East and West, make to arrive at a game or slam contract over North's opening two heart bid?—E. S., Washington."

Undoubtedly, congratulations are in order to any one carrying off such a luscious haul, but I cannot resist saying that from the apparent degree of acuteness with which East and West were blessed, the robber needed neither gun nor mask. All he had to do was politely ask the victims for their money.

This is just another way of saying that no "master players" were required in the East-West seats to thwart North's holdup. As a matter of fact, any fine East player would pass over the original [very original] two heart bid, and a fine West would do like wise over South's two spades. Naturally, this sort of West would know that the opponents were trying a "fast one," but this would be all the more reason to give them plenty of rope with the thought of eventually crashing down with a penalty double. Thus, the remarks I have directed at East and West must be revised. West was guiltless and it was East who must come in for the full force of my blast. Granting that East did not have a powerful hand, and further granting that his void in spades made him fear that suit, it still was unbelievably naive of him to pass and permit two spades to become the final contract. Absolutely, regardless of his own holding, he should have taken action [held the bidding open] on the sole, but amply sufficient, basis that North, who had started the proceeding with a forcing two bid, and who had received a positive response from partner, lamely retired from the scene on the second round and passed said partner's bid out at less than game. This 100 per cent evidence of an opening psychic was all East needed. He should have protected his partner's probable trap with his last breath. I submit the following as the bidding that would have taken place if two alert players had been seated East and West. [The following, of course, assumes that the North-South bidding would have gone the same.]

North	East	South	West
2 hearts	Pass	2 spades	Pass
Pass	3 diam's	Pass	6 diam's
Pass	Pass	Pass

It will be noted that just as a shrewd East would have reopened the bidding merely "on suspicion," so a shrewd South would not have been tempted to double the adverse slam contract.

Tomorrow's Hand.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1939.

HAWKS SEEK FIRST ROAD VICTORY TONIGHT

IRISH GET SOME RELIEF AT LAST IN N. U. BATTLE

Meet a Foe That Has Different Style.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The most ineffective games Notre Dame has played offensively this year have been against opponents using the Notre Dame system of attack. Notre Dame defeated Purdue, 3 to 0, in the opening game. This was the only time the Irish have failed to score a touchdown this year. Last Saturday Iowa whipped Notre Dame, 7 to 6.

Mal Elward, who finished playing end for Notre Dame in 1915, now coach at Purdue, and Eddie Anderson, who completed his stint at right end for Notre Dame in 1921, and now directs Iowa, either know too much about the system Elmer Layden also learned at Notre Dame or these results merely are coincidences. In any event, it may be a relief to the Irish, as well as to the spectators, to watch two different offensive formations Saturday when Northwestern invades Notre Dame.

Familiarity Means Low Score.

The single wing back, unbalanced line formations taught the Wildcats by Lynn Waldorf may be no more of a puzzle to Notre Dame than were Iowa's plays last week. That remains to be seen, for in this Notre Dame system stalemate it also was true that Coach Layden and his assistants apparently knew enough about Purdue's Notre Dame attack to hold the Boilermakers scoreless, and they also would have had the same record against Iowa's Notre Dame attack except for a fumble recovered three yards from the Irish goal.

Actually, of course, the only Notre Dame system is the one now taught at Notre Dame. The Iowa system, the Purdue system, the Fordham system, or any other attack taught by a graduate of the Knute Rockne school, probably no longer has anything in common except the "T" alignment of the back field before the shift and the flexing ends. The Rockne shift, as well as all other shifts into position on the line of scrimmage, lost much of its effectiveness when the one second pause was written into the rules.

Huddle Aids in Deception.

The huddle screens the formation about as well as shifting from the original position after leaving the huddle except for quick opening plays. These can't be used by Michigan, Minnesota, Northwestern, and other schools which do not place seven men on the line of scrimmage when the men come from the huddle, which is the required number to prevent penalty.

The principal difference in football offense taught by Layden and that taught by Anderson or by Waldorf is that Notre Dame still follows the original principle laid down by Rockne that blocking assignments are individual. The end receives no help on the tackle, and neither does the blocking back assigned to the defensive end. Anderson believes in double assignments on key men. His basic plays, such as the reverse, are similar and blocking assignments for the passer and kicker are the same. As Fielding Yost, Michigan's veteran director, recently remarked while discussing his point a minute teams, "They haven't changed the punt since those days."

Double Shift Isn't New.

The double shift Iowa used occasionally against Notre Dame, which is a second move farther in the same direction of the first move, was used by Rockne when the Irish defeated Northwestern, 13 to 10, in 1925. The spin plays were added by Rockne but the flanker has been used by his pupils. Both Layden and Elward occasionally send out a half back as flanker. Notre Dame uses the half back on spin plays for reverses while Purdue uses the full back as well.

Purdue and Iowa have had their backs change position. Nile Kinnick, nominally a left half back, scored against Notre Dame running from right half back. Notre Dame plays a man at the same position. So does Northwestern. Michigan plays its ends interchangeably and Minnesota frequently has moved such half backs as Wilbur Moore and Harold Van Every. Larry Buhler played both right half and full back.

Irish Depend on Foe's Errors.

The major difference in Layden's idea of attack and Waldorf's is that fundamentally Notre Dame plays for the other fellow's mistake. It is a conservative type of attack, more so this year as the forward pass has been used sparingly and at orthodox times. Thirteen completions in 58 attempts in seven games is proof. Notre Dame depends primarily on its running attack.

Northwestern, using a power attack with double blocking on key men, passes more frequently than most opponents. The Wildcats are tied with Indiana in the conference in the number of first downs by passing.

Wildcats Have a Problem.

Defensively, Northwestern has a problem and Waldorf and his aids spent last evening working on it. Iowa held the Irish running attack to 137 yards with what almost amounted to an eight man line. Iowa was reasonably certain Notre Dame

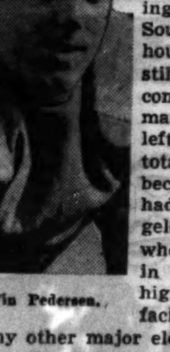
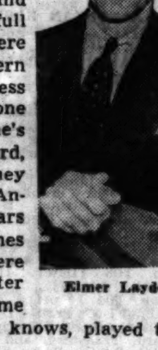
In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

ELMER LAYDEN'S Notre Dame football team may win by a point or lose by a point. . . . It may be a great team or an ordinary team. . . . But there is no denying it's the most popular one in the land. . . . Its pulling power this season is unprecedented in intercollegiate football. . . . After playing to the biggest early season crowds in its history Notre Dame will wind up the season with a record of six straight sellouts. . . . The Irish drew 80,000, the capacity of Cleveland's Municipal stadium, against Navy; 68,000 in Pittsburgh against Carnegie Tech; 77,000 in New York against Army; 46,000 in Iowa City against Iowa, and their remaining games with Northwestern and Southern California will attract a full house at Notre Dame. . . . There still are seats for the Northwestern contest, but J. Arthur Haley, business manager, predicts there will be none left at the kickoff. . . . Notre Dame's total attendance will not be a record, because last year, for instance, they had a throng of 102,000 in Los Angeles. . . . In Rockne's late years when the Irish played several games in Soldiers' field the figures were higher, but that was due to greater facilities. . . . Never has Notre Dame or any other major eleven, as far as this department knows, played to six consecutive capacity gatherings. . . .



Win Pedersen.



Elmer Layden.

Win Pedersen, Minnesota captain, took up football to silence high school classmates who said he was afraid. . . . Ott Heller, New York's Rangers' defense man, didn't score a goal last season, but 23 of his passes were converted into tallies. . . . An Iowa City hotel jumped the price of a $3 single room to $8 the night before the Notre Dame-Iowa game and has announced that the same price scale will be in effect tomorrow night, the eve of the Minnesota game. . . . Albert C. Fuller, Chicago hotel man, has been given a medal designating him as an honorary member of the Professional Golfers association. . . . Tom Walsh says Fuller is the only member of the P. G. A. who hasn't broken 100. . . . Pitt's 14 to 13 victory over Duke was the first one point defeat a team coached by Wallace has suffered in his 21 years as a gridiron instructor.

Babe Ruth Bags 18 Birds as Hunting Season Opens

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 15 (AP).—Babe Ruth turned on the old batting eye today and helped open Maryland's fall hunting season by bagging two turkeys [shot in flight], eight ducks, and eight pheasants. Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor bagged one turkey, seven ducks, and eight pheasants. Others in the Woodmont Rod and Gun club party included Senators Neely [D., W. Va.] and Taft [R., O.].

Chuck Crowell Beats Veteran Charlie Belanger

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 15 (AP).—Chuck Crowell, Los Angeles heavyweight, won the decision from Charlie Belanger, Toronto veteran, in an exciting ten-round bout here tonight. Crowell weighed 218, Belanger 196. Belanger was forced to take a five minute rest in the eighth round because of a low blow.

TOM WALSH IS NEW PRESIDENT OF PRO GOLFERS

Chicago Man Wins Office Over Ed Dudley.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Tom Walsh, one of the most industrious citizens of our town, yesterday was elected president of the Professional Golfers' Association of America amid scenes of peace and harmony unrivaled in the history of this guild of lads who make golf what it is in this country.

Walsh, eldest of a family of five Irish brothers who devoted their careers to professional golf, is a native New Yorker, but the Clan Walsh moved to Chicago when he was quite young, and it was as a south side Chicagoan that Tom got his start in the game by caddying at Beverly. He is now professional at the Westgate Valley club.

Named Over Ed Dudley.

Walsh, who was one of the originators of THE TRIBUNE golf school seven years ago, was named to the presidency by a vote of 45 to 22 over Ed Dudley of Philadelphia in the election held yesterday morning in the Roosevelt room of the Morrison hotel. Tom succeeds George Jacobus of Ridgewood, N. J., who had held the presidency since 1932. Jacobus, who was presented with a gold watch by the delegates, was named one of the three honorary presidents of the association, the others being Walter Hagen and Bobby Jones.

Capt. Charles Clarke of Willoughby, O., was elected secretary, succeeding Walsh. Capt. Clarke received 45 votes against 16 for Frank Sprogell of Grand Rapids, Mich., and six for John Budd of Tallahassee, Fla.

Maguire Elected Treasurer.

The national treasurer's position was won by Willie Maguire of Houston, Tex., who collected 36 votes against 31 for Jack Mackie of Inwood, N. Y., long time incumbent.

Nine vice presidents, each elected to represent three sections of the association also were chosen. Among these is Alex Cunningham of North Shore, who recently was reëlected president of the Illinois section. As a national vice president, Alex will represent the Illinois, Iowa, and Wisconsin sections.

The eight other national vice presidents elected, and the sections they will represent follow:

Frank Sprogell of Grand Rapids, Mich., Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

Charles Congdon of Tacoma, Wash., Pacific Northwestern, Minnesota and Nebraska.

Joe Novak of Bell Air, Cal., Southern California, Northern California, and Rocky Mountain.

Dr. Dyer Leads Clinic.

The convention, which held another session yesterday afternoon featured by a clinic led by Dr. Robert E. Dyer of North Shore, is expected to end this morning. Every one of the meetings held thus far has been distinguished by harmonious action in direct contrast to the usual stormy battles of other years. Bitter foes of many another convention worked together on the basis of a unified organization, thereby dissipating any prospects of a split, such as was intimated after the battle of Pomonok last July. The professionals obviously had decided to work together on a sound basis in which the promotion of golf is to be the keynote.

Kautz Named Coach of Freshman Five at Loyola

Wibs Kautz, holder of Loyola basketball scoring records, has been named freshman coach at the north side school, Leonard D. Sachs, director of athletics, announced yesterday. Kautz, whose 341 points last year set a new Loyola scoring mark, replaces Dick Butzen, who will devote his full time to business. In addition to handling the first year men and assisting Sachs with the varsity, Kautz will play professional basketball on George Halas' team this winter.

Smiling New Leaders of Golf Pros

Alex Cunningham of North Shore, Illinois president and national vice president for Illinois, Iowa, and Wisconsin; Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley, Chicago, new national president, and George R. Jacobus of Ridgewood, N. J., retiring president after seven straight terms and now one of the three honorary presidents. They were named yesterday in the annual election of the Professional Golfers' Association of America in the Morrison hotel. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

MR. CHRISTMAN'S A MARKED MAN IN OKLAHOMA CAMP

Norman, Okla., Nov. 15 (AP).—Passin' Paul Christman's press notices are beginning to irk the Oklahoma Sooners, thanks to Coach Tom Stidham. Stidham, who believes that as Christman goes, so goes Missouri, has been feeding his boys double doses of Passin' Paul's publicity, hoping they'll get sufficiently fed up to do things to the big, blond passer in Saturday's Big Six football game in Columbia.

And, not satisfied with just the pictures, Stidham had the No. 44, which adorns Christman's playing jersey, stuck all over the room with colored adhesive tape. The number even looms up in the mirror before which the players comb their hair.

Stidham's experiment apparently has been successful, for the Sooners rapidly are developing for Passin' Paul the same homicidal mood they acquired last year by reading the newspapers and magazines for Rice's glamor boy, Ernie Lain.

They Took Care of Lain.

The experts had Rice and Lain in the Rose bowl before the season opened, but the Sooners broke the Rice bubble, 7 to 6.

Oklahoma bottled up Christman in walloping Missouri last season, 21 to 0, but Stidham's boys aren't underestimating the Missourian this year.

HACKNEY, KANSAS STATE FULL BACK, DECIDES TO QUIT

Manhattan, Kas., Nov. 15 (AP).—Full Back Elmer Hackney will play no more football for Kansas State college.

Hackney, a senior and said by many to be the strongest man in intercollegiate athletics, made the decision today at a conference attended by M. F. Ahern, Kansas state director of athletics; Coach Wes Fry, Dr. Myron Husband, college physician, and Hackney. He was hurt in the Colorado game and has not played since.

Dr. Husband said Hackney's knee was well enough last Saturday for him to oppose Oklahoma. However, he was kept on the bench for fear a re-injury would spoil his Olympic team chances.

Bausone Is Upset as North Side C.Y.O. Champions Are Decided

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Frank Bausone, who has distinguished himself in many amateur bouts, was beaten by Charley Alicoate of St. Timothy as the north side Catholic Youth organization championships were decided last night. Bausone won the C. Y. O. bantamweight title last year and reached the Golden Gloves semi-finals. This season he is competing in the featherweight division.

Last night's bouts, which were held in C. Y. O. center, completed the Chicago phase of the ninth annual tournament's quarter-finals. After several weeks of eliminations the south, west, and north side each retains one boy in each weight division. These fighters will represent their sections in the semi-finals, which will be held next Monday in C. Y. O. center. The survivors will move on to the Stadium for the championship bouts Nov. 29.

Open in Joliet Tonight.

The center of activity will shift to Joliet tonight and tomorrow, when boxers of the suburban area hold their eliminations in Catholic High school gymnasium. The winners will come into Chicago next week for the semi-finals.

Bausone seemed overanxious in his bout with Alicoate last night. As his adversary kept piling up points with a left jab, Frank began launching wild swings. A few of them landed, but most of them missed. When Bausone charged Alicoate usually held him off with a straight left to the face. Even at that, the decision was close, the two judges voting for Alicoate and the referee for Bausone.

William Goldsmith, last year's C. Y. O. lightweight champion, had much better luck than Bausone. Competing in the welterweight division, he stopped Howard White in the third round.

Crowd Cheers Novices.

A group of hard slugging novices kept the crowd in an uproar thru the earlier part of the evening, Candolorio Gallardo and Morion Palmer doing some particularly strenuous hitting. Gallardo won the decision in this 112 pound division bout.

NOVICE DIVISION.

112 POUNDS — Candolorio Gallardo, St. Rose of Lima, beat Morion Palmer, St. Joseph [3].

118 POUNDS—Eugene Cahill, St. Thomas of Canterbury, beat Henry Nichols, Holy Name [3].

MICHIGAN DEER SEASON OPEN; 2 HUNTERS KILLED

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 15 (AP).—Michigan's deer hunting season was but a few hours old today when two hunters were killed.

The victims, shot accidentally by fellow hunters, were Augustus Altvatter, 67, Fowler, Mich., and Roy Morris, 42, Detroit. The two were among thousands of hunters opening the 15 day season.

Morris was shot by his brother-in-law, Ray McFeely of Detroit. Altvatter was shot by Harry Brousseau, 24, Alpena. State police began investigations to determine whether the incidents would fall under the new state law providing penalties for "careless use of firearms."

CHICAGO TEAM FACES RANGERS ON GARDEN ICE

Thompson Irked by Boston Defeat.

Tonight's Games

Chicago at New York Rangers.
Boston at Montreal.

New York, Nov. 15 [Special].—Paul Thompson, manager of the Chicago Blackhawks, brought his youthful troupe into New York this evening for their season's Madison Square Garden debut tomorrow night against the New York Rangers. He still was visibly affected by the 3 to 1 overtime defeat suffered in Boston Tuesday night and the Bruins, according to the Chicago manager, were exceedingly lucky to score the tying goal with only seven minutes of play remaining.

Had the Hawks succeeded in protecting the lead built up in the first three minutes on Rookie Doug Bentley's goal, they would be defending the National league hockey lead tomorrow night. Instead, they are tied with the Montreal Canadiens for third place. The Rangers, who have tied one game and lost two, are deadlocked for fifth with Boston. The Hawks will be seeking to break their road jinx, having suffered both of their defeats on enemy ice.

Manager Praises Team.

"They showed me they have the right kind of spirit," he said. "Those Bruins gave them a working over, but they never backed an inch. The tying goal was lucky. Bill Hollett's drive hit a player, caromed off a goal post, and lodged just behind the line in the net. It was certainly a heartbreaker."

Altho the Hawks assimilated a lot of punishment in their losing battle, every one will be able to play tomorrow. Head wounds suffered in collisions by George Allen and Patrick Smith required stitching. Bentley's memento of the game is a slight cut on his chin the result of being bopped by Dit Clapper's stick.

Two Rangers of last season, George Allen and Bill Carse, are members of the Chicago team. In their place, the New Yorkers have two youthful forwards, Alf Pike and Kilby McDonald, both playing their first season in the league. All will see service.

Look Forward to Sunday.

The Hawks are concentrating on tomorrow night's game, but they're also looking forward to Sunday night when they play a return game with the Bruins in the Chicago Stadium. They will be keyed up because of their resolve to wipe out the sting of Thursday's defeat. Boston meets the Canadiens in Montreal in the only other league game tomorrow night.

Chicago's defensive record is the poorest in the league, the enemy having scored 14 goals in four games. Eight of them, however, were made by the Canadiens. In the other three contests, the Hawks have held their foes to an average of two points. Chicago's scoring average is two points per game, but Manager Thompson is confident the team's offense will improve steadily.

The Rangers have made only two goals, but this deficiency has been almost matched by their strong defense, which has yielded only three points.

LINK SUTHERLAND WITH W. VIRGINIA COACHING POST

Morgantown, W. V., Nov. 15 (AP).—Dr. John [Jock] Sutherland, former University of Pittsburgh coach, watched West Virginia's varsity and freshman football squads practice this afternoon. West Virginia's coach, Marshall [Sleepy] Glenn, has indicated he will retire and grandstand quarter backs have been picking Bill Kern of Carnegie Tech and several others for the job.

Sutherland was accompanied by Harry Moses, retired vice president of the United States Steel corporation, who has shown interest in West Virginia's gridiron future.

"It's just a pleasure trip for me," Dr. Sutherland said as he toured the Mountaineers' stadium with Athletic Director Roy M. Hawley and watched West Virginia's varsity prepare for the game Saturday in Lexington, Ky., with the University of Kentucky.

Asked whether he intended to coach next year, Sutherland replied: "Just read the newspapers; they seem to know more about it than I do."

A Pittsburgh paper stated last night Sutherland already has signed a contract with an eastern school. Reports today had that school as Harvard.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 15 (AP).—President Art Rooney said today the Pirates might not be going anywhere in the National Professional Football league but they're definitely not for sale.

KAYAK II. SETS RECORD TO WIN BOWIE HANDICAP

Boosts Year's Earnings to $170,875.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 15 (AP).—Kayak II. wound up his eastern racing campaign in a blaze of glory today by winning the $10,000 added Bowie handicap at Pimlico in record time.

The Argentine bred thorobred, owned by C. S. Howard, raced to an easy two length victory over A. G. Vanderbilt's Heelfly and covered the mile and five-eighths in 2:44 2-5, clipping four-fifth of a second off the mark set by Esposa in 1937.

In some measure, the victory atoned for Kayak's defeat by W. L. Brann's Challedon in the Pimlico special, for Challedon's stablemate, Challephen, was back in third place. Vanderbilt's Nedayr was fourth in the field of eight.

Earnings Total $170,875.

It was a grand climax to Kayak's eastern campaign and the winner's purse of $9,850 boosted his 1939 earnings to $170,875—a mark exceeded only by Challedon. The Howard star soon will go west to prepare for the Santa Anita handicap.

A crowd of about 10,000, out to watch the closing day feature of Pimlico's fall meeting, backed Kayak into odds-on favoritism and he returned only $2.80, $2.50, and $2.30 for $2 mutuels tickets.

Heelfly Sets Pace.

The field got away to a good start, with Heelfly setting the pace and trailed by Challephen, Mrs. John D. Hertz's Count D'Or, and Kayak. For a mile they ran in that order. Heelfly was burning up the track while Kayak moved along easily under a tight hold by Jockey George Woolf.

Rounding the mile and a quarter mark, Woolf asked Kayak for more speed and the Argentine express got underway. In rapid order he overhauled Count D'Or and Challephen, then swept by Heelfly in the stretch with never a touch of the jockey's whip to urge him on.

The Maryland racing scene shifts to Bowie tomorrow, where a two weeks' meeting opens. The final races of the Bowie meeting will be run Nov. 30.

wouldn't immediately resort to passing.

Northwestern can't take this for granted. The Wildcats' defense must not be left that vulnerable to passes for this week Notre Dame might open up. And against a less compact defense, Northwestern must remember Milt Piepul. He packs dynamite on Irish reverses.

IRISH WORK ON OFFENSE.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 15 [Special] —Work on an offense which sputtered and stalled against Iowa today featured Notre Dame's preparations for Saturday's Northwestern game.

The Irish blocked hard and Coach Elmer Layden exhorted down field interferers to help the ball carriers. The attitude of the squad was that Northwestern must pay for Iowa's upset victory.

But Layden remarked that Northwestern feels the same way about its defeat by Purdue last week. Both the Wildcats and the Irish had the statistical edge in their games, but they couldn't get enough points. The prospect appears good for both offenses to jell and bring about a free scoring battle.

Jim Brutz and Paul Lillis, sophomore tackles, were with the first team tonight. Tom Gallagher and Tad Harvey, Chicago regulars, were with the second team. "They will have to earn their first team jobs back," said Layden. "Brutz and Lillis played fine ball while Harvey and Gallagher were out with injuries."

Tickets were still available today for the Northwestern game, and there may be a few available as late as Saturday, altho a sellout crowd is expected.

SCHLITZ QUINTET REDUCES LEAD OF PABST BOWLERS

The Pabst bowling team totaled 3,136 last night in Goldammer's 20th Century Rec., but could win only one game from Schlitz in the Wednesday division of the Classic league. Schlitz's series was 3,117 and cut the Pabsts' lead to five games.

The Michelobs won three games from Ambrosia, the third game in a roll-off, and went into fourth place, the Monarchs dropping to fifth as the result of losing two to Power House. Prager Beers defeated the Koenig Braus twice.

GALENTO DENIES UNDERGOING AN EYE OPERATION

Orange, N. J., Nov. 15 (AP).—Tony Galento today denied a report he had undergone an eye operation as the result of an injury received in the boxing ring.

The rotund heavyweight confirmed the earlier statement of Joe Jacobs, his manager, who said a hemorrhage occurred in the right eye after the Lou Nova fight, but that it had cleared up.

Met as he drove up to his home, Galento said he had been absent from his usual haunts the last two days because he wished to safeguard the eye and take no chance of hurting it "in a slughhouse" in his bar.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Kayak II., $2.80 straight, $2.50 place, $2.30 show; Heelfly, $4.00 place, $2.90 show; Challephen, $3.10 show.

KAYAK II. ran a remarkable race. He handled his weight well, was allowed to gallop along far back behind the pace, began to move up after the first mile, was taken to the outside, closed fast, took the lead inside the furlong pole, and won going away. HEELFLY was rushed into a long lead, displayed good speed, and was next best. CHALLEPHEN was a stout factor from the start and made a game effort. NEDAYR, outrun in the early part, closed some ground. COUNT D'OR ran well for a mile, then tired.

SEVENTH RACE—Mile and five furlongs. Purse, $1,000. [Claiming prices, $1,500 to $1,250.] Four year olds and up. Start good for all but Mahlette. Won easily, second same. Went to post at 4:27½. RIGHTMIRE AND SPENCER AWAIT BOUT TOMORROW

Both are close to the agreed 134 pounds. After he sparred four rounds yesterday with Joe Law, Rightmire scaled 133. This is three pounds more than the weight Everett carried when he beat Sammy Sferas in Marigold Gardens on Oct. 2. In his last Chicago appearance March 3 Spencer weighed 131 pounds. On that occasion Gene conquered Johnny Balmer of Peoria in White City.

In an eight round co-feature Lem Franklin fights Perk Daniels. Preliminary matches of four rounds bring together Billy Seward, Ingomar, Mont., lightweight, and Tommy Parker, and Harry Sutton, south side heavyweight, and Jake Lebovitz.

Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, and Clarence Brown will box an exhibition tonight in Milwaukee auditorium under the auspices of Billy Mitchell. Leone Efrati, 130 pound fighter from Rome, Italy, will meet Jackie Cellura of Detroit in a 10 round event on the same card. Preliminary encounters involve Johnny Penneau and Carl Schumaker, Isaiah Wells and George Feltes, and Frankie Gaudes and Gene Ward.

South Bend Star's Leg Is Broken in Scrimmage

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 15 [Special]. --Roy Yoder, senior full back of South Bend Riley, suffered a broken leg today on the eve of the Wildcats' departure for Blytheville, Ark., for their intersectional game Friday night. The accident occurred in the final scrimmage of the week. The Riley squad of 33, headed by Coach Forest M. Wood, will leave here tomorrow morning and will return Sunday.

Marquette's 29 Players Leave for Final Game

Gil Thomsen, veteran right end, is at St. Joseph's hospital with a side injury received in the Duquesne game two weeks ago but which did not become aggravated until this week. Players making the Texas Tech trip are:

ENDS—Bill Burke, Dick Roche, Don Vonberg, and Bob Sieske.
TACKLES—Charles Peifer, Dick Raye, Tom Woods, Ray Busler, and Bill Fugate.
GUARDS—Charles Hooper, Bob Rennebohm, Ted Tunis, Joe Kinsey, and Al Deitzinger.
CENTERS—Ray Apolskis and Jimmy Briggs.

SUGGESTS STATE TAX ON RACING BETS FOR RELIEF

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 15 (AP).—State Senator Thomas P. Gunning [R., Princeton] suggested today in a letter to Gov. Horner that pari-mutuel betting in Illinois be subjected to a tax for relief purposes.

"Gambling is probably the most profitable business in our state," Gunning's letter said. "Since pari-mutuel has been legalized by the Illinois legislature, thus throwing a cloak of sanctity around the business, why not reduce the sales tax upon the necessities of life disproportionately paid by the poor, and levy on those who so greatly profited thru pari-mutuel betting.

"I think it only fair to inquire how many of the victims of gamblers' profits are now on the emergency relief having their necessities of life provided for by a tax levied upon those citizens who neither believe in nor participate in the gambling business."

BEARS TO START FOUR FRESHMEN AGAINST EAGLES

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

A freshman back field composed of four members of The Tribune's All-Star squad last August was named yesterday to start for the Bears against Davey O'Brien and the Philadelphia Eagles in Wrigley field Sunday. The youngsters entrusted with keeping the Bears within hailing distance of a chance at the National league western division title are Sid Luckman of Columbia, Bill Osmanski of Holy Cross, Bob MacLeod of Dartmouth, and Billy Patterson of Baylor.

Patterson Proves His Skill.

This will be the first time this season that these men have gone into a game together, altho each has distinguished himself from Sunday to Sunday in back fields with veterans. Osmanski, MacLeod, and Luckman have been prominent members of the Bear cast, but Patterson has seen little action. He proved himself, however, at Cleveland, where he took over the signal calling and passing in the second quarter to lead Osmanski, MacLeod, and Gary Famiglietti, a veteran, to three touchdowns after the Rams had taken a 14 to 0 lead in the first period.

Chesney to Replace Bausch.

Coach George Halas also announced that Jack Torrance, 285 pound tackle from Louisiana State, would start at right tackle again and that Chet Chesney of De Paul would replace Pete Bausch at center in the starting lineup.

Torrance made his debut as a starter in Detroit last Sunday and exceeded Halas' most optimistic expectations. He proved a tower of strength on defense and was surprisingly nimble on offense.

Osmanski leads his injured teammate, Joe Maniaci, by 102 yards for the league ground gaining title, having forged ahead during Maniaci's absence because of a leg injury. Bill is only two touchdowns short of the scoring lead held by Andy Farkas of Washington. Farkas has scored nine times, tying the league record for one season set by Don Hutson in 1936 and equaled by the same Packer end in 1938. League leaders follow:

	Yards.	Attempts.	Av.
Osmanski, Bears	603	110	5.4
Maniaci, Bears	501	70	7.1
Farkas, Washington	476	111	4.2

Janzaruk and Logan Lost to Hoosier Team

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 15 [Special].—Indiana's injury riddled football squad was further weakened today by the loss of two regulars, John Janzaruk, end, and Capt. Jim Logan, guard, injured last week. Coach Bo McMillin said they probably will not be available for the Michigan State game in East Lansing Saturday.

Jim Ellenwood was shifted from left end to right end to fill in for Janzaruk, and Al Bragalone was moved from tackle to guard as a replacement for Logan. Quarter Back Eddie Herbert and Half Back Harold Hursh, who missed practice yesterday because they had appointments with an eye specialist, were back on duty today. The first string back field consisted of Herbert, quarter back; Ray Dumke and Red Zimmer, half backs; and Tuffy Brooks, full back.

SPARTAN TEAM RETURNS.

East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 15 [Special].—The student body at Michigan State turned out this afternoon to welcome the squad back from California where they lost, 6 to 0, to Santa Clara last Saturday.

The team hurried from the train to the practice field in an effort to utilize every available minute of the three remaining practice sessions before they face Indiana university here Saturday.

Guritz's Wedding Within Rules, Finding at N. U.

No disciplinary action will be taken by Northwestern university against Don Guritz, star guard on the football team, and Mary K. Vogel, sophomore co-ed, whose marriage last Friday was revealed yesterday.

Elias Lyman, chairman of the board of personnel administration, said yesterday that Guritz and his bride had obtained the consent of both their parents to the marriage and consequently the university would take no action. He pointed out that the university rule regarding student marriages was designed against "runaway marriages" in which the principals did not obtain the consent of their parents.

La Salle-Peru Claims Best Passing Pair

BY JAMES SEGRETI.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

La Salle, Ill., Nov. 15.—There's a kid passing combination in these parts which La Salle believes cannot be matched anywhere in the United States. Wesley Tregoning and Raymond Gapinski have led La Salle-Peru Township High school to seven victories this fall, and Friday night they will attempt to whip East Aurora to bring the school its first Big Seven conference football championship.

Gapinski, known to his teammates and supporters of La Salle-Peru as Lefty the Slinger, has tossed touchdown passes into the waiting arms of Tregoning for victories over leading northern Illinois prep elevens, among them Ottawa, St. Bede, West Aurora, Joliet, Freeport, Rockford, and Elgin. The southpaw pitcher, who weighs only 138 pounds, has fired the ball any distance up to 50 yards with uncanny accuracy.

Completes 43 Passes.

Gapinski's amazing forward passing record for the seven games reveals that La Salle-Peru has flipped 102 passes, completing 43 for a total gain of 532 yards and only five were intercepted. In addition to his brilliant tossing Gapinski is rated as a reliable safety position player and an excellent ball carrier.

Tregoning is leading the Big Seven conference individual scoring race with 36 points. For the entire season Tregoning, quarter back and the team's kicker, has rolled up twelve touchdowns for a total of 72 points.

Albert J. [Butch] Nowack, coach of the La Salle-Peru eleven and former All-American tackle at the University of Illinois, smiled as he watched the combination click in a passing drill this afternoon. Last week's victory over Elgin assured La Salle-Peru of at least a tie for the conference title, but the squad is preparing to obtain a clear claim to the title, its first since joining the organization in 1935.

Team Has Other Stars.

Statistics show La Salle-Peru's strength in all departments. Its seven opponents have tried 79 passes, completing 21 for 257 yards. La Salle-Peru has gained 657 yards by rushing against 263. In all La Salle-Peru has accumulated 1,189 yards in the seven contests to the opposition's 520.

La Salle was ready to celebrate in 1935, Nowack's first year as coach, but Freeport knocked them out of the conference championship by winning, 7 to 6. They're confident Gapinski and Tregoning will bring home the title after their long wait Friday night, against East Aurora.

MAGAZINE WILL URGE MAROONS TO HIRE ATHLETES

Editors of Pulse, a monthly magazine published by students at the University of Chicago, said yesterday the publication will appear today with an editorial offering two solutions to the question of football at the institution. The Maroons have been routed in their last four games.

Direct subsidization of players will be advocated, thru a fund raised by alumni. The editorial estimated $60,000, if it were raised by alumni, would provide some 15 scholarships which could be issued to entering athletes each year.

The editorial also will suggest the school "seriously consider substituting Rugby for football," the editors explaining that lack of reserve strength—Chicago's football squad is much smaller than those of other Big Ten schools—would be no handicap in Rugby, in which starting players play thru the entire game.

CRANE LEADS IN SOCCER LEAGUE; BEATS TILDEN, 1-0

Crane Tech displaced Lane Tech as leader in the Chicago Public High School Soccer league yesterday by defeating Tilden Tech, 1 to 0, in Altgeld park. Joseph Morgenstern scored the goal.

Crane now has 12 points with six victories and one loss, while Lane, which drew a bye yesterday, has 11 with four victories and three draws. However, Lane's disputed 1-1 tie with Kelly still is to be decided. If Lane is awarded the match, the north side school will share first place with Crane.

Here's One Pass Certain to Click

Mayor Edward J. Kelly winds up for an indoor practice pass in the Blackstone hotel as school officials, coaches, and sports writers help lay plans for Chicago's annual all-city championship football game in Soldiers' field on Dec. 2 between the winners of the Public High School and Catholic league races. Ready to help complete the preliminary play last night are A. H. Pritzlaff (center), director of physical education for the public schools, and Msgr. D. F. Cunningham, superintendent of Catholic schools.

Illinois Works on Defense to Stop Ohio State

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 15 [Special].—Ohio State offensive formations again received a thoro scrutiny by the Illinois varsity today as it scrimmaged against the freshmen in preparation for Saturday's game with the Buckeyes in Columbus.

Enthusiasm was high with the varsity breaking thru to stop the freshmen version of the Ohio State running plays. Bert Piggott, first year man representing Don Scott, Buckeye quarter back, surprised the varsity with a few pass completions yesterday, but today Piggott couldn't connect consistently. Coach Bob Zuppke warned against the clever ball handling tactics Ohio will display.

Ralph Ehni and Bill Lenich, first string quarter back and center, took their first workout since the Wisconsin game, but didn't take part in scrimmage. Nate Johnson, sophomore tackle, tested his injured knee in hopes he'll be available before the season ends.

Wes Martin's participation Saturday is doubtful, it was learned today. If he is used at all it will be only for a short time. Joe Turek, sophomore guard, probably will start in his place.

Cliff Peterson, junior half back, is definitely out for the season. Yesterday he suffered a recurrence of the knee injury he sustained against Southern California.

BLOCKING PERPLEXES OHIO.

Columbus, O., Nov. 15 [Special].—How to penetrate the varied and perplexing Illinois defensive setups is the big problem occupying the attention of Coach Francis A. Schmidt and the Ohio State eleven.

Dummies set up in defensive positions have been painted orange and blue. Numbers have been painted on them in an attempt to imitate the Illinois secondary.

De La Salle Alumni Will Hold Banquet Tonight

The De La Salle institute alumni association will hold its 44th annual banquet in the Morrison hotel tonight. Edward J. Davey will be toastmaster.

SPORTS LEADERS PLEDGE HELP IN ALL-CITY GAME

Chicago's sports leaders last night gathered in the Blackstone hotel to pledge their coöperation in the presentation of Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit fund all-city high school football game between the champions of the Catholic and public school leagues in Soldiers' field on Dec. 2.

Civic officials, collegiate directors, and high school coaches and officials were present. Mayor Kelly, who inaugurated the football series five years ago, was toastmaster. Speakers included Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, Northwestern university athletic director; Clark Shaughnessy, University of Chicago football coach, and Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel.

De Correvont Speaks.

Other speakers were Msgr. D. F. Cunningham, superintendent of Chicago's Catholic schools; Dr. William Johnson, superintendent of public schools; A. H. Pritzlaff, physical education director of the public school league; the Rev. P. J. Conaty, president of the Catholic league; Jay Berwanger, former University of Chicago football star, and Bill De Correvont, Northwestern half back, who led Austin High to victory in the 1937 all-city contest.

Six teams remain in the running to determine the elevens which will appear in the big game. They include Austin, Schurz, Tilden Tech, and Fenger in the Public School league and St. Ignatius and Mount Carmel in the Catholic league. The Public School league semifinals will be played Saturday afternoon, Austin facing Schurz in Mills stadium and Tilden Tech opposing Fenger in Soldiers' field.

Pick Catholic Team Sunday.

The Catholic league's representative will be decided Sunday afternoon in Soldiers' field when St. Ignatius north section champion, plays Mount Carmel, winner of the south zone title. Mount Carmel represented the Catholic league in last year's contest, and lost to Fenger, 13 to 0.

Hodes, who also serves as secretary of the benefit fund, said more than 60,000 tickets have been sold for the game. Receipts of the 1938 contest totaled $100,000 and were used to purchase clothing and shoes for Chicago's underprivileged children.

Purdue Fears Running Game of Wisconsin

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 15 [Special].—Coach Mal Elward concentrated on revising the defensive setup of Purdue's eleven today as the Boilermakers continued preparations for Wisconsin's Badgers in Madison Saturday.

"We expect to meet as hard a running attack as we have been thrown against all season," said Elward. "Scouting reports indicate George Paskvan is the best running full back in the conference and unless we can bolster our defense, we will be in for a trimming. Wisconsin is vastly underrated, due to unfortunate breaks."

Special attention was devoted to the forward passing attack during a brief dummy scrimmage session. Several new plays have been built around Dave Rankin, junior end.

Ted Tykocki, John Petty, and Jim Welsch, reserve backs who showed up well in yesterday's scrimmage, saw frequent action today and are expected to play against the Badgers.

Purdue will end its drills tomorrow afternoon and head for Chicago at noon Friday.

TWO WISCONSIN CHANGES.

Bob Peterson, husky sophomore from Aurora, Ill., was at left half back in place of Johnny Tennant, who suffered a bruised hip in the Illinois game, and Johnny Doyle was at center in place of Jack Murray. Doyle will be acting captain.

If their good fortune against the Boilermakers run in cycles, the Badgers are due to defeat Purdue this time, for it was in 1931 and again in 1935, that Wisconsin scored upsets over Purdue in Camp Randall stadium.

Hawkeye Fans Fear Iron Men Are Exhausted

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 15 [Special].—Iowa City and the state of Iowa today began its weekly stint of worrying for the University of Iowa's iron man football team as the homecoming game between the Hawkeyes and Minnesota's Gophers approached.

Today the rumor was spread that the Hawkeyes were dead tired and that they were forcing themselves every step of the way. Telephone calls began to arrive here, checking the report.

They Also Fear Gophers.

As if that in itself were not enough to worry about, grave fears regarding Minnesota's new found strength were being added by the worriers. Apparently the only persons not worrying about the game were Coach Anderson and the football team. The pace they maintained thruout today's practice seemed sufficient proof the Hawkeyes had weathered the battle with Notre Dame in good condition.

Anderson added Buzz Dean and Ed McLain, both right half backs, to the pass throwing department to give some relief to Nile Kinnick, the squad's ace passer, and also give him the opportunity to receive. The fact that Dean and McLain would be placed in the dual rôle of passers and ball carriers also would add deception to the Iowa attack.

The varsity managed to stop both Frank Carideo, back field coach, and Bill Hofer, freshman coach, in defensive drills as they ran in the back field of a reserve eleven demonstrating Minnesota plays.

GOPHERS DRILL ON DEFENSE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 15 [Special].—Nile Kinnick was the magic name in the Minnesota football camp today as the Gophers put on full speed ahead in their preparations for the Iowa game in Iowa City Saturday.

Coach Bernie Bierman was exerting every move toward stopping Kinnick in his varied rôles, even forgetting about Minnesota's offensive maneuvers for the time being.

Meanwhile, the biggest junket of the season was being prepared by Minnesota fans. More than 5,000 tickets already have been sold. Several special trains will go out of here, in addition to many automobiles.

Madigan Sick; Forced to Miss Loop Luncheon

Edward [Slip] Madigan, head coach of St. Mary's of California football team and twice a member of THE TRIBUNE'S All Star coaching staff, was unable to attend a luncheon yesterday in the Morrison hotel in honor of the Galloping Gaels.

The team, which meets Fordham in New York Saturday, attended after a workout in Soldiers' field. Madigan arose yesterday with a heavy cold, and decided to remain in his train.

Full backs—Bob Westfall, Bob Zimmerman, Ed Christy.

Court Ponders Alimony Increase for Mrs. Broaca

Barnstable, Mass., Nov. 15 (AP).—Referring to John Broaca, Cleveland Indians' pitcher as Big Hearted Johnny, counsel for Mrs. Cordelia Ireland Broaca, the ball player's divorced wife, charged today he didn't even so much as buy a stick of candy for his son, Johnny Jr. Mrs. Broaca sought to have alimony increased from $18 to $75 a week, while Broaca sought release of attachment which she has on $3,700 of his funds. Judge Collen C. Campbell took the case under advisement.

RAIL OPERATING REVENUES MAKE BIG OCTOBER GAIN

Volume Runs 17.5 Per Cent Above Year Ago.

The Association of American Railroads yesterday reported that the estimated operating revenues of 90 class 1 railroads in the United States totaled $339,895,107 during October, compared with $289,279,715 a year earlier.

These revenues were 17.5 above a year ago, the association said, but 13.9 per cent below October, 1930.

Freight revenues amounted to $285,783,788 last month, compared with $238,447,300 in 1938. Passenger revenues of $27,961,865 compared with $26,821,733 in 1938.

PREVIOUSLY EARNED.

Dividends have been paid this year on the common stock of the American Ship Building company, but none on the preferred stock. How could this be done? I always thought preferred stock was ahead of common stock. What were the recent earnings of the company?—K. M.

Answer: The common stock of the American Ship Building company holds an unusual position in relation to the preferred stock. In the years when operations are unprofitable, the common stock is eligible for dividends from previously earned surplus, but the preferred stock goes without dividends.

The company is required by the provisions of its 7 per cent noncumulative preferred stock of $100 par value to pay dividends on this stock only from the surplus net profit in any fiscal year.

Dividends on the preferred stock, therefore, are limited to current earnings. From 1934 thru 1938 the company distributed $7 a preferred share in each calendar year. The last payment on this stock was on June 25, 1938.

Because the company had a net loss in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1939, there was no current profit from which the preferred dividends could be disbursed.

Altho the common stock is junior to the preferred, it may receive dividends when none is being paid on the preferred stock upon this condition: If in any fiscal year, after full dividends on the preferred stock have been disbursed, any surplus net profit remains, it may accumulate and be applied to the common stock at the discretion of the directors.

The preferred stock, therefore, cannot participate in previously earned profits, but has first claim on any current profits.

American Ship Building was once dominant in the ship construction industry of the Great Lakes. The decline in new construction led the company to concentrate on repair and outfitting jobs.

Capital stock of 393 shares of preferred and 126,263 shares of common stock is outstanding. The common is listed on the New York Stock exchange.

Net loss of $207,722 in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1939, was the first incurred since 1933. In the 1938 fiscal year net income was $427,674 or $3.36 a common share, compared with net income of $452,518 or $3.52 a share in the 1937 fiscal year.

On the common stock, $3 a share was paid in 1937 and 1938, and $2 a share from 1933 thru 1936. This year 50 cents a share was paid Feb., May, and Aug. 1 from previously earned surplus. The directors on Oct. 11 deferred consideration of another common dividend until later.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The break in the market for new crop hogs was halted yesterday as farmers curtailed shipments as a result of the recent declines. The run at 11 principal points fell to 60,000, off 14,000 head from the largest Wednesday receipts last week.

Wholesale prices of fresh pork dipped another 50 cents a hundred pounds to new lows for the season. However, commission men managed to sell practically the entire supply, except sows, at steady rates. Sows slumped 10 to 20 cents.

A better tone developed in the market for many classes of steers. Competition was most brisk in the best light steers and yearlings, which advanced 10 to 15 cents or more, altho some of the best heavy cattle also ruled strong to 15 cents higher.

An advance of 10 to 15 cents brought slaughter lambs to the highest price levels since the middle of last week.

COTTON

Hedging pressure increased in the cotton markets in the latter part of the session yesterday and disclosed less aggressive mill buying. Closing trades were about the bottom, with losses of .06 to .17 cent a pound lower.

Mills were reported as willing to shade prices on large sized orders for textiles, but the demand is said to be slow. Prices follow:

FEDERAL JURY GIVEN GENERAL MOTORS CASE

Trust Suit Decision Expected Today.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 15.—Four Indiana farmers and eight business men tonight are locked in a jury room to decide whether the billion and a half dollar General Motors corporation is guilty of violating the Sherman anti-trust act. Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley said he would not receive a verdict until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Judge Lindley at 6:30 tonight gave his instructions to the jury which has been hearing the General Motors case since Oct. 9. He told the members that they must be "inspired by no other motif than to render, so far as humanly possible, the truth." He emphasized the point that the "mere size of a corporation is no crime, nor is it a defense."

Final Arguments Advanced.

The long trial moved toward its concluding stage at 9 o'clock this morning when youthful Holmes Baldridge, special assistant from the office of the attorney general at Washington, began the closing arguments for the government.

After a brief noon recess Ernest S. Ballard, Chicago, and John Thomas Smith, attorneys for the defendants, including four companies and 17 persons, gave their concluding arguments.

The case went to the jury after an hour of rebuttal arguments by Baldridge, and an hour of instructions by Judge Lindley. The verdict is being awaited by the entire automobile industry because of the effect it is expected to have on the conduct of the business.

Conviction on the charge may mean imprisonment of up to a year or a fine of up to $5,000, or both.

Baldridge indicated the government might not press for prison terms if it won convictions.

"We don't feel," he said, "these men are criminals."

Briefly, the government charges that the defendants entered into a conspiracy, which began as early as 1925, and which resulted in an undue restraint upon interstate commerce.

Suit Charges Conspiracy.

Specifically it charges that the General Motors corporation and the General Motors Sales corporation entered into a conspiracy with the General Motors Acceptance corporation and the General Motors Acceptance Corporation of Indiana to coerce General Motors dealers into using G. M. A. C. financing in the purchase of automobiles. These are the four companies named in the indictment.

The government charges that dealers were threatened with the cancellation of their dealer contracts if they did not place all or most of their financing with G. M. A. C. This, the government held, constituted coercion and a restraint on interstate commerce.

The defense denied that it used coercion, but admitted that it had exerted its right of attempting to get its dealers to use the G. M. A. C. service. It defended the corporation's practices as sound economically and as legal.

Cites Case's Importance.

"This is one of the most important cases to come before a jury in many years," Attorney Smith said in his concluding arguments. "If the government can force a corporation thru persecution to do something that is economically unsound, then it is a sorry day for the butcher, the baker and the candle stick maker."

Smith called the words "conspiracy, coercion and cancellation" in the government charges weasel words used to give an implication of a criminal action. He declared that the real parties to the government charges are "375 independent finance companies that are being hurt by G. M. A. C.'s competition."

Asserting that one of the prime objectives of G. M. A. C. is to see that purchasers of General Motors cars get a square deal, Smith said the independent companies are not interested in whether the dealer is soaking the customer or not.

Reasonable Basis Is Aim.

General Motors seeks to maintain its customer good will by seeing to it that financing of new cars is handled on a reasonable basis, he said.

"But we want the competition of the independents," he said. "General Motors lives on competition.

"And who are the malefactors in this case? I see Al Capone Knudsen [referring to William S. Knudsen] over there, and there is John Dillinger Sloan [referring to Alfred P. Sloan Jr.] going about killing dealers. Then we have Capt. Kidd Coyle [referring to M. E. Coyle trying to gouge the dealers."

Smith said that far from restraining trade, General Motors actually [illegible] promoted it. He declared that in [illegible] the corporation made about 300,000 cars and now is building several millions of cars annually.

"It is a most astounding thing to be accused of restraint of these figures," he declared.

Ballard Tells of Stimulation.

Ballard told the jury that the four corporations named in the indictment are in effect a single enterprise, all owned for practical purposes by the General Motors stockholders. He insisted that the primary purpose of G. M. A. C. was not to make money but to make it possible to sell more General Motors cars at lower prices. He said the fact that G. M. A. C. financing has helped sell cars has had

Central Bank Is Proposed for Americas

GUATEMALA CITY, Nov. 15 (AP).—The monetary committee of the Pan-American treasury conference tonight approved in principle a Colombian proposal for establishment of a central bank supported by banking resources of the Americas to stimulate economic development.

The committee voted to recommend the proposal to the full conference, after details are worked out, as a means of offsetting the economic strain upon the Americas resulting from the European war.

The monetary committee voted to meet again Friday to complete details of its recommendations.

Financial Aid Indicated.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15 [Special].—The existence in the western hemisphere of a reservoir of capital sufficient to develop natural resources and to "tide over immediate emergencies," presumably arising from the European war was discussed today by Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state. He accepted the chairmanship of the inter-American financial and advisory committee.

Welles said, however, that "anything we may attempt in this field must necessarily be in accord with underlying economic facts."

Financial Aid Indicated.

His remarks were interpreted in some circles as indicating that the United States may be prepared to give generous financial assistance to other American nations to prevent dislocation of their trade by the war and to insure a sound development of their industrial resources.

He made it clear that American investment must be predicated upon conditions which would inspire confidence on the part of investors.

BUYERS OF STEEL PRESS MILLS FOR EARLY DELIVERY

Pressure from consumers for delivery of steel is strong evidence that much of the ingot production of the nation's humming steel industry is passing immediately into finished products, Iron Age said yesterday in its weekly review of the industry. Inventories of most consumers, according to the publication, are still far below normal.

The industry, Iron Age said, can see no signs of a halt in the flow of steel from mills to final consumers.

"Instead," the magazine asserted, "such a steel outlet as the automotive industry is increasing estimates of its first quarter 1940 steel requirements and many types of consumers are pressing for earlier deliveries. Most steel companies in the last 10 days have made no progress in reducing their backlogs."

The steel industry is now operating half a point higher than last week, at 93.5 per cent of theoretical capacity, according to Iron Age.

The publication's composite scrap steel price declined 80 cents from last week's levels to $19.83. On Oct. 3 the scrap composite was $22.50.

FEDERAL INCOME 2 BILLION; SPEND OVER 3½ BILLION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15 (AP).—Federal receipts passed the two billion dollar mark today, but expenditures exceeded $3,500,000,000. In the fiscal year which began July 1, the treasury said, it has received $2,015,951,947 and has spent $3,513,744,124, creating a deficit of $1,497,792,177.

The growing deficit has caused the federal debt to increase to a new record of $41,205,727,831.

Chicago Water Revenue Loan Sold at Premium

The First National Bank of Chicago and R. D. White & Co. of New York submitted a bid of $28,284 premium for the $3,000,000 city of Chicago water revenue certificates as 2¾s. This was the highest bid. The certificates mature 1949 to 1953, inclusive.

CHICAGO MILK RULING FOUGHT IN SUPREME COURT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15 (AP).—The government contended in the Supreme court today that the 1890 Sherman anti-trust act applied to the marketing of farm products and to labor organizations despite later legislation vesting certain powers in the agriculture department.

Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust enforcement, challenged a decision by the federal district court at Chicago that jurisdiction over farm products had been lodged completely with the secretary of agriculture. He also contended that only "normal" activities of labor organizations were exempt from the Sherman act.

The argument was made on an appeal from the Chicago court's dismissal of an anti-trust suit against milk dealers, a labor organization and a coöperative in the Chicago area. It was one of the government's major cases in its anti-trust campaign under the Sherman act, which forbids combinations in restraint of interstate trade.

Neutrality Act Clause Delays Plane Orders

Warplane orders from England and France were being held up by southern California aircraft manufacturers yesterday pending clarification by the state department of the "cash and carry" provision of the amended neutrality act. Representatives of five military aircraft producers were in Washington, D. C., thruout the day conferring with government officials.

Negotiations on a $24,000,000 order by England for 800 planes from the North American Aviation company were reported to have been set aside pending settlement of the "cash and carry" clause. The negotiations had been in progress in New York between English agents and representatives of the company.

Planes Await Shipment.

Twelve pursuit planes manufactured by North American for England rested on wharves at Los Angeles harbor while a British steamer stood by, awaiting orders to begin loading the shipment.

State department officials disclosed a number of licenses for war exports were being withheld pending further information from manufacturers as to their terms of sale to belligerents. Under the revised neutrality act, they said, manufacturers are required to furnish more information to obtain export licenses than was required under the previous act. Some manufacturers, they added, had not realized this.

Terms Are Explained.

A department spokesman said that "cash" to the department under the neutrality provisions means "cash at once," and "carry" means that no American ships can transport arms to a belligerent country. He said that hundreds of questions had been asked in recent weeks regarding interpretations of the neutrality act.

The Vultee aircraft division of the Aviation corporation announced it had been awarded a $1,000,000 order from the Republic of China. The order called for one attack bomber, a set of assembly jigs, and duralumin for twenty-five planes.

OIL SEIZURE CASE BEFORE MEXICAN SUPREME COURT

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 15 (AP).—An opinion upholding the right of the government to expropriate the big, foreign owned oil industry was submitted to the Mexican Supreme court today. It was uncertain how soon the court would vote on the opinion. Under Mexican jurisprudence one judge prepares an opinion which then is submitted for discussion and a formal vote by the entire court.

An official résumé of the opinion prepared by Justice Rodolfo Asiain upheld the constitutionality of the practice of expropriation and of the expropriatory decree in the oil case and insisted Mexico was obligated to compensate the oil companies only for capital invested for production, processing, and handling of oil. The opinion said the authorities executing the expropriation order, however, "gave the decree a scope which was not intended for it" in seizing records, archives, accounts, and cash.

Treasury Cuts Its Holdings of Government Securities

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15 (AP).—Government investment accounts in the treasury reduced their holdings of government securities by $1,201,000 during October. The same accounts had been substantial purchasers of government securities in September.

DEBATE STATE, FEDERAL RULE OF OIL BUSINESS

Advocates Advance Opposing Pleas.

The question as to whether the oil producing states or the federal government should regulate oil production was debated yesterday at the American Petroleum institute's meeting at the Stevens hotel. The principal speakers were Representative William P. Cole Jr. of Maryland, who presented an analysis of his bill proposing federal control of oil production, and Gov. Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma, who decried federal encroachment as a danger to democracy.

Gov. Leon C. Phillips.

With Gov. Horner contemplating important oil legislation in order to regulate the rapidly growing oil industry in Illinois, and the European war raising the world demand for oil, the debate drew a large audience of oil men to Chicago.

Cites Charges of Failure.

"There are those who believe that state regulation, after a reasonable period of trial, has failed in the matter of prevention of avoidable waste to the degree the nation should expect," Representative Cole declared. "Nor is it likely to prove effective in the future. But whether state regulation has failed to such an extent that the enactment of this legislation [creating a federal oil commissioner] is necessary is a question on which I express no opinion. Perhaps our committee will be able to form an opinion."

Right Is Recognized.

Cole admitted that the right of the states to control oil production has been recognized by the committee. He added: "We have felt that the problem is not too big for the states if they sincerely want to solve it. At the same time, the problem is not one which will tolerate trifling by the states."

He mentioned California and Illinois as states where many difficulties are attending attempts at state regulation. He asserted the recent discovery of oil in Nebraska might cause further trouble "because the state has not passed regulatory measures and is not likely to do so once the race of competitive drilling gets under way."

Gov. Phillips, in reply, pictured oil as perhaps America's healthiest industry and one which "never has sought a government subsidy." "Today the United States is the greatest oil producing nation on earth," he asserted. "Oil is plentiful. And by the courage of the small operator and the wildcatter, other vast stores of hidden wealth will be discovered."

Warning against federal encroachment, he said: "Altho Mr. Cole is the reputed author of the bill, I cannot refrain from calling your attention to the similarity between this bill and the act creating the National Labor Relations board. It provides that the rules of evidence of our courts shall not be controling in hearings before that board. It gives the board authority to make the charge, hear evidence under its own rules, and decree the punishment."

Chemistry and Not Economists Guide to Future, Says Dr. Hale

The conservative members of the Bond Club of Chicago were mildly startled yesterday by a forecast of the results to be expected from the chemical revolution of American industry. The forecast was made by Dr. William J. Hale, research consultant of the Dow Chemical company, who spoke at a luncheon of the bond men at the Union League club.

Dr. Hale got the close attention of the bond men with the following predictions:

1. That cotton will sell for 4 cents a pound when alpha cellulose, used to make synthetic yarns, will sell for 2 cents a pound. Sell your cotton, he warned.

Soy Bean to Play Part.

2. That steel in automobile bodies will be replaced by strong plastics. He said Henry Ford will be making automobile doors from soy bean plastics in 1941 models.

3. That a 10 billion dollar industry awaits when agrol or crude alcohol is utilized in motor fuel and in the production of buna, or artificial rubber.

4. That economists are what astrologers were in medieval times and don't know what the future will bring and know less about the present. He said economists were soothsayers who have no real conception of the wealth of tomorrow which chemistry will unfold.

Dr. Hale is a leading figure of the chemurgy movement in this country which is urging the increased use of farm products in industry. He said that four-fifths of agriculture can be diverted to industrial consumption and create a labor shortage within a year.

"Cost is not the important thing," he said. "My critics say that our chemical discoveries of synthetic products are too costly. The cost will be reduced with mass consumption."

Chemurgy, he said, refers to the utilization of the alcohol, cellulose and vegetable oils produced in plant life. He said the key to a new and improved economic world will be found in the return to the soil.

View on Foreign Trade.

Assailing the international traders, he said that trade between countries in the same latitude was "boobery" and a senseless shifting of products which should remain in each country.

"There is no reason why American farmers should not grow castor beans despite the department of agriculture," he said. "Why should we import those beans from Brazil? And why buy starch from Malay Islands when we can grow sweet potatoes in the south and obtain all the starch we need that way."

NORTH SHORE LINE BUYS TWO STREAMLINERS

The North Shore Line was authorized yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to purchase two electric four-car streamlined trains at a cost of $299,000. The trains are to be delivered by June 1, 1940, and will be used between Chicago and Milwaukee.

The trains will be capable of running 100 miles an hour in safety, it was said. They will be made of light weight steel. Eight motors will develop 1,000 horse power. Three of the units will be coaches, and the fourth a tavern car, containing an illuminated bar, tables, arm chairs, and sofas. Coach seats will be of tubular steel upholstered with mohair. Lighting arrangements thruout will be modern in design, with individual fixtures over each seat for reading.

Col. A. A. Sprague, receiver for the line, predicted the trains will result in increased revenues and lower operating costs. The contract was awarded to the St. Louis Car company. One-third of the purchase price will be paid in cash, and the remainder financed by receivers' certificates.

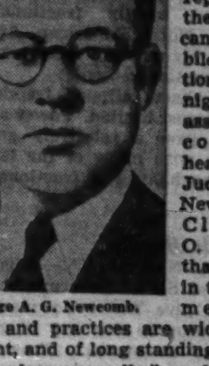
AUTO FINANCING EVILS BARED IN GROUP'S REPORT

Time Sale Practices Called 'Scandal.'

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 15.—"Evils amounting to a scandal" in the financing of automobiles and automobile accessories were reported to the American Automobile association here tonight by an association committee headed by Judge A. G. Newcomb of Cleveland, O. It said that abuses in time payment contracts and practices are widespread, flagrant, and of long standing.



Judge A. G. Newcomb.

"The law generally," reads the report, "is concerned more with the protection of the seller than of the purchaser. The documents used in the sale of automobiles and accessories are one sided instruments which provide full protection to the seller and practically none to the buyer.

Virtually Unregulated.

"While practically every other agency dealing in money—small loan companies, banks, insurance companies, stock brokers, and others—are subject to careful regulation, the business of financing automobiles is practically unregulated except in a few states.

"Incidentally, it should be noted that under many rulings by the courts, the finance charge is not considered to be interest; consequently tremendously high finance charges do not come within prohibitions of the usury statutes.

"Under these one-sided legal documents, a veritable hornet's nest of abuses have sprung up. Some of the Chicago—The Wonder City

"The victory of the South Park Commission's bond proposals is the biggest, finest and most far-reaching undertaking for the public good, Chicago has launched in its entire history."
Chas. H. Wacker, Chairman of the Chicago Plan Commission
February 25, 1920

EVERY Chicagoan has heard of the Chicago Plan, but few realize what it means. Its magnificence, completeness and beauty are almost beyond comprehension. When it is finished, Chicago, now so frequently maligned as a smoky, ill-kept and over-grown metropolis, will be one of the most beautiful cities in the world.

The Chicago Plan almost staggers the imagination, but the essential preliminaries have already been accomplished—the work is under way and who doubts that the vision, faith and intelligence of the people of Chicago will "finish the job."

Chicago, the Wonder City—The commercial progress of Chicago is one of the marvels of the century. In common with other financial institutions, the growth of the Harris Trust and Savings Bank is largely dependent on the growth of Chicago. And the growth of Chicago rests on the faith and vision of its citizens. In a series of advertisements, of which this is the First, we are trying to set forth a few of the achievements of this great city. Chicago will continue to contribute to the benefit of its citizens in proportion to their faith in its future.

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 15.—The stock market closed with gains and losses about equally divided today. Several attempts to maintain an upward trend after a generally higher opening fizzled. Expansion of offerings in late dealings virtually wiped out all of the advance made earlier.

A total of 264 issues closed higher, with 284 lower and 212 unchanged. Dealings continued restricted.

The market's dull performance was ascribed to the desire of most traders to stay out, pending a more definite trend. Public participation was negligible, brokers said.

Additional favorable business news was largely ignored, observers said. Foreign developments were regarded of little influence.

Most steel shares were on the upside, altho United States Steel slipped a fraction. Chrysler, up about a point at one time, dropped behind a minus sign. General Motors, selling ex-dividend, lost nearly a point. Other motors held close to previous finals.

Irregular price changes ruled in the copper, oil and merchandising sections. Airplane manufacturing issues closed mostly fractionally lower, altho North American Aviation pointed higher. Air transportation issues continued firm.

Most rail shares slipped fractionally, with interest limited. Power and light issues gave a relatively good performance, with many of the leaders closing unchanged to fractionally higher.

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 15 (AP).—A good rise in United States government issues helped give the bond market a build-up today in the face of general softness in stocks. Treasury bonds acted as if the moderate number of bids present exceeded the available supply. The best prices were recorded at the close, with the gains running to as much as 17-32ds points.

The continued rally in the federals naturally tended to broaden buying interest in the general run of low yield corporate loans and some of the leaders were bid up fractions to about a point. For other ratings demand was more selective.

Easing of the recent "scare" over a possible German invasion of Holland and Belgium was again reflected in a better demand and some good sized gains in bonds of various neutral nations of Europe. Finland 6s were prominent with a six point rise.

Chicago Stocks.

Altho sales continued light, most volume leaders advanced yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Gains of ⅛ to ½ point were marked up for Middle West, Berghoff, Aviation and Transportation, Utah Radio, Utility and Industrial common, and Heileman Brewing. On the down side were Commonwealth Edison, Swift, Rollins Hosiery, and Standard Oil [Ind.].

Gains and losses were evenly balanced among the 99 issues traded. Twenty-three issues closed unchanged. Volume was 22,000 shares.

Governors of the exchange approved the application of Asbestos Manufacturing company for listing of 17,200 additional shares of its $1 par value common stock.

Bank Stocks.

Five issues rose in active bank stock trading yesterday. Bid price of Continental Illinois gained two points to 88½. First National rose three points to 225. Other issues made gains of one point.

Commodities

Commodity trading was listless and price changes were small in New York futures markets yesterday. Interest was centered on a reduction in the refined sugar price to 4.90 cents a pound, and developments in the cocoa and rubber situations.

The cut in refined sugar amounted to .10 cent a pound, was the first change in price since Oct. 31, when refiners reduced the quotation ¼ cent to 5 cents. Sugar futures scarcely moved.

United States crude rubber consumption in October was estimated by the Rubber Manufacturers' Association, Inc., at 55,764 long tons, the largest for any month on record. This was 11.2 per cent above September consumption, and 30.1 per cent larger than in October, 1938.

Stocks on hand Oct. 31 were placed at only 133,183 long tons, compared with 150,171 at the end of September, and 259,074 on Oct. 31, 1938. Rubber futures declined .10 to .34 cents a pound.

Other London news included an announcement that a decision on wool export licenses will probably be made this week. Britain has allocated the entire Australian supply, part of which the United States usually buys to fill out home needs.

NO WAR BOOM, NO PRICE SPREE, EXPERTS AGREE

Empires Well Supplied, Say Economists.

BY REUBEN CAHN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 15.—There will not be any war boom. Prices will not soar in America.

Dr. Lionel D. Edie says history won't repeat.

This war, if it doesn't last more than a year or two, will not affect this country's industries and price level like the last war did. The solution for our depression will not be found in Europe's battlefields.

These were the conclusions of leading American economic and financial authorities who met at the Academy of Political Science here today. Their sets a record.

All Have Same Answer.

Dissidence among them is traditional. Give six economists a problem and you'll get 12 answers, two apiece, some one once said. But six economists came here today after working on a problem and they all had the same answer.

Dr. Lionel D. Edie, former professor of economics at the University of Chicago, and now a leading Wall street consultant, read a paper on the "Influence of War on Prices." His main conclusion was that altho war is historically associated with inflation of commodity prices, those who expect history to repeat this time are doomed to disappointment. Among the circumstances which will militate against a sharp rise in prices, Dr. Edie mentioned the following:

1. The belligerents are relying proportionately less on borrowing and printing press currency to finance their war and more on taxation.

Restriction on Buying.

2. In the world war, between July, 1914, and July, 1917, the allies bought 2½ billion dollars of our goods above what they could pay for, borrowing from us that balance. Now they can buy here only what they have the cash to pay for and can carry away.

Edie declared that we are making up in part for our unwillingness to lend them the money to buy from us, by paying them $35 an ounce for all the gold they can ship us.

3. The allies will have to buy less for a given expenditure of materials in the war, because from the very outbreak of hostilities they applied restrictions on civilian consumption, which were not applied until 1918 last time.

Empires Produce More.

4. The capacity of the British and French to produce goods and especially munitions is far greater than in the last war.

5. The world productive capacity of basic raw materials is much larger than last time.

6. We have a vast amount of surplus capacity to meet an increase in demand, should it develop, in our 10 million unemployed.

George O. May of Price-Waterhouse & Co. said that there was no basis for expecting a boom as a result of war purchases that would be made here in a short war. He forecast that the empires' purchases would be highly restricted in a war of two years' duration. He said that airplanes and internal combustion engines appeared to be the only things likely to be needed in any volume.

John D. Black, professor of agricultural economics at Harvard university and farm adviser to several presidents, said that farmers need not look to the war to make them better off. A continuance of the war in the next two years will not produce any substantial increase in farm exports, he said.

View on Long War.

If the war shows a prospect of lasting more than two years prices of farm prices will be in danger of rising unduly, Black believes.

Arthur A. Ballantine, undersecretary of the treasury in the Hoover administration, could see no recovery ahead despite war stimulus, because of the government's policy of deficit spending.

The United States should keep out of the war, encourage the sale of war supplies to Great Britain and France, and strengthen its economic and financial resources in order to be able to help make an enduring peace, according to Thomas W. Lamont, partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., and trustee of the Academy of Political Science. Lamont, who presided at an after-dinner discussion of "The War's Effect Upon America's Economy," said there could be no world political peace without world economic peace, and there could be no world economic stability without American coöperation.

Others who took part in today's meetings included W. Randolph Burgess, vice chairman of the board of the National City bank, and Prof. Sumner Schlister of Harvard university.

War Emphasizes Need to Solve Home Problems, Coonley Says

Howard Coonley.

The war in Europe has drawn the attention of the American business man away from domestic problems, Howard Coonley, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, told the Chicago Association of Commerce at a luncheon meeting at the Hotel La Salle yesterday. The war makes it more imperative that domestic problems be solved, he declared.

"I challenge any one," he said, "to show me a domestic problem that was crying for solution prior to Sept. 3 which is not as important, or more important, to us today."

Presents 6-Point Program.

In presenting a 6-point program for American industry, Coonley said that strengthening of the free enterprise system in America is one of the best ways to avoid being drawn into the war. He urged the following program as a means to that end:

1. Amendment of the Wagner labor relations act to insure "fair play" for all.

2. Removal of barriers to investment, in order that industry may expand and create more jobs.

3. Increased industrial production, which will mean more purchasing power for the individual.

5. An adequate national defense.

6. Industry must foster wide public understanding of the worth and manner of operation of the private enterprise system.

Must Begin at Home.

"Industry's program, in other words, begins at home," Coonley said.

He stated that so many officials of the National Association of Manufacturers have made speeches against war that he has been told "it sounds as though you were building an alibi."

The case is, he declared, that "the fundamental necessity is to save for America true democracy in government, of which the private enterprise system is an essential part." If the United States enters the war, shackles will be put on democracy and private enterprise which will in the end strangle both, he said.

Ballard said that only about 150 General Motors dealers out of the 50,000 in business during the period of alleged restraint of trade have testified in the present trial. This, he said, was not a sufficient number on which to base an opinion as to the true attitude of the dealer organization.

Denies Cancellation Charges.

He endeavored to show that General Motors did not cancel the contracts of any of its dealers because they did not do business with G. M. A. C. He declared that in every instance of contract cancellation the action was taken for cause. He defended the corporation's examination of dealers' books as necessary in the conduct of a business which requires two years of planning before the introduction of new model automobiles.

Ballard and Smith also attacked the government for including in its case events that took place in 1925 and before.

Baldridge reiterated his assertions that the sole objective of the government is to free General Motors dealers from coercion by the corporation. He said that the heart of the Sherman antitrust act is to insure that the small business man has a right to engage in business on a basis of free competition and without illegal restraints.

Denies Altruistic Aim.

He insisted that the primary purpose of G. M. A. C. was to make profits and not to act as an altruistic enterprise.

Defendants named in the indictment are: Sloan, chairman of the General Motors board; W. S. Knudsen, president of the corporation; George F. Benkhart, vice president of G. M. A. C.; Coyle, head of Chevrolet; James D. Deane, Nelson C. Dezendorf, and August Freise, all G. M. A. C. vice president; Richard Grant, vice president of General Motors in charge of sales; Roy Hill, Dallas regional manager for Chevrolet; W. E. Holler, Chevrolet general sales manager; W. F. Hufstader, Buick general sales manager, H. J. Klingler, head of Pontiac; Russell Lesher, Oldsmobile manager at Minneapolis; Ralph W. Moore of the G. M. A. C. Chicago branch; W. J. Mougey, Chicago Pontiac zone manager; John J. Schumann Jr., president of G. M. A. C., and G. I. Smith, Chevrolet regional manager at Chicago.

RECORD DROUTH CUTS NEBRASKA WHEAT OUTLOOK

Drouth conditions which embrace a large part of the wheat producing area west of the Missouri river showed little change during the last week, the weather bureau reported yesterday.

Winter wheat in Nebraska is in the worst condition in history at this time of year. A. C. Anderson, statistician for the Department of Agriculture, placed the condition at a maximum of 40 per cent of normal, and said that about 50 per cent of the wheat seeded in that state has not germinated.

Showers forecast by the weather bureau in parts of eastern Oklahoma and southeastern Kansas caused sell-Trade yesterday. The close was at the bottom.

Fractional declines were recorded by other grain futures, except for rye, which declined 1 to 1⅛ cents. Trading was light in all pits.

2 Eastern Roads Demand Return of 2 Ct. Coach Fare

New York, Nov. 15 [Special].—Traffic officials of the New York Central and Baltimore and Ohio railroads today renewed their demand that roads in the east return to a 2 cent a mile fare for coaches. The demand was presented at a meeting of railroad presidents. A 2 cent rate was put in effect by the Interstate Commerce commission in 1936, but was suspended on the petition of the eastern lines over the protest of the B. & O.

Great Northern Paper Co. Boosts Newsprint Price

New York, Nov. 15 (AP).—The Great Northern Paper company is notifying its customers a $1 a ton increase in newsprint prices will become effective on contracts for the first quarter of 1940 and on second quarter business another increase of $1 a ton, it was learned today. For the first quarter the price in New York will be boosted to $49 a ton. For the three months ended June 30 it will be $50 a ton.

AUTO FINANCING EVILS BARED IN GROUP'S REPORT

Time Payment Practices Termed 'Scandalous.'

less flagrant abuses are rather widely indulged in; the more reprehensible ones are confined to what might be termed a gyp fringe of the financing industry."

List Types of Abuses.

Types of abuses were listed and described in the report as follows:

Packing—The pack is usually known euphemistically as the dealer's reserve or bonus. It is simply an unwarranted profit spread between what the dealer must pay for the financing and what the customer is charged.

Repossession without notice—The finance company is under no obligation either to bill the purchaser or to notify him that his payment is overdue. Finance companies report repossessions to the police rather than to the person from whom the car has been taken.

Transfer without notice — The finance contract can be sold by one company to another without notifying the buyer. By shifting the paper around, the companies keep the buyer from knowing where to make payment and, as a result, he is forced into default. This is what is known as "kiting."

Describe "Balloon Notes."

Balloon notes—This is fraud pure and simple and is possible because purchasers frequently sign their contracts without reading them or before they have been filled out. The customer is told the payments will be, say, $10 a month for 11 months with the final payment slightly more. On the twelfth month he learns the final payment is $100 or whatever amount the finance company chooses to write in.

No allowance for anticipated payment—For payments in advance of date due, the finance company is under no obligation to refund any of its finance or insurance charge.

No grace for redemption—The finance company is under no obligation to allow a period of grace of even a day or two. In several cases reported, cars were repossessed even after company representatives in telephone conversations said grace would be granted.

Abuses in Insurance.

Insurance misrepresentation — A substantial portion of the finance charge is supposed to go for fire, theft, and collision insurance. In some cases the company does not bother to place any insurance. In others, the finance company gets a policy protecting itself but not the buyer. Under this single interest policy, after the insurance company has paid a loss to the finance company, it can sue the purchaser for this amount.

Accessory financing—Many people buy radios, tires, or batteries on time without realizing that in signing the note they have given a lien not just on the article purchased but on the entire automobile.

Fictitious sale—When a car has been repossessed, it is frequently disposed of at an absurdly low figure at a closed sale. The original purchaser thereupon is sued for the remainder of the balance due the finance company.

INSURANCE FIRM LEASES SPACE AT LA SALLE, ADAMS

The New York Life Insurance company yesterday leased the entire bank and mezzanine floors of the National Republic building at the northwest corner of La Salle and Adams streets, for 15 years beginning May 1, 1940. The terms were not disclosed.

The lessee will move its Illinois clearing house, now at 39 South La Salle street, in the New York Life building [to be renamed the 39 South La Salle building] to the new location next May.

Meanwhile the space leased will be remodeled and a year around air conditioning system installed at a reported cost of $50,000. Milton S. Carstens will be architect.

According to Leo Hogan of Hogan & Farwell, managing agents of the National Republic building, approximately 19,000 square feet of floor space will be occupied by the New York Life.

The insurance company maintains nine branch agencies in the loop. No change in location of these branches is contemplated at present, it was said.

The space leased originally was occupied by the Corn Exchange National bank and subsequently by the General Trust and the National Republic bank. It has been vacant since 1936. With the signing of yesterday's lease the building is reported 98 per cent rented.

The lessors are the estates of A. S. Trude and Mary K. Otis.

Save the Difference

Commonwealth's charge is less on all loans than the maximum permitted by law. Our monthly rate of 2½% on loan balances of $150 or less and only 2% on loan balances above applies to ALL TYPES AND CLASSES OF LOANS. Any one who can make regular payments can qualify; there is no discrimination. EVERYBODY GETS THIS SAME RATE. Of course, persons whose incomes are above average, can afford to make larger payments and thus make substantial reductions in their loan cost.

No credit inquiries of friends or relatives. Applications received by personal call, letter or telephone will receive immediate attention.

Local Loan Gives You SERVICE

Our aim is to offer you whatever plan will enable you to borrow most easily. LOCAL LOAN makes liberal Furniture and Auto Loans, but if you are steadily employed we prefer to make you a loan On Your Signature Only without mortgages or endorsers.

75% of our loans are Signature Only Loans to employed men and women. LOCAL LOAN originated and perfected this service because employed people—young or old and regardless of occupation—are entitled to a simplified loan method. You may obtain $25 to $300—

Salary Loans On Your Signature Only

You make your own repayment terms [repaying any time within 20 months], and you are charged only for the actual time you have the money.

When you deal with LOCAL LOAN you borrow without the knowledge of your employer, friends and relatives.

We cannot tell you all about our service in our advertisement. Just phone one of the following offices. Your loan request can be taken over the telephone so you can obtain the money more quickly when you call in person.

Residents of Illinois have benefited by this new "SPECIAL" Loan Plan.

As little as $2.00 to $2.26 a week repays in full, including all charges, a $150 loan over 20 months at America's largest loan company. No salary assignments.

$2.00 a week on the average is all you need to set aside for every $150 borrowed on Personal's new amazing "Special" loan plan of only 1½% per month on the actual balance owed. This plan is for persons with a steady income or salary sufficient to meet payments promptly without undue credit strain and a good credit record. You don't need co-makers, life insurance, or bankable securities.

For persons without established credit and employment ratings and who wish to carry a loan larger than 8 to 12% of annual salary or income, Personal offers its "Regular" loan plan. On this plan an average of $2.26 set aside per week takes care of everything on a $150 loan—the charge is based on 3% monthly on unpaid balances of $100 and less and 2% monthly on unpaid balances over $100.

Loans up to $300 on either plan on your personal note or with furniture or auto. Co-maker loans are also available on "Regular" plan. Seize this opportunity to save on loan costs. Come in or telephone today.
